Pact Ministers Defer Military Setup Decision

Other Units Will Study German Issue

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31 (AP) — France's old dread of German power tonight led North Atlantic defense ministers to postpone a decision on a combined army under a supreme commander to defend Western Europe against Communism.

Deadlocked on the issue of what Germany's role shall be in the historic new defense force, the defense ministers of 12 North Atlantic pact nations threw up their hands temporarily. They referred the matter to other North Atlantic treaty organizations, hoping for a quick decision.

The action spelled delay for the widely expected appointment of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower to the supreme command post.

U. S. Plan More Realistic

The deadlock arose over French insistence that Germans be used in the mutual defense force in only small units and under sweeping safeguards involving long steps toward federation of Europe.

The U. S. proposed what American officials consider a more realistic plan under present circumstances. It called for German units as large as divisions, and lacked the French idea of a supra-national assembly with powers over a combined European army.

Some onlookers saw in tonight's postponement evidence of a United States determination not to send an American to head Europe's defenses until what it considers a practical plan for the make-up of the defense army has been agreed on.

The defense ministers — Secretary of Defense Marshall and his European counterparts — referred the German issue to the Military Committee composed of military chiefs such as Gen. Omar N. Bradley, and to the Council of Deputies.

The defense ministers then adjourned, subject to recall by Secretary Marshall, their chairman.

Communique Issued

Marshall announced at a news conference immediately afterward that the Military Committee, composed of ranking military officers of the treaty nations, went into a preliminary meeting on its new assignment this evening. He said the Council of Deputies would have a preliminary report on it here tomorrow.

In a communique the defense ministers said they had reaffirmed the importance of a German contribution to increase defenses in Europe.

The communique said the ministers considered a U. S. plan to use German troops — which calls for German units as large as divisions — and the new French plan to use the smallest possible German units in a European army under a European defense minister responsible to a European assembly.

Probe-Shy Adonis Gives Himself Up

HACKENSACK, N. J., Oct. 31 (AP) — Joe Adonis, big-time racketeer who ducked a Senate crime committee bid to tell what he knows of the nation's underworld, gave himself up today to face New Jersey gambling charges.

The 48-year-old Adonis, alias Joseph Doto, alternately smiled and clammed his lips tightly together as he entered Bergen County Court to plead innocent to charges of conspiracy to violate state gambling laws.

Arraigned with the swarthy, conservatively-dressed Adonis was Salvatore Moretti, another reputed gambling kingpin. He also surrendered to answer the gambling charges which stem from a lavish, wide-open dice casino in nearby Lodi, some nine miles across the Hudson river from Manhattan. Moretti joined Adonis in maintaining innocence.

Judge J. Wallace Leyden released the pair in $15,000 bail each.

Less than two weeks ago Adonis was among the missing when U. S. Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn) sought to have the onetime overlord of Brooklyn's rackets testify before the Senate Crime Investigating Committee in New York City.

B-29s Home From Korea

MARCH AIRBASE, Calif., Oct. 31 (AP)—The first mass flight of Superforts from Korea returned today with this promise from its commander: "Blow the whistle and we'll be ready to go again."

The homecoming of the 11 giant B-29s was highlighted by a mixed reception of tears and happy greetings from wives and children of tired crews who flew in from Hawaii.

British Plane Crash Kills 28

Ship Strikes Pile Of Pipe In Heavy Fog

Two Survive Crash At London Airport

LONDON, Oct. 31 (AP)—A British European Airways plane hunting a safe haven crashed into a pile of pipe beyond the end of a runway at London airport tonight, killing 28 of the 30 persons aboard. Two of the dead were Americans.

BEA identified the Americans as Ernest Friedenheim, New York City, and P. Levy, North Winthrop, Chicago, Ill. A third person killed was Miss Judith Lauterbach, a British citizen, New York City.

Two survivors were found alive in the wreckage. They were identified as Stewardess Alice Steen and William Perkins, a passenger, both of London. Others killed were of French, British and Irish nationality, taking advantage of BEA's 10 pounds ($28) London to Paris "bargain" rate.

Second Crash In Two Weeks

The two-engine British European Airways Viking, carrying a crew of four and 26 passengers, was hunting a safe haven from ceiling zero fog. It had been en route from Paris to Northolt airport but had been diverted to London airport because of the weather.

Two weeks ago a BEA twin-engine Dakota crashed in this area and claimed the same number of lives. This plane hurtled into a London suburban back yard, killing 28 of the 29 aboard. The worst crash of the London district occurred in 1948, when a Swedish airliner and Royal Air Force transport collided, killing 39.

Parts of the plane were scattered over hundreds of yards. One of the plane's engines was found a quarter mile from the main debris. Rescue work was hampered by the heavy fog.

Heard Plane Coming Down

An airline employe, one of the first men to reach the scene, said:

"I was standing only 100 yards away. We heard it coming down and then there was a terrific crunch.

"The engine seemed to cut out and there was a horrible sound of crunching glass.

"I looked around for many minutes in the dense fog before I found the wreckage."

The plane crashed shortly after 8 p. m. (3 p. m. Eastern Standard Time). It was more than an hour before the 28 bodies were recovered.

Missing Teacher, Girl Still Sought

NAOMA, W. Va., Oct. 31 (AP) — A high school social science teacher still faced a kidnaping charge today in the disappearance of a former student he is reported to have married.

A sister of 17-year-old Ann Tabor, missing student nurse, said her family so far has no plans for withdrawing a kidnaping warrant against Lewis G. Daniel, 35, the divorced father of two children.

A telegram purportedly from Daniel to the missing Naoma girl's uncle, J. T. Jarrell, said the couple was married yesterday in Portsmouth, O., and left for Virginia. Their exact destination was not mentioned.

Authorities at Portsmouth said there was no record of a marriage license issued to the couple. West Virginia state police got similar reports from Kentucky counties across the river from Portsmouth.

State police noted that both Kentucky and Ohio have three-day waiting periods, and said that unless the couple obtained a license prior to Miss Tabor's disappearance, it is doubtful they could have been married in either state.

Palace Attacked In Puerto Rican Revolt

Two men lie sprawled on the pavement before the governor's palace in San Juan, Puerto Rico, after an attack on the building guards by anti-U. S. nationalist rebels. An eyewitness said five men approached the palace in a car (foreground) and killed one guard and wounded another. Four of the five rebels were killed and the other was wounded.

Valentine Says Economic Curbs May Last Years

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31 (AP) — The man charged with keeping the economy on an even keel advised Americans today to steel themselves for long years of a harder life while the nation builds up and maintains its armed strength.

"We need to formulate a program for defense production, not for four years but possibly for much longer," Economic Stabilization Director Alan Valentine said. Four years was the World War II emergency period.

Addressing the Women's National Press Club, he asked cooperation by all Americans.

"One thing is clear," he said, "to halt inflation is everyone's job. x x x Neither this agency (Valentine's ESA) nor any other under a free government can maintain economic stability unless the general program has the support of most Americans."

Valentine's idea that the job is a long one was echoed almost simultaneously in a Chicago luncheon speech by Claude A. Putnam, president of the National Association of Manufacturers. Putnam foresaw years as a "garrison state" for America. He said "the danger is that we will not — or will not be allowed to" operate efficiently at industry's task of production, economic expansion and prevention of inflation.

Valentine set out his views against a background of developments which made it plain the pressures of which he spoke are about to clamp down. Notable were:

1. An Agriculture Department forecast that food prices will push still higher next year, perhaps to the highest level ever. The effort was reinforced by speakers at an Agriculture Department conference who said clothing and building materials appear headed for higher prices too, and fuel is likely to be in tight supply.

2. Word from National Production Authority officials that cuts of 20 to 30 per cent in civilian use of copper, nickel and aluminum probably will be ordered within 10 days, effective Dec. 1. This would put brakes on output of such things as radio and television sets, washing machines, refrigerators and automobiles.

John L. Lewis Making New Raids On AFL, Petrillo Says

NEW YORK, Oct. 31 (AP) — James C. Petrillo, president of the American Federation of Musicians (AFL), today accused John L. Lewis of "further raids on the AFL through his organization the United Mine Workers Union District 50."

District 50 of the UMW takes in fields other than coal mining.

In a statement, Petrillo said at his office today that the miners are entitled to far better protection than they get from "such a man as Lewis."

Petrillo said, however, that Lewis never has attempted any raids on the American Federation of Musicians.

"Lewis," he said, "only uses the miners as a springboard to grab publicity for himself." He added: "I defy him (Lewis) to open the secret ballots on which he was elected president of the mine workers. He could not be elected unless he had appointed 75 per cent of the delegates participating in the balloting. I defy him to give local autonomy to 75 per cent of his locals."

Lewis' Washington office reported the UMW leader was traveling in the Midwest and was not available for comment. However, an UMW official who asked to remain anonymous commented that Petrillo "might look into the democracy of his own union."

This spokesman said that UMW presidents are elected by referenda of the membership, and not by delegates to a convention, "unlike the musicians union."

Halloween Heat Records Tumble

[By The Associated Press]

It was the hottest Halloween in history Tuesday over much of eastern two thirds of the nation.

There wasn't a frost covered pumpkin from Eastern Colorado and Central New Mexico to the Atlantic seaboard. Instead, most of this broad 2,000-mile expanse broiled in summer-like heat.

Heat records for the date were shattered in scores of cities in the plateau states, Eastern Rockies, Great Plains, Midwest, and East.

Ex-Mate Of Late FDR's Daughter Leaps To Death

NEW YORK, Oct. 31 (AP)—John Boettiger, the late President Roosevelt's former son-in-law, killed himself today in a seven-story leap from his hotel room window. He suffered a nervous breakdown a week ago.

Tall, handsome Boettiger, 50, whose White House romance with Roosevelt's only daughter, Anna, blossomed into marriage and a decade of husband-wife teamwork in newspaper publishing, had entered the publicity business a year ago. An associate said Boettiger may have been depressed over his change from newspaper to publicity work.

He and Anna were divorced in 1949 after their up-and-down 14 years of newspapering together in Seattle, Wash. and Phoenix, Ariz., with time out for his wartime tour of duty in the Army.

After their divorce, Boettiger remarried. His attractive widow, the former Mrs. Virginia Daly Lunn, Phoenix, arrived here by air a few hours after the death leap. On learning the news, she screamed, "Oh, no! Oh, no!" and all but collapsed on an airport ramp.

She had made her flying trip here from the west coast after learning that Boettiger three days ago took an overdose of sleeping pills and had to be revived by a physician.

U. S. May Halt Dollar Gifts To Great Britain

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31 (AP)—The United States may put a stop to its Marshall Plan dollar gifts to Great Britain.

This was indicated in a statement today by Marshall Plan Administrator William C. Foster. He made it plain, however, that dollar grants might be resumed if Britain's improving economic conditions take a turn for the worse.

Britain has received $2,711,153,000 from this country since the Marshall Plan for European rehabilitation began April 3, 1948.

Coffee Drinking Target Of Chain Letter Drive

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31 (AP) — A chain letter campaign against coffee drinking was reported under way in many states today.

The staff of a Senate Agriculture subcommittee said it apparently was begun by housewives trying to promote a "strike" against use of coffee until prices come down.

GOP, Democrats Open Final Drive To Sway Voters

[By The Associated Press]

Leaders of both major parties opened the throttle yesterday in a final week drive to sway the voters in next Tuesday's election of a new Congress and of 32 state governors.

Democratic National Chairman William M. Boyle, Jr., led off for his party with a broadcast speech that will be followed on Saturday night by President Truman's campaign broadcast from St. Louis.

Gabrielson In West Virginia

For the Republicans, who say they haven't the money to match the Democrats' radio time, National Chairman Guy George Gabrielson speaks tonight at Charleston, W. Va., and continues on Thursday a border state swing that will take him into Kentucky.

Each side was making the usual victory claim although contests looked so close in a number of states that a slight swing of voter sentiment either way could be decisive.

Rep. Michael J. Kirwan of Ohio, chairman of the Democratic National Congressional Committee, predicted a "decisive" Democratic victory on the basis of "a careful survey of every district in the U. S. where there is any reason to believe there is a close contest."

Conflicting Forecasts

Kirwan said the Democrats not only will hold their present House majority but also stand "an excellent chance of reversing previous off-year election trends by increasing our Democratic membership."

The corresponding Republican group forecast an exactly opposite result last week. It said the GOP definitely would increase its strength and might capture 55 or 60 Democratic seats, enough to take control of the House.

Democrats now hold a 259-169 margin in the House. Their Senate edge is 54 to 42.

U. S. Steel Earnings Highest Since 1917

NEW YORK, Oct. 31 (AP)—United States Steel Corp. reported its highest nine-months earnings since 1917 today and directors ordered an increased distribution of the profits to the company's approximately 245,000 stockholders.

Holders of common stock of the nation's No. 1 steel producer will be paid $1.50 a share Dec. 9, representing a 75-cent dividend and a special payment of 75 cents. Participating will be holders of record Nov. 10.

Net income of U. S. Steel for the nine months ended Sept. 30 was reported at $178,821,540, equal to $6.12 a common share. This was the largest profit for a similar period since the corporation earned $180,304,000 in the first three quarters of 1917.

Austin Fights For Extension Of Lie's Term

Vishinsky Blasts Lie As U. S. 'Stooge'

NEW YORK, Oct. 31 (AP)—Warren R. Austin fought today to extend Secretary-General Trygve Lie's term for three years as a sign of U. N. unity against aggression. Andrei Y. Vishinsky countered with a denunciation of Lie as an American "stooge" and declared the Soviet Union would not recognize Lie nor deal with him if he is maintained in office.

The fight took place in the 60-nation General Assembly. Lie, who usually sits on the rostrum during sessions, left his seat when the debate began. He spent the remainder of the day at his home.

U. S. Delegate Austin told the Assembly that Lie was vetoed in the Security Council by the Russians to punish him for carrying out Security Council decisions to resist aggression in Korea. The U. S. and 14 other countries have put a resolution before the Assembly to add three years to Lie's term which ends next Feb. 2.

"The veto was not employed because Mr. Lie had been incompetent, timid, or derelict in his duty," Austin said. "It was employed because his actions, in response to the expressed wish of 53 member states, did not conform to the national policies of one of the permanent members (Russia)."

"We cannot permit our efforts (for peace through collective security) to be undermined, sabotaged, or attacked indirectly by a veto of the man who had the courage to take his stand against aggression in Korea on the 25th of June," Austin said.

Soviet Delegate Vishinsky attacked the resolution for an extension of Lie's term as a violation of the Charter; said there could be no action in the Assembly because the Security Council has not made a recommendation, and then turned his guns on Lie.

U. N. Unit Votes To Ease Franco Ban

LAKE SUCCESS, Oct. 31 (AP)—The U. N. Special Political Committee voted today to give a measure of United Nations membership to Franco Spain.

Rejecting Soviet charges that the move was in line with United States military designs on Spain, the committee approved a Latin American resolution allowing Spain to belong to such special U. N. agencies as the world health organization.

The roll call vote was 37 in favor, 10 against and 12 abstentions.

The resolution which now goes to the General Assembly where it is assured a two-thirds majority, also rescinds the 1946 U. N. recommendation that all member countries withdraw their top ambassadors from Madrid.

Sen. John J. Sparkman (D-Ala), U. S. delegate, emphasized in supporting the resolution today that the U. S. backing "does not constitute any approval of the policies or practices of the Spanish government."

3 Killed When Plane Crashes Into Houses

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Oct. 31 (AP)—A small sports plane crashed into a group of houses near the city limits today, killing its three occupants.

Three homes were gutted by flames that spread when the plane exploded. Sheriff's deputies said all residents managed to reach safety.

"Kid Soldier," 19, Killed After 5 Years In Uniform

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Oct. 31 (AP)—Five years in uniform has ended for Bob Shaw, the "kid soldier with the big grin."

A lanky, six-foot tall youth, Bob had hung around the Huntington armory until officers accepted his story that he was nearly 17.

In truth, he was 14, but he was admitted to the West Virginia State Guard. That was in 1945, while he was still in junior high school.

Then when the state unit was dissolved in 1947 and the National Guard revived, Bob signed up.

He was the envy of his classmates in high school. Every time there was a military funeral or other military duty to perform, Bob was let out to attend.

"He never had any wish but to be a soldier," said his mother, Mrs. L. O. Johnson.

Bob enlisted in the regular army in 1948, and later that year was shipped to Tokyo, assigned to the First Cavalry Division.

Last January, about the time he turned 19 and now risen in the ranks, he sent his mother a photograph, with a prideful notation:

"My self and Gen. Palmer when I made 'Soldier of the Week' two weeks ago."

That was before Korea.

His mother has other letters from the boy whose whole life was soldiering, some of them mud-smeared as if written in a foxhole, but all of them cheerful.

Today, Mrs. Johnson received a notice from the Defense Department:

"We regret to inform x x x ."

Nearly five years of military service had come to an end. At the age of 19, Sgt. Robert E. Shaw was killed in action.

Big Power System May Explain China Aid To Korea Reds

HAMHUNG, Korea, Oct. 31 (AP)—The great hydro-electric complex at Changjin (Chosin) and Pujon (Fusen) offers the probable explanation why Chinese Communists have committed forces in this area.

The 10th U. S. Army Corps has confirmed that one Chinese Communist regiment is in the area. South Korean army officers say two Chinese divisions have been committed.

Pujon and Changjin reservoirs make up a power system which feeds both North Korea's devastated heavy industry and Manchurian border area plants. So far as is known here, the elaborate system of dams and generators still is intact.

New Violence Ups Death Toll In Puerto Rico

32 Dead; Troops Retake Two Towns

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico, Oct. 31 (AP)—A gun battle with barricaded anti-United States nationalists erupted in San Juan tonight. One man was killed and five persons wounded, including two children.

This was the latest violence in the revolt set off by the nationalists yesterday. It brought to 32 the number of Puerto Ricans killed in rioting and bloodshed that spread through 10 Puerto Rican centers. Gov. Luis Munoz Marin described the revolt as a "conspiracy against democracy, helped by the Communists," and said it would be stamped out in a day or two.

Today national guard troops smashed at the rebels with planes and tanks and drove them out of two strongholds outside of San Juan.

Two Towns Recaptured

Shortly after dusk a group of nationalists barricaded themselves in a barber shop in the Barrio Obrero (working class) section of San Juan. A gun battle developed. The barber shop owner was shot to death. The children wounded were among spectators. Others wounded were two national guardsmen and a civilian.

Striking at dawn, troops armed with machine guns, bazookas and tanks, recaptured Jayuya, 50 miles southwest of San Juan, and the neighboring town of Utuado. Fighter planes strafed the rebels. The rebels had seized control of the two towns last night after bombing police stations, killing some policemen and setting many fires.

A police recount of casualties said 32 persons had been killed and 40 wounded in the rebellion. The dead included 21 nationalists, nine policemen, and one national guardsmen.

Revolt, Prison Break Linked

By afternoon, guardsmen were patroling the two towns, with the last pocket of resistance apparently wiped out. Jayuya looked as though an earthquake had struck it. Several blocks were destroyed and most of the other buildings in the town of 1,500 were charred by fire.

Continued scattered reports of shootings in San Juan and other parts of this U. S. island territory of 2,149,000 persons in the Caribbean made it difficult to estimate the total casualties since the uprising started yesterday morning.

Munoz said today that the revolt was definitely connected with, and probably sparked by, the island's worst prison break Saturday, when 111 inmates escaped from Rio Piedras prison 10 miles from San Juan.

U. S. Armored Unit 32 Miles From Border

Attack Will Test China Red Strength

SEOUL, Wednesday, Nov. 1 (AP)—A lightning dash by an American column up North Korean's west coast to the Manchurian border was halted last night by a savage Red counterattack.

The Reds stopped an armored column of the U. S. 24th Division 32 miles short of its border objective and prevented the column from making an intended all-night advance. It planned to return to the attack today.

On the northeast coast of Korea, where another American column was within 51 miles of the border, Maj. Gen. Edward M. Almond said his 10th Army Corps would attack soon in strength to determine just how many Chinese Communist reinforcements stand in the way.

The Red counterattack in the northwest, which cost the enemy 100 casualties, was made northwest of Chongju, captured Monday by the British Commonwealth 27th Brigade.

On the right flank of the U. S. 24th Division, where one South Korean division was cut to pieces last week, there were fresh reports today of Red activity. The South Korean First Division beat off the sixth strong Communist counterattack in the past 48 hours near Unsan. It is 37 miles northeast of Chongju.

A First Division spokesman said that 1,000 Reds on horseback were reported moving south on a road toward Unsan.

For the second night in a row, enemy planes appeared over an area to the immediate rear of fighting in the northwest. No bombs were dropped last night. A few fell the night before. The Reds claimed in a communique that the raiders wrecked vital bridges.

American planes were out in force but ground support was hampered by smoke rolling up from fires set by artillery shells in the wooded hills.

Gen. Almond disclosed that at least one Chinese Red regiment had marched to within 15 miles of the important industrial center of Hamhung on the east coast.

In a statement at Hamhung he indicated that a strong U. N. attack would be delivered "in the next few days" to determine if two Chinese Red divisions are supporting the Red attack. Prisoners have said two Chinese divisions have moved into Northeast Korea.

A tank column of the U. S. 24th Division advanced 24 miles beyond Chongju Tuesday.

Field dispatches said the column reached a point only 32 miles away from Sinuiju, on the Yalu river, across from the Chinese city of Antung.

The column was ordered by Maj. Gen. John H. Church, division commander, to continue rolling Tuesday night to keep the Reds off balance.

On the northeast front, a column of the U. S. 7th Division raced through light opposition for the interior Manchurian border town of Hyesanjin. These Americans and Korean troops landed Sunday at Iwon, and took off on a northwest tangent leading away from the Sea of Japan coastline.

Aerial reports to the U. S. Eighth Army headquarters said the 7th Division column reached Pungsan Tuesday, a gain of 52 road miles since Sunday. At Pungsan they were 51 road miles south of the border.

NPA Eases Up Building Policy

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31 (AP)—The National Production Authority, in the face of protests from the building industry, today backed down on its threat to halt future non-defense building even if construction has been started.

The action followed vigorous protests from the Associated General Contractors of America, whose managing director, H. E. Foreman, said one clause of NPA's ban on construction of amusement places was more drastic than "anything in World War II".

The provision in question declared that NPA will follow the policy, whenever necessary in the defense effort, of banning non-essential construction "even though its commencement at the present time is not forbidden."

NPA Administrator William H. Harrison today declared the agency "has no intention of adopting a policy of halting construction which may then be under way."

The disputed section of the regulation has been amended, Harrison said.

John L. Lewis Making New Raids On AFL, Petrillo Says

NEW YORK, Oct. 31 (AP) — James C. Petrillo, president of the American Federation of Musicians (AFL), today accused John L. Lewis of "further raids on the AFL through his organization the United Mine Workers Union District 50."

District 50 of the UMW takes in fields other than coal mining.

In a statement, Petrillo said at his office today that the miners are entitled to far better protection than they get from "such a man as Lewis."

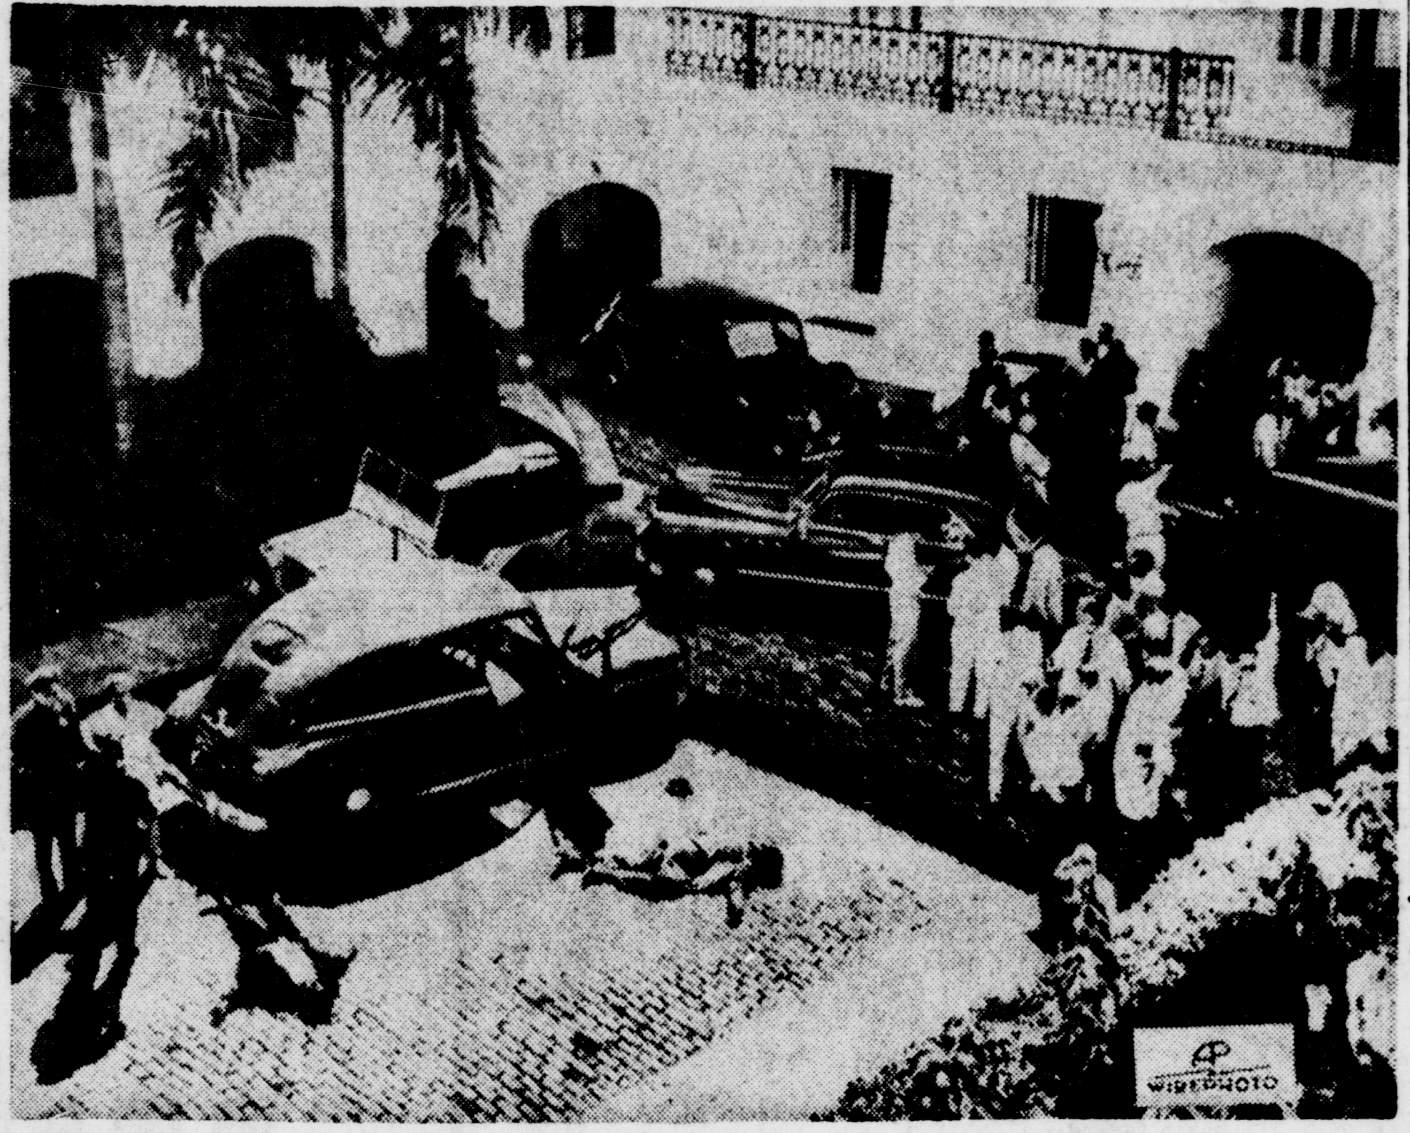
Petrillo said, however, that Lewis never has attempted any raids on the American Federation of Musicians.

"Lewis," he said, "only uses the miners as a springboard to grab publicity for himself." He added:

"I defy him (Lewis) to open the secret ballots on which he was elected president of the mine workers. He could not be elected unless he had appointed 75 per cent of the delegates participating in the balloting. I defy him to give local autonomy to 75 per cent of his locals."

Lewis' Washington office reported the UMW leader was traveling in the Midwest and was not available for comment. However, an UMW official who asked to remain anonymous commented that Petrillo "might look into the democracy of his own union."

This spokesman said that UMW presidents are elected by referenda of the membership, and not by delegates to a convention, "unlike the musicians union."



Palace Attacked In Puerto Rican Revolt

Two men lie sprawled on the pavement before the governor's palace in San Juan, Puerto Rico, after an attack on the building guards by anti-U. S. nationalist rebels. An eyewitness said five men approached the palace in a car (foreground) and killed one guard and wounded another. Four of the five rebels were killed and the other was wounded.

Valentine Says Economic Curbs May Last Years

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31 (AP) — The man charged with keeping the economy on an even keel advised Americans today to steel themselves for long years of a harder life while the nation builds up and maintains its armed strength.

"We need to formulate a program for defense production, not for four years but possibly for much longer," Economic Stabilization Director Alan Valentine said. Four years was the World War II emergency period.

Addressing the Women's National Press Club, he asked cooperation by all Americans.

"One thing is clear," he said, "to halt inflation is everyone's job. x x x Neither this agency (Valentine's ESA) nor any other under a free government can maintain economic stability unless the general program has the support of most Americans."

Valentine's idea that the job is a long one was echoed almost simultaneously in a Chicago luncheon speech by Claude A. Putnam, president of the National Association of Manufacturers. Putnam foresaw years as a "garrison state" for America. He said "the danger is that we will not — or will not be allowed to" operate efficiently at industry's task of production, economic expansion and prevention of inflation.

Valentine set out his views against a background of developments which made it plain the pressures of which he spoke are about to clamp down. Notable were:

1. An Agriculture Department forecast that food prices will push still higher next year, perhaps to the highest level ever. The effort was reinforced by speakers at an Agriculture Department conference who said clothing and building materials appear headed for higher prices too, and fuel is likely to be in tight supply.

2. Word from National Production Authority officials that cuts of 20 to 30 per cent in civilian use of copper, nickel and aluminum probably will be ordered within 10 days, effective Dec. 1. This would put brakes on output of such things as radio and television sets, washing machines, refrigerators and automobiles.

Halloween Heat Records Tumble

[By The Associated Press]

It was the hottest Halloween in history Tuesday over much of eastern two thirds of the nation.

There wasn't a frost covered pumpkin from Eastern Colorado and Central New Mexico to the Atlantic seaboard. Instead, most of this broad 2,000-mile expanse broiled in summer-like heat.

Heat records for the date were shattered in scores of cities in the plateau states, Eastern Rockies, Great Plains, Midwest, and East.

Ex-Mate Of Late FDR's Daughter Leaps To Death

NEW YORK, Oct. 31 (AP)—John Boettiger, the late President Roosevelt's former son-in-law, killed himself today in a seven-story leap from his hotel room window. He suffered a nervous breakdown a week ago.

Tall, handsome Boettiger, 50, whose White House romance with Roosevelt's only daughter, Anna, blossomed into marriage and a decade of husband-wife teamwork in newspaper publishing, had entered the publicity business a year ago. An associate said Boettiger may have been depressed over his change from newspaper to publicity work.

He and Anna were divorced in 1949 after their up-and-down 14 years of newspapering together in Seattle, Wash. and Phoenix, Ariz., with time out for his wartime tour of duty in the Army.

After their divorce, Boettiger remarried. His attractive widow, the former Mrs. Virginia Daly Lunn, Phoenix, arrived here by air a few hours after the death leap. On learning the news, she screamed, "Oh, no! Oh, no!" and all but collapsed on an airport ramp.

She had made her flying trip here from the west coast after learning that Boettiger three days ago took an overdose of sleeping pills and had to be revived by a physician.

U. S. May Halt Dollar Gifts To Great Britain

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31 (AP)—The United States may put a stop to its Marshall Plan dollar gifts to Great Britain.

This was indicated in a statement today by Marshall Plan Administrator William C. Foster. He made it plain, however, that dollar grants might be resumed if Britain's improving economic conditions take a turn for the worse.

Britain has received $2,711,153,000 from this country since the Marshall Plan for European rehabilitation began April 3, 1948.

Coffee Drinking Target Of Chain Letter Drive

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31 (AP) — A chain letter campaign against coffee drinking was reported under way in many states today.

The staff of a Senate Agriculture subcommittee said it apparently was begun by housewives trying to promote a "strike" against use of coffee until prices come down.

GOP, Democrats Open Final Drive To Sway Voters

[By The Associated Press]

Leaders of both major parties opened the throttle yesterday in a final week drive to sway the voters in next Tuesday's election of a new Congress and of 32 state governors.

Democratic National Chairman William M. Boyle, Jr., led off for his party with a broadcast speech that will be followed on Saturday night by President Truman's campaign broadcast from St. Louis.

Gabrielson In West Virginia

For the Republicans, who say they haven't the money to match the Democrats' radio time, National Chairman Guy George Gabrielson speaks tonight at Charleston, W. Va., and continues on Thursday a border state swing that will take him into Kentucky.

Each side was making the usual victory claim although contests looked so close in a number of states that a slight swing of voter sentiment either way could be decisive.

Rep. Michael J. Kirwan of Ohio, chairman of the Democratic National Congressional Committee, predicted a "decisive" Democratic victory on the basis of "a careful survey of every district in the U. S. where there is any reason to believe there is a close contest."

Conflicting Forecasts

Kirwan said the Democrats not only will hold their present House majority but also stand "an excellent chance of reversing previous off-year election trends by increasing our Democratic membership."

The corresponding Republican group forecast an exactly opposite result last week. It said the GOP definitely would increase its strength and might capture 55 or 60 Democratic seats, enough to take control of the House.

Democrats now hold a 259-169 margin in the House. Their Senate edge is 54 to 42.

U. S. Steel Earnings Highest Since 1917

NEW YORK, Oct. 31 (AP)—United States Steel Corp. reported its highest nine-months earnings since 1917 today and directors ordered an increased distribution of the profits to the company's approximately 245,000 stockholders.

Holders of common stock of the nation's No. 1 steel producer will be paid $1.50 a share Dec. 9, representing a 75-cent dividend and a special payment of 75 cents. Participating will be holders of record Nov. 10.

Net income of U. S. Steel for the nine months ended Sept. 30 was reported at $178,821,540, equal to $6.12 a common share. This was the largest profit for a similar period since the corporation earned $180,304,000 in the first three quarters of 1917.

Austin Fights For Extension Of Lie's Term

Vishinsky Blasts Lie As U. S. 'Stooge'

NEW YORK, Oct. 31 (AP)—Warren R. Austin fought today to extend Secretary-General Trygve Lie's term for three years as a sign of U. N. unity against aggression. Andrei Y. Vishinsky countered with a denunciation of Lie as an American "stooge" and declared the Soviet Union would not recognize Lie nor deal with him if he is maintained in office.

The fight took place in the 60-nation General Assembly. Lie, who usually sits on the rostrum during sessions, left his seat when the debate began. He spent the remainder of the day at his home.

U. S. Delegate Austin told the Assembly that Lie was vetoed in the Security Council by the Russians to punish him for carrying out Security Council decisions to resist aggression in Korea. The U. S. and 14 other countries have put a resolution before the Assembly to add three years to Lie's term which ends next Feb. 2.

"The veto was not employed because Mr. Lie had been incompetent, timid, or derelict in his duty," Austin said. "It was employed because his actions, in response to the expressed wish of 53 member states, did not conform to the national policies of one of the permanent members (Russia)."

"We cannot permit our efforts (for peace through collective security) to be undermined, sabotaged, or attacked indirectly by a veto of the man who had the courage to take his stand against aggression in Korea on the 25th of June," Austin said.

Soviet Delegate Vishinsky attacked the resolution for an extension of Lie's term as a violation of the Charter; said there could be no action in the Assembly because the Security Council has not made a recommendation, and then turned his guns on Lie.

U. N. Unit Votes To Ease Franco Ban

LAKE SUCCESS, Oct. 31 (AP)—The U. N. Special Political Committee voted today to give a measure of United Nations membership to Franco Spain.

Rejecting Soviet charges that the move was in line with United States military designs on Spain, the committee approved a Latin American resolution allowing Spain to belong to such special U. N. agencies as the world health organization.

The roll call vote was 37 in favor, 10 against and 12 abstentions.

The resolution which now goes to the General Assembly where it is assured a two-thirds majority, also rescinds the 1946 U. N. recommendation that all member countries withdraw their top ambassadors from Madrid.

Sen. John J. Sparkman (D-Ala), U. S. delegate, emphasized in supporting the resolution today that the U. S. backing "does not constitute any approval of the policies or practices of the Spanish government."

3 Killed When Plane Crashes Into Houses

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Oct. 31 (AP)—A small sports plane crashed into a group of houses near the city limits today, killing its three occupants.

Three homes were gutted by flames that spread when the plane exploded. Sheriff's deputies said all residents managed to reach safety.

Big Power System May Explain China Aid To Korea Reds

HAMHUNG, Korea, Oct. 31 (AP)—The great hydro-electric complex at Changjin (Chosin) and Pujon (Fusen) offers the probable explanation why Chinese Communists have committed forces in this area.

The 10th U. S. Army Corps has confirmed that one Chinese Communist regiment is in the area. South Korean army officers say two Chinese divisions have been committed.

Pujon and Changjin reservoirs make up a power system which feeds both North Korea's devastated heavy industry and Manchurian border area plants. So far as is known here, the elaborate system of dams and generators still is intact.

New Violence Ups Death Toll In Puerto Rico

32 Dead; Troops Retake Two Towns

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico, Oct. 31 (AP)—A gun battle with barricaded anti-United States nationalists erupted in San Juan tonight. One man was killed and five persons wounded, including two children.

This was the latest violence in the revolt set off by the nationalists yesterday. It brought to 32 the number of Puerto Ricans killed in rioting and bloodshed that spread through 10 Puerto Rican centers. Gov. Luis Munoz Marin described the revolt as a "conspiracy against democracy, helped by the Communists," and said it would be stamped out in a day or two.

Today national guard troops smashed at the rebels with planes and tanks and drove them out of two strongholds outside of San Juan.

Two Towns Recaptured

Shortly after dusk a group of nationalists barricaded themselves in a barber shop in the Barrio Obrero (working class) section of San Juan. A gun battle developed. The barber shop owner was shot to death. The children wounded were among spectators. Others wounded were two national guardsmen and a civilian.

Striking at dawn, troops armed with machine guns, bazookas and tanks, recaptured Jayuya, 50 miles southwest of San Juan, and the neighboring town of Utuado. Fighter planes strafed the rebels. The rebels had seized control of the two towns last night after bombing police stations, killing some policemen and setting many fires.

A police recount of casualties said 32 persons had been killed and 40 wounded in the rebellion. The dead included 21 nationalists, nine policemen, and one national guardsmen.

Revolt, Prison Break Linked

By afternoon, guardsmen were patroling the two towns, with the last pocket of resistance apparently wiped out. Jayuya looked as though an earthquake had struck it. Several blocks were destroyed and most of the other buildings in the town of 1,500 were charred by fire.

Continued scattered reports of shootings in San Juan and other parts of this U. S. island territory of 2,149,000 persons in the Caribbean made it difficult to estimate the total casualties since the uprising started yesterday morning.

Munoz said today that the revolt was definitely connected with, and probably sparked by, the island's worst prison break Saturday, when 111 inmates escaped from Rio Piedras prison 10 miles from San Juan.

"Kid Soldier," 19, Killed After 5 Years In Uniform

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Oct. 31 (AP)—Five years in uniform has ended for Bob Shaw, the "kid soldier with the big grin."

A lanky, six-foot tall youth, Bob had hung around the Huntington armory until officers accepted his story that he was nearly 17.

In truth, he was 14, but he was admitted to the West Virginia State Guard. That was in 1945, while he was still in junior high school.

Then when the state unit was dissolved in 1947 and the National Guard revived, Bob signed up.

He was the envy of his classmates in high school. Every time there was a military funeral or other military duty to perform, Bob was let out to attend.

"He never had any wish but to be a soldier," said his mother, Mrs. L. O. Johnson.

Bob enlisted in the regular army in 1948, and later that year was shipped to Tokyo, assigned to the First Cavalry Division.

Last January, about the time he turned 19 and now risen in the ranks, he sent his mother a photograph, with a prideful notation:

"My self and Gen. Palmer when I made 'Soldier of the Week' two weeks ago."

That was before Korea.

His mother has other letters from the boy whose whole life was soldiering, some of them mud-smeared as if written in a foxhole, but all of them cheerful.

Today, Mrs. Johnson received a notice from the Defense Department:

"We regret to inform x x x ."

Nearly five years of military service had come to an end. At the age of 19, Sgt. Robert E. Shaw was killed in action.

U. S. Armored Unit 32 Miles From Border

Attack Will Test China Red Strength

SEOUL, Wednesday, Nov. 1 (AP)—A lightning dash by an American column up North Korean's west coast to the Manchurian border was halted last night by a savage Red counterattack.

The Reds stopped an armored column of the U. S. 24th Division 32 miles short of its border objective and prevented the column from making an intended all-night advance. It planned to return to the attack today.

On the northeast coast of Korea, where another American column was within 51 miles of the border, Maj. Gen. Edward M. Almond said his 10th Army Corps would attack soon in strength to determine just how many Chinese Communist reinforcements stand in the way.

The Red counterattack in the northwest, which cost the enemy 100 casualties, was made northwest of Chongju, captured Monday by the British Commonwealth 27th Brigade.

On the right flank of the U. S. 24th Division, where one South Korean division was cut to pieces last week, there were fresh reports today of Red activity. The South Korean First Division beat off the sixth strong Communist counterattack in the past 48 hours near Unsan. It is 37 miles northeast of Chongju.

A First Division spokesman said that 1,000 Reds on horseback were reported moving south on a road toward Unsan.

For the second night in a row, enemy planes appeared over an area to the immediate rear of fighting in the northwest. No bombs were dropped last night. A few fell the night before. The Reds claimed in a communique that the raiders wrecked vital bridges.

American planes were out in force but ground support was hampered by smoke rolling up from fires set by artillery shells in the wooded hills.

Gen. Almond disclosed that at least one Chinese Red regiment had marched to within 15 miles of the important industrial center of Hamhung on the east coast.

In a statement at Hamhung he indicated that a strong U. N. attack would be delivered "in the next few days" to determine if two Chinese Red divisions are supporting the Red attack. Prisoners have said two Chinese divisions have moved into Northeast Korea.

A tank column of the U. S. 24th Division advanced 24 miles beyond Chongju Tuesday.

Field dispatches said the column reached a point only 32 miles away from Sinuiju, on the Yalu river, across from the Chinese city of Antung.

The column was ordered by Maj. Gen. John H. Church, division commander, to continue rolling Tuesday night to keep the Reds off balance.

On the northeast front, a column of the U. S. 7th Division raced through light opposition for the interior Manchurian border town of Hyesanjin. These Americans and Korean troops landed Sunday at Iwon, and took off on a northwest tangent leading away from the Sea of Japan coastline.

Aerial reports to the U. S. Eighth Army headquarters said the 7th Division column reached Pungsan Tuesday, a gain of 52 road miles since Sunday. At Pungsan they were 51 road miles south of the border.

NPA Eases Up Building Policy

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31 (AP)—The National Production Authority, in the face of protests from the building industry, today backed down on its threat to halt future non-defense building even if construction has been started.

The action followed vigorous protests from the Associated General Contractors of America, whose managing director, H. E. Foreman, said one clause of NPA's ban on construction of amusement places was more drastic than "anything in World War II".

The provision in question declared that NPA will follow the policy, whenever necessary in the defense effort, of banning non-essential construction "even though its commencement at the present time is not forbidden."

NPA Administrator William H. Harrison today declared the agency "has no intention of adopting a policy of halting construction which may then be under way."

The disputed section of the regulation has been amended, Harrison said.

8 Believed Dead In River Blast

FRIARS POINT, Miss., Oct. 31. (AP)—Eight men were presumed dead today from an explosion that shattered four Mississippi river vessels during a peaceful twilight.

Two were known dead; Paul Godsey Jr., about 23, and William Smith, about 28, both of Caruthersville, Mo.

Missing and presumed dead are John Whitney Purser, Helena, Ark.; Paul Godsey Sr., Earl Wallace, Edward Rush, Richard Kurtz and Harry Fields, all of Caruthersville. A search party continued to hunt for them.

The explosion and resultant fire last night crippled a fuel barge, a gravel dredge, a gravel barge and the tugboat "Skipper."

Unofficial reports gave this chronology of happenings:

The dredge and gravel barge were operating. The fuel barge, towed by the tugboat, was alongside, supplying fuel for the the operation. Suddenly there was a terrific explosion aboard the oiler. The dredge sank, the gravel barge was wrecked, and the tug caught fire.

The fuel barge began drifting downstream, dragging the tug with it. In the dusk, the glow of two burning vessels—like twin pillars of fire—was visible for miles.

Another towboat, the Sam Houston, braved the heat and dangers and shoved the two flaming craft into the river bank to get them out of the way of other traffic.

Balto. County Won't Use Voting Machines

TOWSON, Md., Oct. 31 (AP)—Baltimore county will not use any voting machines in next Tuesday's general election, county election supervisors announced today after their latest change of mind.

Seventy of 300 voting machines the county has contracted for were set up yesterday and today in 24 polling places, but the county board of election supervisors decided there isn't time to print and publish the special ballot.

The 300 machines, with 70 to be delivered in time for the Nov. 7 balloting, were purchased after last month's primary election.

Medical Examiner System Is Extolled

BALTIMORE, Oct. 31 (AP) — Dr. Russell S. Fisher, chief medical examiner of Maryland, today attacked coroner's inquests as "time wasting and unnecessary."

Dr. Fisher extolled the Maryland medical examiner system, which he heads, before the tenth annual conference of the Maryland-District of Columbia-Delaware Hospital Association.

He said a coroner consumes time on "quasi-legal procedures," while a medical examiner can "devote more time to determining the medical facts concerning the cause of death."

Statistics show that people who receive expert driver education are involved in 40 to 60 per cent fewer accidents than others.

Serpent Lore Revived As Danish Scientists Plan To Plumb Ocean

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31 (AP) — Maybe it's just the Halloween spirit. Anyway, the National Geographic Society nervously peeked over its shoulder today, and saw sea serpents.

The society noted in a news release that Danish scientists plan to plumb the ocean depths. The ocean is more than 35,000 feet deep in some places, and nobody knows what goes on down there.

The Danes hope to find out by lowering an apparatus on a 50,000-foot steel hawser during their two-year study.

What, asks the N.G.S., if they pull up a sea serpent?

The society is saddened by the fact — and properly so, I think — that the sea serpent has been displaced by the flying saucer in the I-saw-it-with-my-own-eyes league.

For the sea serpent has a wonderful history.

Originally he was such a monster that he could gulp down a ship without even bothering to masticate.

Though time has reduced his proportions, he has wandered back from time to time in circumstances that have been difficult to explain.

Most scientists think sea serpent stories are bunk. They point out that none has ever been discovered, dead or alive, to give scientific proof to the stories and legends.

Stubborn Grandma Foils Holdup Man

NEW YORK, Oct. 31 (AP) — Mrs. Elizabeth Hughes is a 65-year-old grandmother, a white-haired little woman with a yen for adventure — and a stickler for rules.

"I can't stand any deviation from the rules," she explains.

So last night when a husky holdup man stuck a gun in her face and told her to give him the $100 in her subway change booth, she said "I won't."

She didn't either — would have been against the rules.

"Everything he told me to do, open the door, sit down, I said the same. It was a series of I won'ts," Mrs. Hughes said today.

Finally the bandit gave up, apparently recognizing stubborness when he sees it. He want away muttering something about "a brave woman."

Scramble Eggs, Be On Safe Side

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 31 (AP)—To be on the safe side, scramble your eggs, three Michigan health experts suggested today.

Dr. Henrik J. Stafseth and two colleagues said a poultry disease called "pullorum" is transmissable to man as a dysentery-like ailment and that germs of the disease may be found in eggs of infected birds.

Reporting on research they conducted at Michigan State College, they said boiling, frying or poaching of eggs doesn't destroy the germs. But tests showed, they said, that scrambling results in "100 per cent kill after a minute and a half."

Sen. O'Conor Defends Tydings' Record

BALTIMORE, Oct. 31 (AP) — Sen. O'Conor took to the radio tonight to defend the handling of his Democratic colleague, Sen. Tydings, of the investigation of charges that Communists had infiltrated the State Department.

O'Conor said a "smear campaign" has been waged against Tydings, candidate for re-election to a fifth term in Tuesday's general election.

Young Mother Fails In Effort To Save Son

CALVERT MANOR, Md., Oct. 31 (AP)—A young mother waded waist-deep into Piscataway creek here today in a fruitless effort to save the life of her 22-months-old son whom she found floating on the surface.

The dead child, Edward N. Edington, son of Mr. and Mrs. Archie Edington, Calvert Manor, apparently had crept out of his back yard and fallen into the water almost a block from his home.

Prince Georges county police and the Oxon Hill rescue squad worked for four hours in attempts to revive the boy.

CTP Program Is Held In McCoole

McCOOLE, Md.—The Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Company's Cooperative Transit Program was presented to a large group of Keyser and McCoole citizens at the McCoole Fire Hall by C. N. Fullerton, Baltimore, special representative of the CTP.

A motion picture in technicolor, "You and Your Railroads," was shown.

Pope Proclaims Dogma Today

VATICAN CITY, Oct. 31 (AP) — Pope Pius XII, on the eve of his dogmatic proclamation of the Virgin Mary's assumption into Heaven, recited for the first time tonight a prayer he has composed in her honor.

"We believe with all the fervor of our faith in your triumphant assumption, in soul and in body, into heaven, where you are acclaimed queen by all the choirs of the angels and all the legions of the saints," he said, speaking from his Vatican apartment.

Loudspeakers carried the Pope's prayer to a huge throng in St. Peter's Square, where the high point of the Roman Catholic 1950 Holy Year jubilee will take place with proclamation of the dogma tomorrow.

The dogma will establish as a doctrine of the Roman Catholic Church what most Catholics have long believed—that Mary, the mother of Jesus Christ, ascended to heaven bodily as well as spiritually.

Note On Suicide's Body Leads To Slain Mother

NEW CASTLE, Ind., Oct. 31 (AP)—The body of a young man was found in his home today and a note on it led officers to the shallow grave of his mother in the basement of a house under construction near here.

Robert Couden, acting coroner, said it appeared that Robert Degler, 26, a factory worker, killed his 50-year-old mother, Vergie, also a factory worker, 11 days ago and then took his own life this morning.

A note on young Degler's body said: "I killed my mother Oct. 20."

Couden said Degler had been shot in the head and the gun was lying on his chest.

The explosion and resultant fire last night crippled a fuel barge, a gravel dredge, a gravel barge and the tugboat "Skipper."

Unofficial reports gave this chronology of happenings:

The dredge and gravel barge were operating. The fuel barge, towed by the tugboat, was alongside, supplying fuel for the the operation. Suddenly there was a terrific explosion aboard the oiler. The dredge sank, the gravel barge was wrecked, and the tug caught fire.

The fuel barge began drifting downstream, dragging the tug with it. In the dusk, the glow of two burning vessels—like twin pillars of fire—was visible for miles.

Another towboat, the Sam Houston, braved the heat and dangers and shoved the two flaming craft into the river bank to get them out of the way of other traffic.

Balto. County Won't Use Voting Machines

TOWSON, Md., Oct. 31 (AP)—Baltimore county will not use any voting machines in next Tuesday's general election, county election supervisors announced today after their latest change of mind.

Seventy of 300 voting machines the county has contracted for were set up yesterday and today in 24 polling places, but the county board of election supervisors decided there isn't time to print and publish the special ballot.

The 300 machines, with 70 to be delivered in time for the Nov. 7 balloting, were purchased after last month's primary election.

Medical Examiner System Is Extolled

BALTIMORE, Oct. 31 (AP) — Dr. Russell S. Fisher, chief medical examiner of Maryland, today attacked coroner's inquests as "time wasting and unnecessary."

Dr. Fisher extolled the Maryland medical examiner system, which he heads, before the tenth annual conference of the Maryland-District of Columbia-Delaware Hospital Association.

He said a coroner consumes time on "quasi-legal procedures," while a medical examiner can "devote more time to determining the medical facts concerning the cause of death."

Statistics show that people who receive expert driver education are involved in 40 to 60 per cent fewer accidents than others.

Serpent Lore Revived As Danish Scientists Plan To Plumb Ocean

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31 (AP) — Maybe it's just the Halloween spirit. Anyway, the National Geographic Society nervously peeked over its shoulder today, and saw sea serpents.

The society noted in a news release that Danish scientists plan to plumb the ocean depths. The ocean is more than 35,000 feet deep in some places, and nobody knows what goes on down there.

The Danes hope to find out by lowering an apparatus on a 50,000-foot steel hawser during their two-year study.

What, asks the N.G.S., if they pull up a sea serpent?

The society is saddened by the fact — and properly so, I think — that the sea serpent has been displaced by the flying saucer in the I-saw-it-with-my-own-eyes league.

For the sea serpent has a wonderful history.

Originally he was such a monster that he could gulp down a ship without even bothering to masticate.

Though time has reduced his proportions, he has wandered back from time to time in circumstances that have been difficult to explain.

Most scientists think sea serpent stories are bunk. They point out that none has ever been discovered, dead or alive, to give scientific proof to the stories and legends.

Stubborn Grandma Foils Holdup Man

NEW YORK, Oct. 31 (AP) — Mrs. Elizabeth Hughes is a 65-year-old grandmother, a white-haired little woman with a yen for adventure — and a stickler for rules.

"I can't stand any deviation from the rules," she explains.

So last night when a husky holdup man stuck a gun in her face and told her to give him the $100 in her subway change booth, she said "I won't."

She didn't either — would have been against the rules.

"Everything he told me to do, open the door, sit down, I said the same. It was a series of I won'ts," Mrs. Hughes said today.

Finally the bandit gave up, apparently recognizing stubborness when he sees it. He want away muttering something about "a brave woman."

Scramble Eggs, Be On Safe Side

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 31 (AP)—To be on the safe side, scramble your eggs, three Michigan health experts suggested today.

Dr. Henrik J. Stafseth and two colleagues said a poultry disease called "pullorum" is transmissable to man as a dysentery-like ailment and that germs of the disease may be found in eggs of infected birds.

Reporting on research they conducted at Michigan State College, they said boiling, frying or poaching of eggs doesn't destroy the germs. But tests showed, they said, that scrambling results in "100 per cent kill after a minute and a half."

Sen. O'Conor Defends Tydings' Record

BALTIMORE, Oct. 31 (AP) — Sen. O'Conor took to the radio tonight to defend the handling of his Democratic colleague, Sen. Tydings, of the investigation of charges that Communists had infiltrated the State Department.

O'Conor said a "smear campaign" has been waged against Tydings, candidate for re-election to a fifth term in Tuesday's general election.

Young Mother Fails In Effort To Save Son

CALVERT MANOR, Md., Oct. 31 (AP)—A young mother waded waist-deep into Piscataway creek here today in a fruitless effort to save the life of her 22-months-old son whom she found floating on the surface.

The dead child, Edward N. Edington, son of Mr. and Mrs. Archie Edington, Calvert Manor, apparently had crept out of his back yard and fallen into the water almost a block from his home.

Prince Georges county police and the Oxon Hill rescue squad worked for four hours in attempts to revive the boy.

The father, police said, collapsed twice watching the rescue efforts. Edward was an only child.

McCOOLE, Md.—The Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Company's Cooperative Transit Program was presented to a large group of Keyser and McCoole citizens at the McCoole Fire Hall by C. N. Fullerton, Baltimore, special representative of the CTP.

Miss Mildred Dreschler, Baltimore, said she will return here in January for the purpose of organizing a Woman's division of the CTP.

Pope Proclaims Dogma Today

VATICAN CITY, Oct. 31 (AP) — Pope Pius XII, on the eve of his dogmatic proclamation of the Virgin Mary's assumption into Heaven, recited for the first time tonight a prayer he has composed in her honor.

"We believe with all the fervor of our faith in your triumphant assumption, in soul and in body, into heaven, where you are acclaimed queen by all the choirs of the angels and all the legions of the saints," he said, speaking from his Vatican apartment.

Loudspeakers carried the Pope's prayer to a huge throng in St. Peter's Square, where the high point of the Roman Catholic 1950 Holy Year jubilee will take place with proclamation of the dogma tomorrow.

The dogma will establish as a doctrine of the Roman Catholic Church what most Catholics have long believed—that Mary, the mother of Jesus Christ, ascended to heaven bodily as well as spiritually.

Note On Suicide's Body Leads To Slain Mother

NEW CASTLE, Ind., Oct. 31 (AP)—The body of a young man was found in his home today and a note on it led officers to the shallow grave of his mother in the basement of a house under construction near here.

Robert Couden, acting coroner, said it appeared that Robert Degler, 26, a factory worker, killed his 50-year-old mother, Vergie, also a factory worker, 11 days ago and then took his own life this morning.

A note on young Degler's body said: "I killed my mother Oct. 20."

Couden said Degler had been shot in the head and the gun was lying on his chest.

Malayan Reds Intensify Militant Action To Offset Korea Setbacks

SINGAPORE—(AP)—Militant Communism in Singapore is being intensified to offset reverses suffered by Communist forces in Korea.

Bombs have been flung into places of entertainment frequented by Britons. Rubber warehouses and factories have been destroyed. An officer in charge of Chinese education has been shot in a public bus. British-operated buses and taxicabs have been doused with flaming gasoline.

Singapore's thousands of illiterate believe the Red whispering campaign that big things are in the offing by the Communists.

This British colony was completely free of Communist violence for a year after June 1948 when the Malayan Communist Party was outlawed.

Then a lone Communist tossed a bomb into a pro-Nationalist Chinese newspaper office. Five other bomb throwings followed. One hit the Singapore governor, Sir Franklin Gimson, when he left a boxing stadium. In all cases the bombs were either home-made or old British army material. They failed to explode efficiently.

The Reds then struck at Malaya's chief dollar-earner. They burned a number of small rubber warehouses. Their biggest success was the Aik Hoe, Chinese-owned rubber factory where more than $4,000,000 of the vital war material went up in smoke.

About this time the authorities closed two Chinese schools in which they had found Communist literature. The schools were later allowed to reopen but pro-Communist students, boys and girls, were banned.

While this was going on, an unknown assassin climbed aboard a bus and shot in the stomach the colony's officer in charge of Chinese education. Observers linked the two incidents.

Letters proclaiming the greatness of the Soviet Union and Communist China, and denouncing the "Anglo-American blood-suckers" poured out to selected persons, including government officers, from an unknown source.

Red arsonists made the city's transport their next objective. Cans of petrol placed aboard unattended buses were the main weapon. Many were set afire.

Communism in Singapore today presents a greater danger than the authorities will admit. The Red propagandists are active among the illiterate classes.

A Chinese accountant shocked the editor of Singapore's biggest English-language newspaper, the Straits Times, when he wrote to say the paper was printing "lies." It was the Americans who attacked the North Koreans and started the Korean war, he maintained.

Hapless Chinese merchants, put in fear of destruction to life and property, are unwittingly financing the Communist underground.

The police exhort all Chinese merchants who receive threats to report them. But not always has the person involved the spirit to see the affair through.

Report Of Operation For Coronary Heart Disease Amazes Physicians

CHICAGO—(AP)—A report of an operation for coronary heart disease, killer of many persons, drew applause and gasps from a fascinated group of doctors at Northwestern University.

Dr. Claude S. Beck, neurosurgeon at Western Reserve University, Cleveland, made the report in a lecture and in movies of the operation.

Usually reserved physicians called it "amazing," and "astonishing," medical sources said.

The operation is designed to feed more blood into the heart muscle by bypassing the blocked coronary artery. A piece of blood vessel is grafted between the aorta, or main blood channel, and the opening of the heart chamber.

Dr. Beck said four persons in the nation have undergone the operation and lived. He said one is a 60-year-old Cleveland physician who had to quit his practice because of a coronary occlusion but now works full time without any heart pain.

Coronary occlusion is a hardening or narrowing of the arteries supplying the heart muscle. It strikes many doctors and others, such as business executives, who work at high tension or for long hours.

The usual treatment has been complete rest.

Dr. Beck made his report to a postgraduate course in cardiovascular surgery, sponsored by the Chicago Medical Society and attended by 90 physicians from across the nation.

He said the first operation was preceded by 16 years of research and thousands of experiments on dogs. Of 11 persons who underwent the surgery, seven died. However, Dr. Beck said, at least five died of coronary heart disease, not from the operation.

The next big question is what stage of the disease is the best time for the surgery. He said experience so far shows patients with severe "degenerative changes" in the heart are poor risks.

Several other heart experts said the techniques involved may lead to new methods of treating angina pectoris, another heart ailment which causes sharp chest pains, and myocardial damage — damage to heart muscles as a result of being deprived of blood.

Pennsy's "Southwind" Derailed In Kentucky

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 31 (AP) — "The Southwind," a limited train of the Pennsylvania Railroad, northbound from Miami, Fla., was derailed here.

Witnesses said three passengers were injured, none seriously.

Cause of the derailment was not determined immediately. Nine of the train's 12 cars left the track, it was reported.

The train runs between Chicago and Miami and return, using Pennsylvania tracks from Chicago to Louisville and lines of the Louisville and Nashville Railroad from Louisville to Miami.

One hit the Singapore governor, Sir Franklin Gimson, when he left a boxing stadium. In all cases the bombs were either home-made or old British army material. They failed to explode efficiently.

The Reds then struck at Malaya's chief dollar-earner. They burned a number of small rubber warehouses. Their biggest success was the Aik Hoe, Chinese-owned rubber factory where more than $4,000,000 of the vital war material went up in smoke.

About this time the authorities closed two Chinese schools in which they had found Communist literature. The schools were later allowed to reopen but pro-Communist students, boys and girls, were banned

While this was going on, an unknown assassin climbed aboard a bus and shot in the stomach the colony's officer in charge of Chinese education. Observers linked the two incidents.

Letters proclaiming the greatness of the Soviet Union and Communist China, and denouncing the "Anglo - American blood - suckers" poured out to selected persons, including government officers, from an unknown source.

Red arsonists made the city's transport their next objective. Cans of petrol placed aboard unattended buses were the main weapon. Many were set afire.

Communism in Singapore today presents a greater danger than the authorities will admit. The Red propagandists are active among the illiterate classes.

A Chinese accountant shocked the editor of Singapore's biggest English-language newspaper, the Straits Times, when he wrote to say the paper was printing "lies." It was the Americans who attacked the North Koreans and started the Korean war, he maintained.

Hapless Chinese merchants, put in fear of destruction to life and property, are unwittingly financing the Communist underground.

The police exhort all Chinese merchants who receive threats to report them. But not always has the person involved the spirit to see the affair through.

Report Of Operation For Coronary Heart Disease Amazes Physicians

CHICAGO—(AP)—A report of an operation for coronary heart disease, killer of many persons, drew applause and gasps from a fascinated group of doctors at Northwestern University.

Dr. Claude S. Beck, neurosurgeon at Western Reserve University, Cleveland, made the report in a lecture and in movies of the operation.

Usually reserved physicians called it "amazing," and "astonishing," medical sources said.

The operation is designed to feed more blood into the heart muscle by bypassing the blocked coronary artery. A piece of blood vessel is grafted between the aorta, or main blood channel, and the opening of the heart chamber.

Dr. Beck said four persons in the nation have undergone the operation and lived. He said one is a 60-year-old Cleveland physician who had to quit his practice because of a coronary occlusion but now works full time without any heart pain.

Coronary occlusion is a hardening or narrowing of the arteries supplying the heart muscle. It strikes many doctors and others, such as business executives, who work at high tension or for long hours.

The usual treatment has been complete rest.

Dr. Beck made his report to a postgraduate course in cardiovascular surgery, sponsored by the Chicago Medical Society and attended by 90 physicians from across the nation.

He said the first operation was preceded by 16 years of research and thousands of experiments on dogs. Of 11 persons who underwent the surgery, seven died. However, Dr. Beck said, at least five died of coronary heart disease, not from the operation.

The next big question is what stage of the disease is the best time for the surgery. He said experience so far shows patients with severe "degenerative changes" in the heart are poor risks.

Several other heart experts said the techniques involved may lead to new methods of treating angina pectoris, another heart ailment which causes sharp chest pains, and myocardial damage — damage to heart muscles as a result of being deprived of blood.

Pennsy's "Southwind" Derailed In Kentucky

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 31 (AP) — "The Southwind," a limited train of the Pennsylvania Railroad, northbound from Miami, Fla., was derailed here.

Witnesses said three passengers were injured, none seriously.

Cause of the derailment was not determined immediately. Nine of the train's 12 cars left the track, it was reported.

The train runs between Chicago and Miami and return, using Pennsylvania tracks from Chicago to Louisville and lines of the Louisville and Nashville Railroad from Louisville to Miami.

Malayan Reds Intensify Militant Action To Offset Korea Setbacks

SINGAPORE—(AP)—Militant Communism in Singapore is being intensified to offset reverses suffered by Communist forces in Korea.

Bombs have been flung into places of entertainment frequented by Britons. Rubber warehouses and factories have been destroyed. An officer in charge of Chinese education has been shot in a public bus. British-operated buses and taxicabs have been doused with flaming gasoline.

Singapore's thousands of illiterate believe the Red whispering campaign that big things are in the offing by the Communists.

This British colony was completely free of Communist violence for a year after June 1948 when the Malayan Communist Party was outlawed.

Then a lone Communist tossed a bomb into a pro-Nationalist Chinese newspaper office. Five other bomb throwings followed. One hit the Singapore governor, Sir Franklin Gimson, when he left a boxing stadium. In all cases the bombs were either home-made or old British army material. They failed to explode efficiently.

The Court Divides

During the great court-packing controversy of 1937, New Dealers criticized the tendency of the Supreme Court to divide in 5-4 decisions. The Court's job was not to determine policy, on which differences of opinion are natural, but to hew to the meaning of the Constitution. A group of constitutional experts, it might be thought, should come close to agreement on that.

Actually the Justices were dealing, in many cases in the '30s, with situations the Constitution had not foreseen. The Constitutionalists therefore held that anything not specifically authorized should be forbidden. The New Dealers held that anything not specifically forbidden should be acceptable if Congress voted for it.

The latter view is the one that now prevails.

The present Court, however, still has its 5-4 decisions, though the division is on other grounds. Once in a while it even has a 4-4 decision, when one of the justices does not participate because of illness or previous connection with the case. A 4-4 decision is really unfortunate.

The other day, for example, the court ruled 4-4 on the conviction of a Quaker teacher who told one of his students to stick to his conscientious decision not to register for the draft. As the lower court in Ohio upheld the conviction and the Supreme Court is deadlocked, the conviction stands.

But now suppose that an identical case comes before the Supreme Court from another lower court, which reversed an identical conviction. If the justices again split 4-4, the effect is that the highest court in the land has freed one man and sent another to prison for identical offenses. That is not equal justice under law.

Now it is claimed civilization is at bay—having become tired, apparently, of hanging around the crossroads.

Feeding Koreans

Withdrawal of American forces from Korea in the near future is not in the cards. Sufficient U. S. troops will remain in the devastated country to maintain order and bring about a semblance of normal conditions. And what a job it will be.

It is proposed to unite North and South Korea into one nation, with a single government—a tremendous task in itself. After that has been accomplished will come the job of feeding the people, including 150,000 prisoners of war.

The whole country has been laid waste. The capital of North Korea, with a population of 500,000, has been practically destroyed. There are no utilities, the remaining citizens are bewildered and hungry. Everywhere there is death and desolation.

Restoration of Korea will depend to a considerable extent upon the attitude of Russia, which sponsored the invasion of South Korea, and which is expected to hamper any effort in behalf of peace. After winning the war, the task of caring for the victims and feeding the starving will also fall to America.

Days and nights being now about equal, both may be said to have attained parity.

Japanese Peace Treaty

Three years of prodding by the United States were unsuccessful in bringing Russia around to the point where she would consent to discuss a peace treaty for Japan across a conference table. Now, the State Department's Dulles says, Malik will "listen" to what the U. S. diplomats have to say.

Things have now progressed to the point where State Department emissaries feel real good if Russian Reds, who are given the run of the United States on the pretext that they are attending United Nations sessions, condescend to talk to them!

The proposed draft of the Japanese peace treaty has already been circulated among the 11 nations which were at war, by word or deed, with Japan. The U. S. draft proposes that no restrictions be placed on Jap rearmament, or on her economic and commercial affairs. The United States also proposes to administer Okinawa, Iwo Jima and the Bonin and Ryukyu chains. Washington also wants to keep bases there.

Pressure for a treaty has been strong in this country and in Japan for some time. Knowing Russia's cynical regard for the "welfare" of enemies of the Allies in World War II, it is incomprehensible that Russia would accept any treaty that didn't include complete evacuation of that country by the U. S. and so weaken that country economically and militarily that it would fall to Russia very soon.

Why Russia should be consulted at all about a Japanese treaty is not clear. When the United States was winning the war against Japan, Russia was neutral and, in fact, interned U. S. fliers who were forced down on Russian territory while attacking Japan.

Deflation In Lots

Inflation is continuing its upward course, but government action has deflated prices of building lots drastically. Credit curbs on new housing put into effect by Washington has all but decimated demand for lots, according to a survey by the Wall Street Journal. Many recent buyers of lots at high prices now are sorry they bought, according to the Journal.

What this points up is that the government possesses life or death power over vast categories of bussiness, and concentration of control in Washington will continue for the duration of the "crisis." Who, for instance, believes rent controls will ever be dropped if Congress can be stampeded into renewing them in December?

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Sick Nails

THE nails protect the ends of the fingers and, despite the beating they take, seldom become the seat of disease. This is fortunate because most afflictions of these structures are difficult to treat. In addition, their condition is a reflection of the health of the individual and in this respect they resemble other tissues such as the hair and skin.

Nail biting is a common cause of injury. This habit generally commences in childhood and frequently is carried over into adult life. The practice is ascribed to a neurosis when it persists; in severe cases considerable damage may be inflicted. Now and then the nail plate is almost entirely gnawed and infection invariably occurs because the area is left without a defense against bacterial and fungous invasions. This is further enhanced because the mouth teems with bacteria, many of a virulent type.

Transverse ridges often form in the nail from pushing back the cuticle too vigorously. These lines are best seen by holding the fingers so that light reflects from the polished surface. Overzealous manicuring also may leave spots, or striations that turn white; they remain until they grow out at the end. The nail is bruised easily when caught in a door or hit with a hammer. This mishap usually leads to hemorrhage beneath the nail which, on healing, frequently causes loosening and shedding of the nail. An injury of this nature is painful because the accumulated blood creates considerable pressure. In the past it was a common procedure to insert a red hot needle thru the nail to relieve the pressure but nowadays this procedure is condemned by most physicians because infection is a frequent aftermath. Germs love blood and a hole thru the nail offers a supply. They multiply rapidly in this environment and in no time are in a position to invade nearby tissues. A better plan is to apply cold applications to discourage bleeding, followed by the use of a clean sterile bandage.

A variety of nail disfigurations are caused by contact with any one of a large number of chemical agents. These include nail polish, remover, and undercoats as well as dyes, soaps and other alkalis, acids, and a host of industrial products. The damage may result from irritation or thru an allergic response to repeated contact. In some instances the nail becomes soft and the surrounding tissue inflamed; in others brittleness and longitudinal ridging and splitting of the plate ensue.

When the nail is invaded by fungi, molds, and yeast organisms a perplexing problem arises: these organisms are difficult to eradicate. The old reliable Whitfield's ointment seems to work as well as anything. X-ray also is used, as well as mechanical scraping. Surgical removal of the infected structure seldom leads to cure because infection invariably reappears. Nail changes develop when anemia is present or the body lacks vitamins. Numerous abnormalities may occur when the circulation is poor and dryness and brittleness is common in a bout of rheumatoid arthritis. Now and then alterations are traced to glandular or systemic disturbances.

SWEAT IS SECRETED

H. G. writes: Exactly where does perspiration come from? Is it a poisonous fluid discharged from our bodies?

REPLY

Perspiration is secreted by the sweat glands, which have the ability to manufacture this fluid. The secretion is not poisonous altho it may contain waste products.

WEIGHT AND MALIGNANCY

J. W. writes: Can weight be gained with cancer or does the victim always lose?

REPLY

Occasionally weight is gained in the early stages. Some have explained this phenomenon by saying that the individual is eating more to feed the cancer. Weight loss is the rule, however, when cancer is beyond hope.

NECK CARBUNCLES

H. J. writes: Do carbuncles on the neck mean bad kidneys?

REPLY

No. Carbuncles are infections in their own right and represent an invasion of hair follicles by staphylococci. The neck is a favorite location because it is a good dirt collector and is subjected to irritation from the collar.

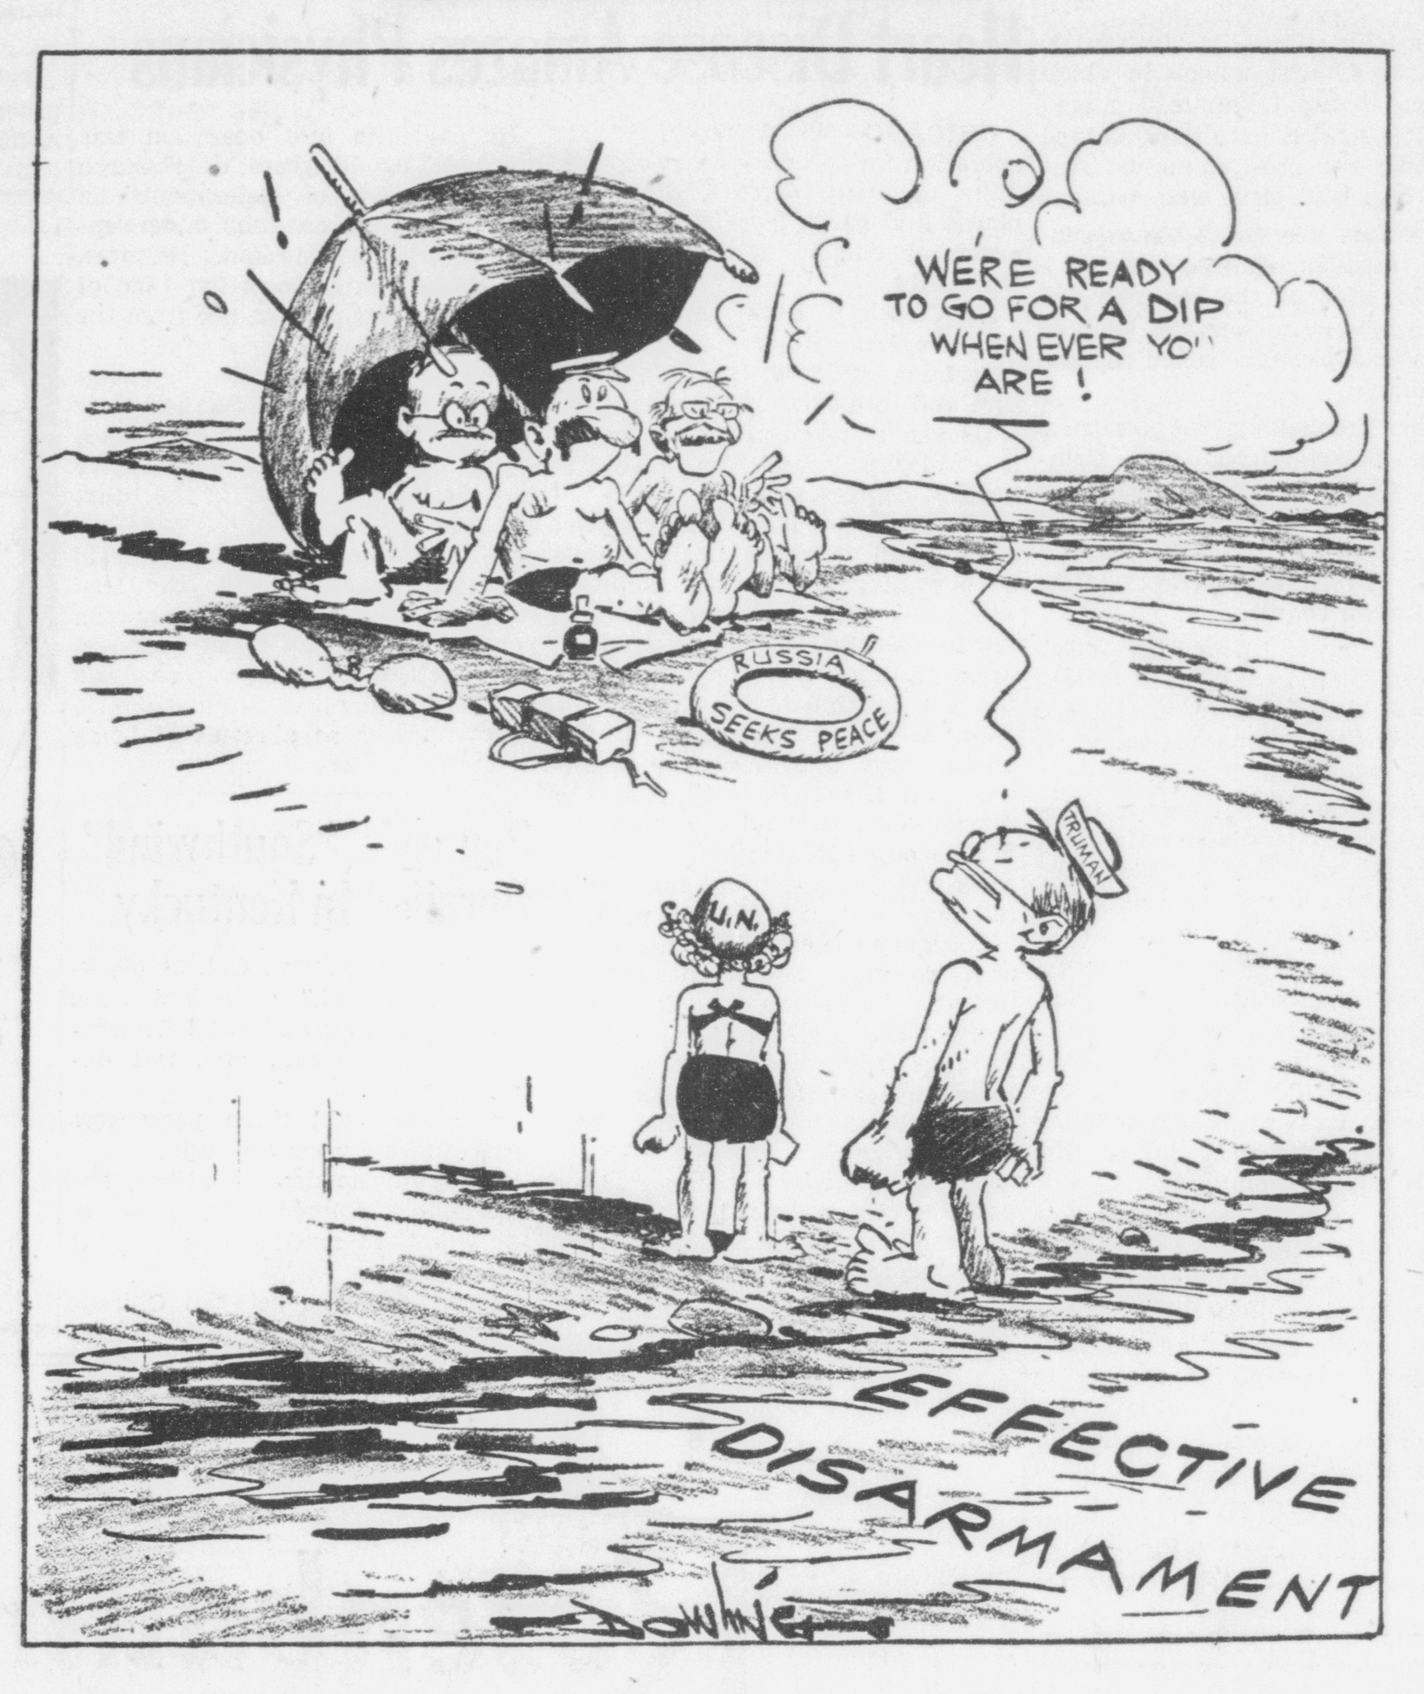
IRRITABLE HEART

L. W. writes: What is the medical name for a nervous heart?

REPLY

Various terms are used, including cardiac neurosis, simple tachycardia, arrhythmia, and irritable heart. When the symptom is present, physicians formerly referred to the general condition as neurocirculatory asthenia but now psychoneurosis is the term used.

NOW COMES THE SHOWDOWN



The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Pennsylvania Offers Two Good Senate Candidates; Gov. Duff Represents New GOP Philosophy; Duff May Be Presidential Candidate If He Wins Senate Race

Says DREW PEARSON

HARRISBURG, Pa.—The State of Pennsylvania, which has sent some freak senators to Washington in the past, this year can't very well go wrong. It has two good men to pick from: Gov. James Duff, Republican; and Sen. Francis Myers, Democrat.

However, if the tremendous swing which nominated Duff last May continues, he will be the new senator in Washington next January.

This—if it happens—will mark something more than just a new senator from Pennsylvania. For Duff represents a new philosophy inside the Republican party which it needs more of if it is ever going to recapture the White House. He also is a man who is sure to be considered a Presidential candidate if he wins on November 7.

When Duff was nominated to the Senate last spring he received letters from all over the country stating: "Thank God for a change in the Republican leadership. We're Democrats, but we would vote Republican, if the Republicans offered something new."

What they referred to is the fact that Duff has not tried to tear down all the new deal legislation FDR built up. Nor has he based his campaign on the Senator McCarthy bogey that Communists lurk under State Department desks. Instead, he has followed a policy not unlike that of Governor Warren of California of taking the best of the new deal program and adding some features of his own—cleaning up one of the chief rivers of his state, reforming the insane asylums, improving the schools, and putting the Pennsylvania Manufacturers Association in its place.

For years, Pennsylvania was ruled by the barons of coal, steel, gas, and oil. What they wanted, they largely got. And the normal GOP governor in Harrisburg usually did their bidding. Governor Duff, however, reversed this, and in so doing won the undying enmity of that insatiable disciple of the high tariff, Joe Grundy, plus all his fellow manufacturers. They did their best to defeat Duff at the primaries, and, believe it or not, they are now conspiring with a Democrat, Senator Myers, to try to defeat Duff in November.

Presidential Material

Jim Duff is big, barrel-chested, redheaded, rides horseback at the age of 67 two or three times a week, works late hours, reads till one or two a. m., and drinks water incessantly. If it wasn't for his age, he would be excellent Presidential timber, though in these days, with MacArthur 71, General Marshall 70, and Harry Truman one year younger than Duff, he can't be counted out.

Duff inherited some of his crusading belligerency from his father, a Presbyterian minister in Westmoreland county, near Carnegie. His father supported five children on an income of $3,700, and sent all of them to college. When Jim Duff was a boy, he remembers an oil company drilling wells opposite his father's farm and offering to buy the Duff place—for a song. His father refused.

Instead, he drilled eight wells on his own land. But when he could not get the oil company to buy his gas, the elder Duff simply uncorked a well, let the gas gush out, thus lowering the pressure in the wells across the line.

After that the oil company came to terms.

That was when Jim Duff got his first taste of bucking big business, and he has been bucking the barons most of his life.

His next brush came when he was attorney general of Pennsylvania and closed the legal loopholes permitting dumping in Pennsylvania rivers. Later, as Governor, he started the almost revolutionary project of dredging out the Schuylkill river.

Dredges River

For years the coal companies had been dumping their waste coal and culm into the Schuylkill until its channel was choked to a height of 18 feet. This is now being dredged out of the river, the channel restored, and about one-third of the coal reclaimed.

At first, business was opposed. But the other day, Revelle Brown, president of the Reading Railroad told the Governor: "They've been rapping you over the Schuylkill river, but I think it's one of the best things the state has ever done."

Another Duff project was to clean up the state asylums, long one of the worst scandals in Pennsylvania. The Byberry asylum near Philadelphia was so filthy that holes in the floor were used as toilets, and inmates were chained to the walls. But with the help of former Supreme Court Justice Owen Roberts, Life magazine and a group of Quakers, Byberry has now been completely renovated. And today Pennsylvania is ahead of most states in its care of the insane.

Duff is a former bull-mooser, was a delegate to the Teddy Roosevelt convention in 1912, along with another eminent Pennsylvanian, Harold Ickes. His disrespect for big business was acquired both from Teddy and his father.

"The general run of people," he says, "are not interested in making the rich richer and the poor poorer."

Turns Down Retainers

There is an interesting contrast between the life of Jim Duff and that of Joe Hanley, lieutenant governor of New York. When Duff was urged to run for governor, he also pled lack of funds. But a friend argued:

"You can get two retainers for $20,000 and $15,000 that will supplement your state salary."

The friend mentioned two Pennsylvania utility companies for whom Duff had worked in the past. Unlike Hanley, however, Duff replied:

"Not me. When I work for my state or my government, I don't take money from an outside source."

After conferring with Mrs. Duff, however, they decided to curtail their domestic budget and thus run for office.

Governor Duff belongs to a small but growing school within the Republican party, including Governor Warren of California, Governor Driscoll of New Jersey, Senators Ives of New York and Morse of Oregon, who believe that you don't win votes merely by criticism. You have got to lead, build, contruct, they believe, not tear down. And if sometimes your program overlaps or coincides with the Democrats', they also believe that's no reason for shying away from it.

That's why the prospective senator from Pennsylvania says:

"In this fight the Republican party cannot go two ways at the same time."

Hickenlooper's Success Depends On Farm Vote

By MARK SULLIVAN

THE campaign in Iowa for election of United States Senator is described by Doris Fleeson, newspaper columnist for the Bell syndicate. The contest is between Republican candidate, Bourke Hickenlooper, running to succeed himself, and Democratic candidate Al Loveland. The grouping and attachments of voters is analyzed by Miss Fleeson.

"Roughly speaking, the Iowa vote centers in three major blocs. The Senator (Hickenlooper) has a substantial edge in the important small towns. Loveland will benefit to some undetermined degree from labor activity in the larger cities. The farmers will set the final verdict."

On what basis will farmers determine their verdict? The question is answered by Miss Fleeson: "What they (farmers) principally want to know is simply who will make farmers the best Senator."

And what, in the Iowa farmers' judgment, makes the best candidate for Senator? Answer to that may be found in what the Iowa farmers did in the Presidential election of 1948. It was a sensational incident in the victory of Democratic candidate Truman.

Success Remembered

Mr. Truman, in his 1948 campaign, promised farmers not only to continue price support of farm crops but to make it more effective specifically he promised in a campaign speech at Decatur, Iowa, that if he should be elected the government would provide storage facilities for farm crops. On that narrow local and group issue, Iowa went for Truman, sensationally reversing the strong Republican trend it had shown in recent preceding elections. And the Truman victory in Iowa, with similarly surprising victories in five other Mid-West farm states, was the largest cause of his victory in the nation and of the surprise which that victory was, That 1948 Truman success on the farm storage bin issue, as one facet of the crop price support issue, has been remembered in national politics ever since.

Assuming that in the present campaign any large number of farmers ask "who will make farmers the best Senator," and assuming that a similar condition exists in other states, having a large number of farm voters, and bearing in mind many exceptions on the part of individuals and farm leaders—nevertheless this condition, to the extent to which it exists, is a disturbing phenomenon, a subordination of national issues to group ones. Abroad, the country is at war, is faced by threat of more war, and to prepare against more war is drafting its youth, mobilizing its industry, and putting limitations on individual freedom. Domestically the country is in the course of an inflation which unless checked threatens economic disaster. The combination of national dangers ought to be occasion for subordination of group and individual interests.

May Reveal Disapproval

It is always possible that individuals who compose the rank and file of a group interest may not be as conscious of it in their voting as might be suggested by political appeals made to the group. The political arms of the two great national labor organizations, CIO and AFL, are strident in appeals to labor as a group interest. Harsh emphasis is put upon the Taft-Hartley labor law and one of the authors of the law, Sen. Taft of Ohio, is subjected to as bitter an opposition as ever occurred in American politics. It is possible that the outcome on election day may reveal disapproval of the attack on Sen. Taft by much of the rank and file of labor, and resentment against the source and manner of the fight by many Democrats and many voters generally.

Appeal to labor and to farmers as groups was made conspicuous by President Truman in his 1948 campaign. To both groups he said in the speech in which he accepted the Presidential nomination, that if they did not support the Democratic party they would be "the most ungrateful people in the world." That appeal to group interest is objectionable at any time was less apparent in 1948 than now.

Decision To Use Veto May Block Red China

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31 — The United States Government may have inadvertently—or perhaps purposely—made a decision to use the veto for the first time in the Security Council of the United Nations, which, although on a different matter, could mean an adamant refusal to admit Communist China as a permanent member of the Council.

The United States has long hesitated to use the veto. The other day, when the question of permitting other candidates to replace Trygve Lie as secretary-general of the U. N. was up for consideration, American Ambassador Warren Austin said frankly to the press that, if necessary, the veto would be used. This was widely heralded as the first threat on the part of the U. S. to use the veto power.

But in the background of this decision something else comes up for consideration. The United States had announced before the outbreak of the Korean war that, if the other members of the council favored the admission of Communist China, there would be no use of the veto and the American government would abide by the wishes of the majority.

Played Dangerous Role

The Communists of China, however, have played a dangerous role in the Koeran affair. They have denounced the U. S. as an aggressor and have echoed the party line of Moscow. The Chinese Communists, moreover, have been sending military equipment to aid the Korean reds to do battle against the U. N. forces. Today word comes that a Chinese regiment has been identified as part of the North Korean forces.

In the face of all these facts, the United States can contend that the situation with respect to Communist China has changed since June 25, when the Korean war broke out, and that military control of all China by one government is not the sole criterion. Rather it can be argued that the hostility of the Communist government in China to the U. N. is in itself a major reason why admission should be denied.

Nor can the United States now say that to use the veto would be a bad precedent. Up to now, it has been pointed out that the excessive use of the veto by the Russians was a sufficient cause for restraint on the part of the free nations in withholding the veto.

But the reasons advanced by the United States in announcing a willingness to use the veto to prevent the election of someone other than Trygve Lie as secretary-general included a statement that, to do otherwise, would be to condone Russia's course in the Korean affair.

Substantial Issue

It is admitted by the Russians that they oppose Trygve Lie only because he summoned the U. N. Security Council into session last June and helped to get the procedure into operation for U. N. resistance to aggression. This is a substantial issue and one which the American government is right in defining, but it is not more important than the admission of a government which not only denounced the U. N. as aggressors but also furnished military assistance to attempt to defeat the efforts of the U. N. forces.

The veto was originally inserted in the U. N. charter because of a belief on the part of the late President Roosevelt and Marshal Stalin that each of the major powers would wish to protect their sovereighty in the international organization and that matters affecting their own vital interests would not be submitted to majority vote.

But there never was any thought that a nation which itself was involved directly or indirectly in an aggression should be permitted to use the veto or block the enforcement of a rule of law in the world. So, in appraising the future, it is clear that a vote to keep out of the U. N. Security Council a nation hostile to the purposes of the U. N. itself is a logical exercise of the veto power in a matter of great substance.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

The Shortage Of Teachers

THE TEACHING profession is running down, although teachers are comparatively well paid for a professional group. To the monetary payments must be added the short year, the short day and the opportunities to earn additional pay.

These used to be regarded favorably until the 40-hour week for industrial workers equalized the advantage of a short day for teachers. The steady income and tenure used to be a great advantage for teachers, but with full employment and even wartime employment, industry can provide stead work and seniority is similar to tenure in some respects.

Teachers go into industry for higher pay. It is a matter of money. The preparation for school teachers has become stiffer; the examination tougher; and if a teacher really wants to advance, he or she has to take summer work, leading to an M. A. of a PH.D. It is cheaper to join a union and get a job in a factory.

There was a time when the position of school teacher stood in the community as a post of great dignity and importance. The school teacher was among the leaders of men. Public esteem and leadership are often compensations in themselves. The leveling of communal life has removed these advantages and has left the teacher in the position of just another government worker, often regarded as a particularly unsatisfactory worker because the school system in many communities is no longer favorably accepted by parents who wonder why their wonderful children come out of the schools such queer creatures. Non-parents wonder at the costs.

The number of children going to school is on the increase. Shifts of population influence school costs and activities. For instance, large new building projects throw upon communities new burdens of taxation beyond their strength. Thousands of children are being born to veterans who in from four to six years hence will need schools in these new areas. Local budgets rarely make provisions long enough in advance not to send the tax rate up to heights that actually endanger home ownership.

In some communities, teachers are changed often to avoid tenure, thus preventing that continuity of personality which builds an institution. In rural communities that is particularly a growing vice, the idea being that the community does not want to be tied to a teacher it cannot fire.

It is expected that by 1957, elementary school enrollment will reach 29,500,000 and high school enrollment will be 7,300,000. This will mean an increase by about 10,000,000 children over a period of 10 years, and provision must be made for them, not only in buildings but teachers.

The real dilemma for local communities is that money is getting to be harder to find. The thing called "welfare" eats up so much of a municipality's budget. Even rural townships find old age relief and similar welfare funds encroaching on school and road money. Real estate in cities cannot carry much more of a tax load without raising rents, and whenever that is tried, for whatever reason, a howl goes up on the general assumption that the landlord is a usurer per se.

If parents were happier about the schools, the teachers would, nevertheless, have greater public support for increases. The fact is that quite generally parents wonder what the children learn at school. The fault is not altogether the teacher's; it is as much the responsibility of the parent.

As a parent, he insists that his child shall, in the school, be taught to be a decent citizen, an upright, moral person. This can only be done by religious education; by teaching the precept; by reading the Bible and the great writings of our civilization. As a citizen, he often objects to just that. He cannot have it both ways. Children brought up without moral precept and without religious guidance lack a complete education in their early years. Yet, many parents want just that but object to the results of their own desires. Then they blame the schools and the teachers for their own decisions as parents and citizens.

Teaching in elementary schools must be made more attractive while at the same time the schools must be more selective as to the quality of teachers. It is a tough problem not easily solved, but an important one if the citizens of our next generations are to be any good.

The Court Divides

During the great court-packing controversy of 1937, New Dealers criticized the tendency of the Supreme Court to divide in 5-4 decisions. The Court's job was not to determine policy, on which differences of opinion are natural, but to hew to the meaning of the Constitution. A group of constitutional experts, it might be thought, should come close to agreement on that.

Actually the Justices were dealing, in many cases in the '30s, with situations the Constitution had not foreseen. The Constitutionalists therefore held that anything not specifically authorized should be forbidden. The New Dealers held that anything not specifically forbidden should be acceptable if Congress voted for it.

The latter view is the one that now prevails.

The present Court, however, still has its 5-4 decisions, though the division is on other grounds. Once in a while it even has a 4-4 decision, when one of the justices does not participate because of illness or previous connection with the case. A 4-4 decision is really unfortunate.

The other day, for example, the court ruled 4-4 on the conviction of a Quaker teacher who told one of his students to stick to his conscientious decision not to register for the draft. As the lower court in Ohio upheld the conviction and the Supreme Court is deadlocked, the conviction stands.

But now suppose that an identical case comes before the Supreme Court from another lower court, which reversed an identical conviction. If the justices again split 4-4, the effect is that the highest court in the land has freed one man and sent another to prison for identical offenses. That is not equal justice under law.

Now it is claimed civilization is at bay—having become tired, apparently, of hanging around the crossroads.

Feeding Koreans

Withdrawal of American forces from Korea in the near future is not in the cards. Sufficient U. S. troops will remain in the devastated country to maintain order and bring about a semblance of normal conditions. And what a job it will be.

It is proposed to unite North and South Korea into one nation, with a single government—a tremendous task in itself. After that has been accomplished will come the job of feeding the people, including 150,000 prisoners of war.

The whole country has been laid waste. The capital of North Korea, with a population of 500,000, has been practically destroyed. There are no utilities, the remaining citizens are bewildered and hungry. Everywhere there is death and desolation.

Restoration of Korea will depend to a considerable extent upon the attitude of Russia, which sponsored the invasion of South Korea, and which is expected to hamper any effort in behalf of peace. After winning the war, the task of caring for the victims and feeding the starving will also fall to America.

Days and nights being now about equal, both may be said to have attained parity.

Japanese Peace Treaty

Three years of prodding by the United States were unsuccessful in bringing Russia around to the point where she would consent to discuss a peace treaty for Japan across a conference table. Now, the State Department's Dulles says, Malik will "listen" to what the U. S. diplomats have to say.

Things have now progressed to the point where State Department emissaries feel real good if Russian Reds, who are given the run of the United States on the pretext that they are attending United Nations sessions, condescend to talk to them!

The proposed draft of the Japanese peace treaty has already been circulated among the 11 nations which were at war, by word or deed, with Japan. The U. S. draft proposes that no restrictions be placed on Jap rearmament, or on her economic and commercial affairs. The United States also proposes to administer Okinawa, Iwo Jima and the Bonin and Ryukyu chains. Washington also wants to keep bases there.

Pressure for a treaty has been strong in this country and in Japan for some time. Knowing Russia's cynical regard for the "welfare" of enemies of the Allies in World War II, it is incomprehensible that Russia would accept any treaty that didn't include complete evacuation of that country by the U. S. and so weaken that country economically and militarily that it would fall to Russia very soon.

Why Russia should be consulted at all about a Japanese treaty is not clear. When the United States was winning the war against Japan, Russia was neutral and, in fact, interned U. S. fliers who were forced down on Russian territory while attacking Japan.

Deflation In Lots

Inflation is continuing its upward course, but government action has deflated prices of building lots drastically. Credit curbs on new housing put into effect by Washington has all but decimated demand for lots, according to a survey by the Wall Street Journal. Many recent buyers of lots at high prices now are sorry they bought, according to the Journal.

What this points up is that the government possesses life or death power over vast categories of business, and concentration of control in Washington will continue for the duration of the "crisis." Who, for instance, believes rent controls will ever be dropped if Congress can be stampeded into renewing them in December?

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual diseases.

Sick Nails

THE nails protect the ends of the fingers and, despite the beating they take, seldom become the seat of disease. This is fortunate because most afflictions of these structures are difficult to treat. In addition, their condition is a reflection of the health of the individual and in this respect they resemble other tissues such as the hair and skin.

Nail biting is a common cause of injury. This habit generally commences in childhood and frequently is carried over into adult life. The practice is ascribed to a neurosis when it persists; in severe cases considerable damage may be inflicted. Now and then the nail plate is almost entirely gnawed and infection invariably occurs because the area is left without a defense against bacterial and fungous invasions. This is further enhanced because the mouth teems with bacteria, many of a virulent type.

Transverse ridges often form in the nail from pushing back the cuticle too vigorously. These lines are best seen by holding the fingers so that light reflects from the polished surface. Overzealous manicuring also may leave spots, or striations that turn white; they remain until they grow out at the end. The nail is bruised easily when caught in a door or hit with a hammer. This mishap usually leads to hemorrhage beneath the nail which, on healing, frequently causes loosening and shedding of the nail. An injury of this nature is painful because the accumulated blood creates considerable pressure. In the past it was a common procedure to insert a red hot needle thru the nail to relieve the pressure but nowadays this procedure is condemned by most physicians because infection is a frequent aftermath. Germs love blood and a hole thru the nail offers a supply. They multiply rapidly in this environment and in no time are in a position to invade nearby tissues. A better plan is to apply cold applications to discourage bleeding, followed by the use of a clean sterile bandage.

A variety of nail disfigurations are caused by contact with any one of a large number of chemical agents. These include nail polish, remover, and undercoats as well as dyes, soaps and other alkalis, acids, and a host of industrial products. The damage may result from irritation or thru an allergic response to repeated contact. In some instances the nail becomes soft and the surrounding tissue inflamed; in others brittleness and longitudinal ridging and splitting of the plate ensue.

• — • — •

When the nail is invaded by fungi, molds, and yeast organisms a perplexing problem arises: these organisms are difficult to eradicate. The old reliable Whitfield's ointment seems to work as well as anything. X-ray also is used, as well as mechanical scraping. Surgical removal of the infected structure seldom leads to cure because infection invariably reappears. Nail changes develop when anemia is present or the body lacks vitamins. Numerous abnormalities may occur when the circulation is poor and dryness and brittleness is common in a bout of rheumatoid arthritis. Now and then alterations are traced to glandular or systemic disturbances.

SWEAT IS SECRETED

H. G. writes: Exactly where does perspiration come from? Is it a poisonous fluid discharged from our bodies?

REPLY

Perspiration is secreted by the sweat glands, which have the ability to manufacture this fluid. The secretion is not poisonous altho it may contain waste products.

WEIGHT AND MALIGNANCY

J. W. writes: Can weight be gained with cancer or does the victim always lose?

REPLY

Occasionally weight is gained in the early stages. Some have explained this phenomenon by saying that the individual is eating more to feed the cancer. Weight loss is the rule, however, when cancer is beyond hope.

NECK CARBUNCLES

H. J. writes: Do carbuncles on the neck mean bad kidneys?

REPLY

No. Carbuncles are infections in their own right and represent an invasion of hair follicles by staphylococci. The neck is a favorite location because it is a good dirt collector and is subjected to irritation from the collar.

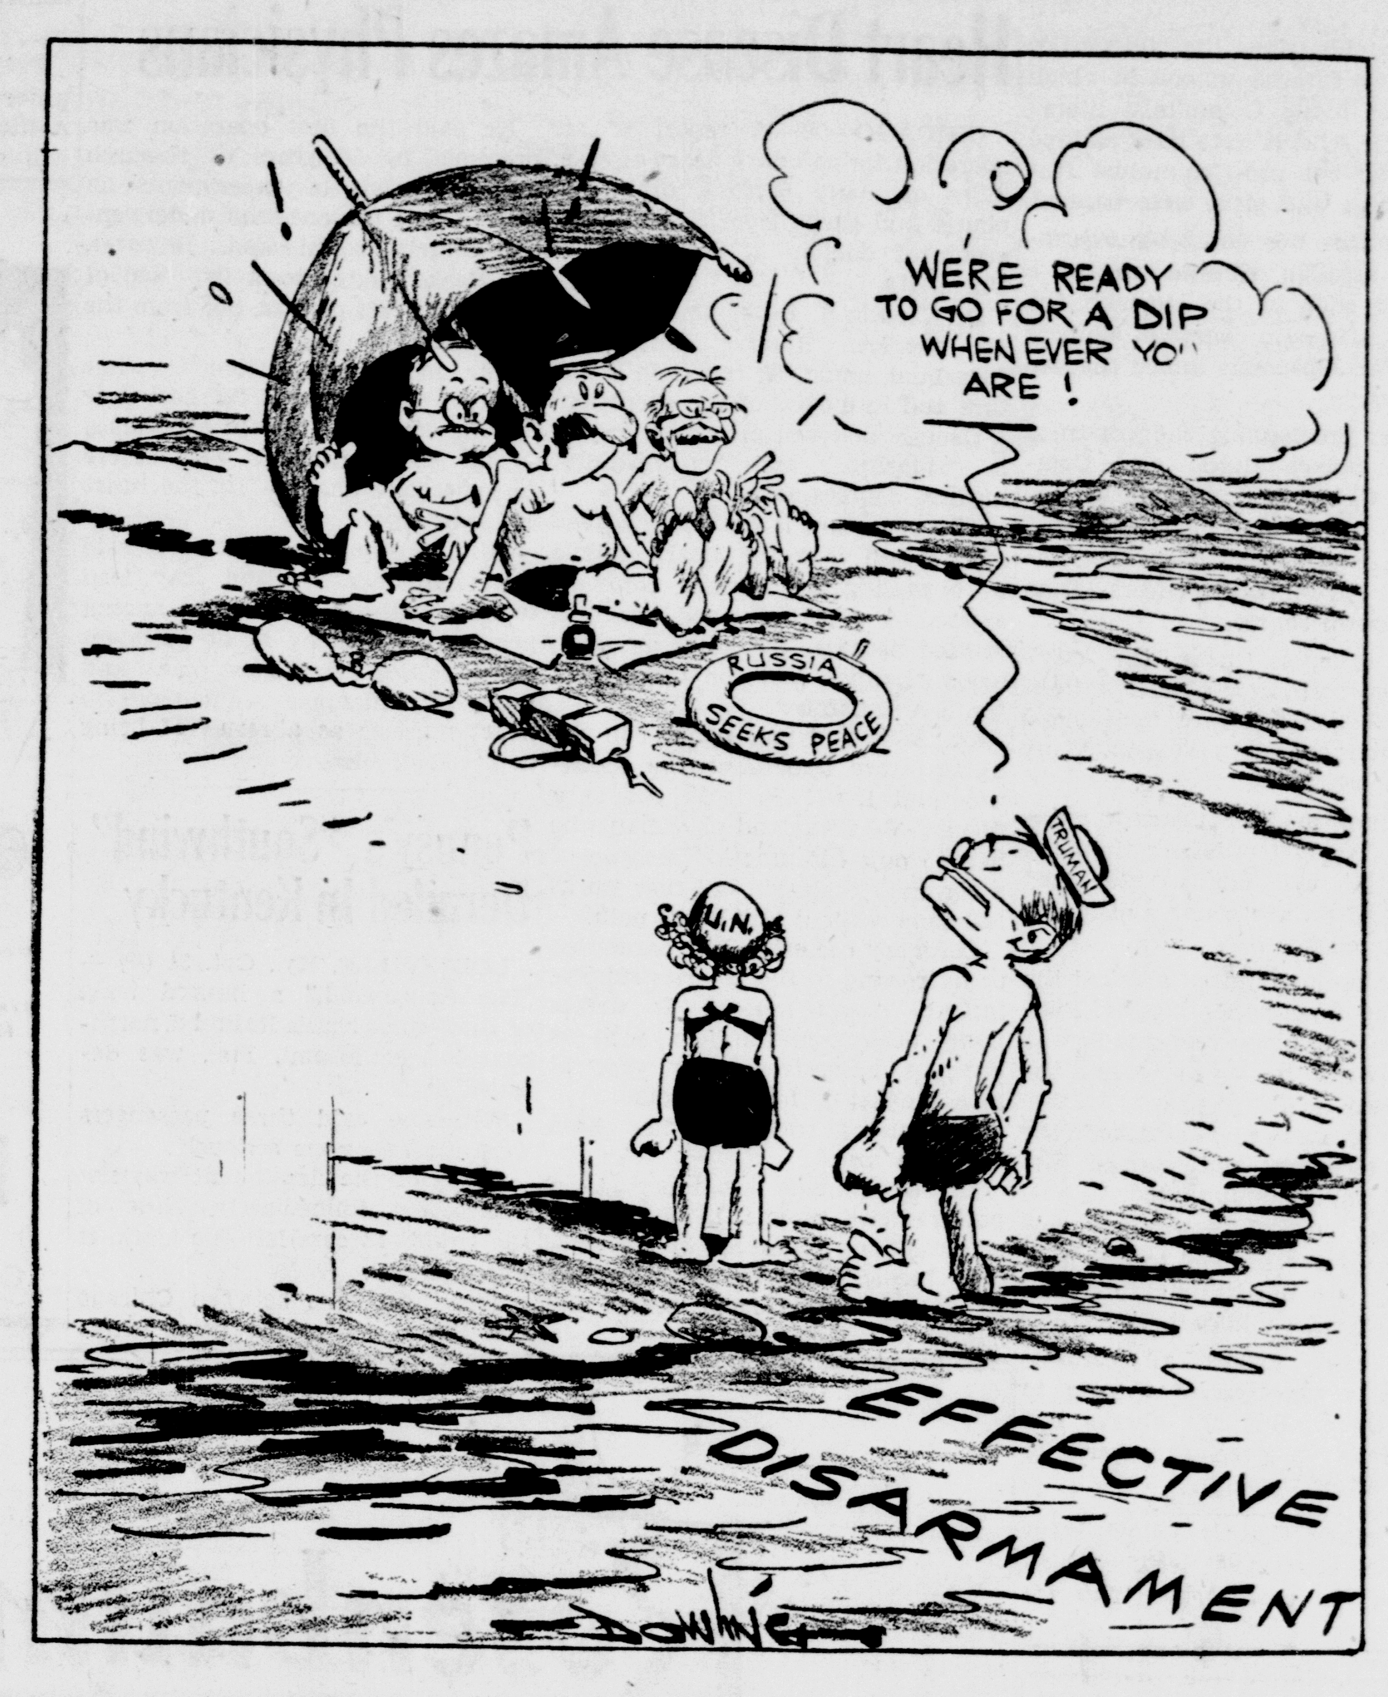
IRRITABLE HEART

L. W. writes: What is the medical name for a nervous heart?

REPLY

Various terms are used, including cardiac neurosis, simple tachycardia, arrhythmia, and irritable heart. When the symptom is present, physicians formerly referred to the general condition as neurocirculatory asthenia but now psychoneurosis is the term used.

NOW COMES THE SHOWDOWN



The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Pennsylvania Offers Two Good Senate Candidates; Gov. Duff Represents New GOP Philosophy; Duff May Be Presidential Candidate If He Wins Senate Race

Says DREW PEARSON

HARRISBURG, Pa.—The State of Pennsylvania, which has sent some freak senators to Washington in the past, this year can't very well go wrong. It has two good men to pick from: Gov. James Duff, Republican; and Sen. Francis Myers, Democrat.

However, if the tremendous swing which nominated Duff last May continues, he will be the new senator in Washington next January.

This—if it happens—will mark something more than just a new senator from Pennsylvania. For Duff represents a new philosophy inside the Republican party which it needs more of if it is ever going to recapture the White House. He also is a man who is sure to be considered a Presidential candidate if he wins on November 7.

When Duff was nominated to the Senate last spring he received letters from all over the country stating: "Thank God for a change in the Republican leadership. We're Democrats, but we would vote Republican, if the Republicans offered something new."

What they referred to is the fact that Duff has not tried to tear down all the new deal legislation FDR built up. Nor has he based his campaign on the Senator McCarthy bogey that Communists lurk under State Department desks. Instead, he has followed a policy not unlike that of Governor Warren of California of taking the best of the new deal program and adding some features of his own—cleaning up one of the chief rivers of his state, reforming the insane asylums, improving the schools, and putting the Pennsylvania Manufacturers Association in its place.

For years, Pennsylvania was ruled by the barons of coal, steel, gas, and oil. What they wanted, they largely got. And the normal GOP governor in Harrisburg usually did their bidding. Governor Duff, however, reversed this, and in so doing won the undying enmity of that insatiable disciple of the high tariff, Joe Grundy, plus all his fellow manufacturers. They did their best to defeat Duff at the primaries, and, believe it or not, they are now conspiring with a Democrat, Senator Myers, to try to defeat Duff in November.

Presidential Material

Jim Duff is big, barrel-chested, redheaded, rides horseback at the age of 67 two or three times a week, works late hours, reads till one or two a. m., and drinks water incessantly. If it wasn't for his age, he would be excellent Presidential timber, though in these days, with MacArthur 71, General Marshall 70, and Harry Truman one year younger than Duff, he can't be counted out.

Duff inherited some of his crusading belligerency from his father, a Presbyterian minister in Westmoreland county, near Carnegie. His father supported five children on an income of $3,700, and sent all of them to college. When Jim Duff was a boy, he remembers an oil company drilling wells opposite his father's farm and offering to buy the Duff place—for a song. His father refused.

Instead, he drilled eight wells on his own land. But when he could not get the oil company to buy his gas, the elder Duff simply uncorked a well, let the gas gush out, thus lowering the pressure in the wells across the line.

After that the oil company came to terms.

That was when Jim Duff got his first taste of bucking big business, and he has been bucking the barons most of his life.

His next brush came when he was attorney general of Pennsylvania and closed the legal loopholes permitting dumping in Pennsylvania rivers. Later, as Governor, he started the almost revolutionary project of dredging out the Schuylkill river.

Dredges River

For years the coal companies had been dumping their waste coal and culm into the Schuylkill until its channel was choked to a height of 18 feet. This is now being dredged out of the river, the channel restored, and about one-third of the coal reclaimed.

At first, business was opposed. But the other day, Revelle Brown, president of the Reading Railroad told the Governor: "They've been rapping you over the Schuylkill river, but I think it's one of the best things the state has ever done."

Another Duff project was to clean up the state asylums, long one of the worst scandals in Pennsylvania. The Byberry asylum near Philadelphia was so filthy that holes in the floor were used as toilets, and inmates were chained to the walls. But with the help of former Supreme Court Justice Owen Roberts, Life magazine and a group of Quakers, Byberry has now been completely renovated. And today Pennsylvania is ahead of most states in its care of the insane.

Duff is a former bull-mooser, was a delegate to the Teddy Roosevelt convention in 1912, along with another eminent Pennsylvanian, Harold Ickes. His disrespect for big business was acquired both from Teddy and his father.

"The general run of people," he says, "are not interested in making the rich richer and the poor poorer."

Turns Down Retainers

There is an interesting contrast between the life of Jim Duff and that of Joe Hanley, lieutenant governor of New York. When Duff was urged to run for governor, he also pled lack of funds. But a friend argued:

"You can get two retainers for $20,000 and $15,000 that will supplement your state salary."

The friend mentioned two Pennsylvania utility companies for whom Duff had worked in the past. Unlike Hanley, however, Duff replied:

"Not me. When I work for my state or my government, I don't take money from an outside source."

After conferring with Mrs. Duff, however, they decided to curtail their domestic budget and thus run for office.

Governor Duff belongs to a small but growing school within the Republican party, including Governor Warren of California, Governor Driscoll of New Jersey, Senators Ives of New York and Morse of Oregon, who believe that you don't win votes merely by criticism. You have got to lead, build, contruct, they believe, not tear down. And if sometimes your program overlaps or coincides with the Democrats', they also believe that's no reason for shying away from it.

That's why the prospective senator from Pennsylvania says:

"In this fight the Republican party cannot go two ways at the same time."

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31 — The United States Government may have inadvertently—or perhaps purposely—made a decision to use the veto for the first time in the Security Council of the United Nations, which, although on a different matter, could mean an adamant refusal to admit Communist China as a permanent member of the Council.

The United States has long hesitated to use the veto. The other day, when the question of permitting other candidates to replace Trygve Lie as secretary-general of the U. S. to use the veto power.

But in the background of this decision something else comes up for consideration. The United States had announced before the outbreak of the Korean war that, if the other members of the council favored the admission of Communist China, there would be no use of the veto and the American government would abide by the wishes of the majority.

Played Dangerous Role

The Communists of China, however, have played a dangerous role in the Koeran affair. They have denounced the U. S. as an aggressor and have echoed the party line of Moscow. The Chinese Communists, moreover, have been sending military equipment to aid the Korean reds to do battle against the U. N. forces. Today word comes that a Chinese regiment has been identified as part of the North Korean forces.

In the face of all these facts, the United States can contend that the situation with respect to Communist China has changed since June 25, when the Korean war broke out, and that military control of all China by one government is not the sole criterion. Rather it can be argued that the hostility of the Communist government in China to the U. N. is in itself a major reason why admission should be denied.

Nor can the United States now say that to use the veto would be a bad precedent. Up to now, it has been pointed out that the excessive use of the veto by the Russians was a sufficient cause for restraint on the part of the free nations in withholding the veto.

But the reasons advanced by the United States in announcing a willingness to use the veto to prevent the election of someone other than Trygve Lie as secretary-general included a statement that, to do otherwise, would be to condone Russia's course in the Korean affair.

Substantial Issue

It is admitted by the Russians that they oppose Trygve Lie only because he summoned the U. N. Security Council into session last June and helped to get the procedure into operation for U. N. resistance to aggression. This is a substantial issue and one which the American government is right in defining, but it is not more important than the admission of a government which not only denounced the U. N. as aggressors but also furnished military assistance to attempt to defeat the efforts of the U. N. forces.

The veto was originally inserted in the U. N. charter because of a belief on the part of the late President Roosevelt and Marshal Stalin that each of the major powers would wish to protect their sovereighty in the international organization and that matters affecting their own vital interests would not be submitted to majority vote.

But there never was any thought that a nation which itself was involved directly or indirectly in an aggression should be permitted to use the veto or block the enforcement of a rule of law in the world. So, in appraising the future, it is clear that a vote to keep out of the U. N. Security Council a nation hostile to the purposes of the U. N. itself is a logical exercise of the veto power in a matter of great substance.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

The Shortage Of Teachers

THE TEACHING profession is running down, although teachers are comparatively well paid for a professional group. To the monetary payments must be added the short year, the short day and the opportunities to earn additional pay.

These used to be regarded favorably until the 40-hour week for industrial workers equalized the advantage of a short day for teachers. The steady income and tenure used to be a great advantage for teachers, but with full employment and even wartime employment, industry can provide stead work and seniority is similar to tenure in some respects.

Teachers go into industry for higher pay. It is a matter of money. The preparation for school teachers has become stiffer; the examination tougher; and if a teacher really wants to advance, he or she has to take summer work, leading to an M. A. of a PH.D. It is cheaper to join a union and get a job in a factory.

There was a time when the position of school teacher stood in the community as a post of great dignity and importance. The school teacher was among the leaders of men. Public esteem and leadership are often compensations in themselves. The leveling of communal life has removed these advantages and has left the teacher in the position of just another government worker, often regarded as a particularly unsatisfactory worker because the school system in many communities is no longer favorably accepted by parents who wonder why their wonderful children come out of the schools such queer creatures. Non-parents wonder at the costs.

The number of children going to school is on the increase. Shifts of population influence school costs and activities. For instance, large new building projects throw upon communities new burdens of taxation beyond their strength. Thousands of children are being born to veterans who in from four to six years hence will need schools in these new areas. Local budgets rarely make provisions long enough in advance not to send the tax rate up to heights that actually endanger home ownership.

In some communities, teachers are changed often to avoid tenure, thus preventing that continuity of personality which builds an institution. In rural communities that is particularly a growing vice, the idea being that the community does not want to be tied to a teacher it cannot fire.

It is expected that by 1957, elementary school enrollment will reach 29,500,000 and high school enrollment will be 7,300,000. This will mean an increase by about 10,000,000 children over a period of 10 years, and provision must be made for them, not only in buildings but teachers.

The real dilemma for local communities is that money is getting to be harder to find. The thing called "welfare" eats up so much of a municipality's budget. Even rural townships find old age relief and similar welfare funds encroaching on school and road money. Real estate in cities cannot carry much more of a tax load without raising rents, and whenever that is tried, for whatever reason, a howl goes up on the general assumption that the landlord is a usurer per se.

If parents were happier about the schools, the teachers would, nevertheless, have greater public support for increases. The fact is that quite generally parents wonder what the children learn at school. The fault is not altogether the teacher's; it is as much the responsibility of the parent.

As a parent, he insists that his child shall, in the school, be taught to be a decent citizen, an upright, moral person. This can only be done by religious education; by teaching the precept; by reading the Bible and the great writings of our civilization. As a citizen, he often objects to just that. He cannot have it both ways. Children brought up without moral precept and without religious guidance lack a complete education in their early years. Yet, many parents want just that but object to the results of their own desires. Then they blame the schools and the teachers for their own decisions as parents and citizens.

Teaching in elementary schools must be made more attractive while at the same time the schools must be more selective as to the quality of teachers. It is a tough problem not easily solved, but an important one if the citizens of our next generations are to be any good.

Times Square Talk-Talk

TALKED to a smart fellow the other night—Joe E. Lewis, the night-club comedian.

Billy Rose

"Hear you turned down five grand to do a guest shot on TV," I said.

"You heard right," said Joe.

"Five grand is a lot of dough for an hour's work," I said.

"It sure is," said Joe, "but they're not buying an hour. Actually, they're buying twenty years — that's how long it took me to learn how to make an audience laugh."

"A lot of people would get to see you," I said.

"That's the trouble," said Joe. "The way I'm going now, I play to, lets say a thousand customers a night and they each spend about five bucks to see me. On a big TV show I'd be seen by a million people, which means I'd be selling my act for half a cent a head. Besides, there's no guarantee I wouldn't strike out—some pretty funny guys already have."

"Several of your routines are sure-fire," I said.

"I'd use them up in a couple of weeks," said Joe. "Playing the night-club circuit, I can tell the same jokes for months because I never play for long in any one town. No, I think I'd better stick to my own racket where there's no stop-watch, no sponsor and no guy named Hooper to worry about. Think I'm crazy?"

"Sure, you're crazy," I said. "As crazy as that little animal they chase after in red coats."

This afternoon Herman Levin, co-producer of the show playing my theatre, dropped in to see me.

"Any idea where I can find a dozen good-looking girls?" he said.

"Casting for a harem?"

"No, for 'Bless You All,' my new show," said Herman. "I'm willing to pay a hundred and fifty a week for standout showgirls."

"Afraid I can't help you," I said. "The pretty ones I know are all working."

"Where do you get your girls?" asked Herman.

"From all over," I said. "If I hear of a beautiful girl in Chicago, I write for her photo, and if it measures up I have her come into New York for an interview. To show you how far I'll go—a few years back Stanton Griffis sent me a picture of a girl in Sweden named Siri. It took six months to clear her with the immigration people, but the big blonde was worth all the trouble."

"That kind of thing would take months," said Herman, "and I go into rehearsal next week."

"Next time you do a show," I said, "give yourself a little more leeway. schedule some of your chorus calls out of town—Texas, for instance, is sure-pop in the girl department. Matter of fact, there's hardly a city in this country where a chorus call won't turn up some pretty snazzy specimens—gals who never had the carfare to come to New York."

"What you're proposing," said Herman, "is that I hit the road for several months and do nothing but look at girls."

"What's wrong with that?" I said.

Try And Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

Betty Hutton was sent to represent her studio at a religious convention while she was making personal appearances in the South to ballyhoo a new musical. "I think I made one slight error," she reported in mortification, when she came back to the hotel. "One of the ministers asked me if I'd like some more corn—and without thinking, I handed him an empty glass."

A man was rushing lickety-split down Park Avenue one morning, when a friend stopped him and reminded him, "Hey, it's hot! Why are you hurrying so?" The harassed man answered, "Because I'm on my way to my analyst's, and when I'm late he makes me stand up."

Hollywood's most distinguished language-assassin was invited to a dinner recently. "I can't make it," he announced regretfully, "but I hope you'll give me a rain-coat."

A-Bombs Useful Even If Never Exploded

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31 (AP) — Chairman Gordon Dean of the Atomic Energy Commission said that America's highly expensive atom bombs may be useful even if they are never exploded.

Dean said the atomic metal—uranium and plutonium — can be withdrawn from weapons and converted to supply power "much more valuable than the gold at Fort Knox."

Fort Knox in Kentucky is the major repository of U. S. gold re- now estimated at more than ,000,000.

Thre are foolish ways and faddish ways to lose weight. But the easy way is following the Powers Beauty Diet.

SECRETS OF CHARM

by JOHN ROBERT POWERS

HABIT is a wonderful thing when you use it to do your bidding. But when habit uses you, it may use you very badly. That is what has happened if you're overweight. You have got into the habit of eating high-caloried foods and cultivated a taste for them. You can change that habit, and ir sooner than you think, will find yourself actually preferring the food that will keep you looking your best and feeling your best, too.

Neither Faddy nor Foolish

To lose weight, the foolish often starve themselves; but that's neither easy on the nerves nor on the looks. The faddy folk go for special foods; but that's no simple matter either at home or at a restaurant. There's just one easy way: Eat the ordinary, everyday foods—but in the exact portions and balances that result in reduced weight.

Following is a correctly planned, weight-reducing day's menu to use as a pattern. Get out your calorie counter (found in most cookbooks) and compute the calories of each item on it. Using this as your guide, beside each food listed on your calorie counter, note the quantity you can allow yourself without going over your calorie budget for any meal. You'll discover such interesting facts as—a slice of blueberry pie costs you seven times as much as a dish of blueberries; you can have more than twice as large a serving of carrots as of lime beans. A large beefburger or a generous slice of lean roast beef costs only twice as much as an unbuttered slice of white bread.

When you've completed your list, stick a copy up in the kitchen and another in your purse—and then stick to it! You'll be able to sit down to a happy board, no matter where, and find a selection of slimming, beautifying, healthful foods suited to your needs.

Foods for One Day

Here is your day's meal guide.

Breakfast: ½ cup grapefruit juice; ¾ cup hot oatmeal; ½ cup milk; 1 slice rye toast; ½ pat butter; coffee.

Lunch: ¼ cup welsh rarebit; 3 saltines; 1 jellied tomato salad; 1 cup milk; ½ cup fruit cup.

Dinner: 1 stuffed green pepper with meat; ½ cup stewed tomatoes; 4 stalks celery; 3 halves of canned apricots with syrup; coffee.

If you train your palate to like low-caloried foods (thousands prefer them) your figure will take care of itself!

Tomorrow: Party preparations.

P. S. from J. R. P.
YOUR BEAUTY DIET

No matter what your weight problem — whether you want to gain, lose or remain the same — YOUR BEAUTY DIET will provide you with a safe and sane pattern of laboratory-tested menus that can be followed by the entire family according to each individual's needs. YOUR BEAUTY DIET is a way of eating, not starving, and the tasteful, appetizing meals it contains require no extra planning or preparation! For the booklet, write to me in car of this newspaper and enclose 10c in coin to help cover cost, plus stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Washington Whirl

By AUSTINE

WASHINGTON

THE Political Pollsters ride again! . . . In spite of the spills they took predicting Dewey to beat Truman in '48, they're galloping along merrily . . . One Capitol Hill forecaster sees the Republicans winning six seats in the Senate, just enough to cause a confusing tie . . . The present division is 54 Democrats to 42 Republicans . . . In the words of the sports writers, he lists GOP pick-up as follows:

Penna.—Duff over Meyers
Calif.—Dixon over Douglas
Conn.—Talbert over McMahon
Bush over Benton
Okla.—Alexander over Monroney
Idaho—Walker over D. Worth Clark

AUSTINE

Fall election worries can give The Special Counsel to the President, Mr. Charles Murphy, a headache when he's at the office . . . And he has cause for headaches at home too . . . The Murphy household has been in an autumn turmoil.

The Murphys have three children . . . oldest daughter plays accordion in the Montgomery High School Band . . . Oldest boy, ten, a student at Woodside, plays cornet . . . Both play the piccolo, clarinet, piano, cornet, guitar AND fife.

"They get their musical talent out of thin air," sighs Mrs. Murphy. Neither she nor papa can play anything. "Our household's in an uproar! What with getting band uniforms ready and practicing different numbers on the different instruments!"

Mr. Murphy and Mr. Truman his boss, it seems, both have talented offspring . . . Further coincidence: Clark Clifford, Murphy's predecessor, also has a daughter who seriously considered a concert singing career until not long ago. A young Marine has talked her out of it and into marriage.

At an off-the-record campaign debate recently, Helen Gahagan Douglas heckled her Republican opponent for California's Senate seat, Rep. Richard Nixon. . . She lashed at him for the reactionary company he kept . . Nixon protested, "Why, Mrs. Douglas, listen to this letter I got"—He read a letter, offering him money for his campaign fund and heartiest support for his courageous fight. "That letter," bragged Nixon, "is signed Eleanor Roosevelt!"

He passed it around for examination . . . Mrs. Douglas looked crushed. To think that her old friend, Eleanor, was backing a Republican! . . . Nor did she laugh with the rest of the audience when Nixon took an envelope from his pocket and showed the postmark—Oyster Bay . . . He explained that this Eleanor Roosevelt was Eleanor Butler Roosevelt, widow of Col. Theodore Roosevelt. Although she has every right to call herself Eleanor Roosevelt she wasn't Helen Gahagan Douglas' Eleanor Roosevelt.

Windmills may whirl into fashion . . . I don't mean "windmills" is a name for a new style hat, skirt of brassiere . . . No, I mean the kind they have in Holland.

Scientists, called to Washington by the President's Water Resources Board Chairman, Leland Olds, have presented lengthy technical reports seriously proving that the wind should be harnessed to produce electric power . . . Including diagrams showing how it would be possible to produce constant electric power in every state . . . simply by building huge windmills.

Now if we build windmills for electric power, and fly around the sky making rain, some of these big Government dams could be put up for sale as summer resorts.

Senator O'Mahoney, for instance, argues that, "it's only a question of time before rain-making will be an accomplished fact like big power dams and reclamation ditches . . . We'll probably even come to deciding whether we'll have 'Government Rain' or 'Free Enterprise Rain'."

As soon as Congress gets back, Senator O'Mahoney and his Committee on Interior and Insular Affairs will press for bigger and better and more rain-making.

Also for making fresh water out of salt water.

As yet they have no plans for desalting the ocean—the old fogies.

There are foolish ways and faddish ways to lose weight. But the easy way is following the Powers Beauty Diet.

SECRETS OF CHARM

by JOHN ROBERT POWERS

HABIT is a wonderful thing when you use it to do your bidding. But when habit uses you, it may use you very badly. That is what has happened if you're overweight. You have got into the habit of eating high-caloried foods and cultivated a taste for them. You can change that habit, and far sooner than you think, will find yourself actually preferring the food that will keep you looking your best and feeling your best, too.

Neither Faddy nor Foolish

To lose weight, the foolish often starve themselves; but that's neither easy on the nerves nor on the looks. The faddy folk go for special foods; but that's no simple matter either at home or at a restaurant. There's just one easy way: Eat the ordinary, everyday foods—but in the exact portions and balances that result in reduced weight.

Following is a correctly planned, weight-reducing day's menu to use as a pattern. Get out your calorie counter (found in most cookbooks) and compute the calories of each item on it. Using this as your guide, beside each food listed on your calorie counter, note the quantity you can allow yourself without going over your calorie budget for any meal. You'll discover such interesting facts as—a slice of blueberry pie costs you seven times as much as a dish of blueberries; you can have more than twice as large a serving of carrots as of lime beans. A large beefburger or a generous slice of lean roast beef costs only twice as much as an unbuttered slice of white bread.

When you've completed your list, stick a copy up in the kitchen and another in your purse—and then stick to it! You'll be able to sit down to a happy board, no matter where, and find a selection of slimming, beautifying, healthful foods suited to your needs.

Foods for One Day

Here is your day's meal guide.

Breakfast: ½ cup grapefruit juice; ¾ cup hot oatmeal; ½ cup milk; 1 slice rye toast; ½ pat butter; coffee.

Lunch: ¼ cup welsh rarebit; 3 saltines; 1 jellied tomato salad; 1 cup milk; ½ cup fruit cup.

Dinner: 1 stuffed green pepper with meat; ½ cup stewed tomatoes; 4 stalks celery; 3 halves of canned apricots with syrup; coffee.

Tomorrow: Party preparations.

Washington Whirl

By AUSTINE

WASHINGTON

THE Political Pollsters ride again! . . . In spite of the spills they took predicting Dewey to beat Truman in '48, they're galloping along merrily . . . One Capitol Hill forecaster sees the Republicans winning six seats in the Senate, just enough to cause a confusing tie . . . The present division is 54 Democrats to 42 Republicans . . . In the words of the sports writers, he lists GOP pick-up as follows:

Penna.—Duff over Meyers
Calif.—Dixon over Douglas
Conn.—Talbert over McMahon
Bush over Benton
Okla.—Alexander over Monroney
Idaho—Walker over D. Worth Clark

● — ● — ●

AUSTINE

Fall election worries can give The Special Counsel to the President, Mr. Charles Murphy, a headache when he's at the office . . . And he has cause for headaches at home too . . . The Murphy household has been in an autumn turmoil.

The Murphys have three children . . . oldest daughter plays accordion in the Montgomery High School Band . . . Oldest boy, ten, a student at Woodside, plays cornet . . . Both play the piccolo, clarinet, piano, cornet, guitar AND fife.

"They get their musical talent out of thin air," sighs Mrs. Murphy. Neither she nor papa can play anything. "Our household's in an uproar! What with getting band uniforms ready and practicing different numbers on the different instruments!"

Mr. Murphy and Mr. Truman his boss, it seems, both have talented offspring . . . Further coincidence: Clark Clifford, Murphy's predecessor, also has a daughter who seriously considered a concert singing career until not long ago. A young Marine has talked her out of it and into marriage.

At an off-the-record campaign debate recently, Helen Gahagan Douglas heckled her Republican opponent for California's Senate seat, Rep. Richard Nixon. . . She lashed at him for the reactionary company he kept . . Nixon protested, "Why, Mrs. Douglas, listen to this letter I got"—He read a letter, offering him money for his campaign fund and heartiest support for his courageous fight. "That letter," bragged Nixon, "is signed Eleanor Roosevelt!"

He passed it around for examination . . . Mrs. Douglas looked crushed. To think that her old friend, Eleanor, was backing a Republican! . . . Nor did she laugh with the rest of the audience when Nixon took an envelope from his pocket and showed the postmark—Oyster Bay . . . He explained that this Eleanor Roosevelt was Eleanor Butler Roosevelt, widow of Col. Theodore Roosevelt. Although she has every right to call herself Eleanor Roosevelt she wasn't Helen Gahagan Douglas' Eleanor Roosevelt.

Windmills may whirl into fashion . . . I don't mean "windmills" is a name for a new style hat, skirt of brassiere . . . No, I mean the kind they have in Holland.

Scientists, called to Washington by the President's Water Resources Board Chairman, Leland Olds, have presented lengthy technical reports seriously proving that the wind should be harnessed to produce electric power . . . Including diagrams showing how it would be possible to produce constant electric power in every state . . . simply by building huge windmills.

Now if we build windmills for electric power, and fly around the sky making rain, some of these big Government dams could be put up for sale as summer resorts.

Senator O'Mahoney, for instance, argues that, "it's only a question of time before rain-making will be an accomplished fact like big power dams and reclamation ditches . . . We'll probably even come to deciding whether we'll have 'Government Rain' or 'Free Enterprise Rain'."

As soon as Congress gets back, Senator O'Mahoney and his Committee on Interior and Insular Affairs will press for bigger and better and more rain-making.

Also for making fresh water out of salt water.

As yet they have no plans for desalting the ocean—the old fogies.

County Roads Cost $59,830.20 In Past Quarter

Chapman Reports To Commissioners

A total of $59,830.20 was spent by the Allegany County Roads Department during the quarter running from July 1 through September 30, J. Walker Chapman, county purchasing agent and storekeeper, has reported to the Board of County Commissioners.

In a recapitulation of the purchases, Walker pointed out gas, fuel oil, oil and grease, tires, batteries, parts and labor cost the county $7,568.74, an average of $2,522.91 a month or $128.28 a day.

The overall totals, including the $7,568.74, in addition to purchases of tools, miscellaneous, materials on roads, labor on roads, vacation pay and sick pay, amounted to $59,830.20 or an average of $19,943.40 a month and $1,014.07 a day for the period from July 1 to September 30.

In his report on purchases, Chapman listed the following: Roads—bridges, $16,643.45, the largest single expenditure of $5,210.40 going to the Cumberland Contracting Company; equipment, $7,968.89; tools, $66.97; miscellaneous, $2,993.44; for a total of $27,672.75.

Expenses for equipment were listed like this: Gas-oil. $3,280.14; tires, $566.80; battery, $13.16; parts, $1,083.88; labor, $1,724.76 for a grand total of $7,568.74.

The report shows $16,643.45 spent on materials for roads; and $31,651.60 on labor for roads.

Potomac Coach Line Makes Second Cut

Potomac Coach Lines now has sold its rights to operate a city bus service in Martinsburg, W. Va., to City Coach Lines.

Earlier this week Potomac Coach Lines announced discontinuance of its Cumberland to Berkeley Springs, W. Va., run effective November 4. The Martinsburg rights have been turned over to Floyd E. Wilburn, who reports the West Virginia Public Service Commission has approved the change.

MIRROR OF YOUR MIND

By LAWRENCE GOULD
Consulting Psychologist

Would your husband "leave you for a prettier woman"?

Answer: He might, but it's most unlikely that that would be his main reason. Moral issues apart, a man is most likely to leave his wife because he believes, however wrongly, that he has found someone who will be kinder to him than she is. His ideas of what kindness consists in may be utterly unreasonable and unrealistic, but that does not change the fact that in most cases it is his attempt to realize them that makes him unfaithful, and the "pretty face" which some wives regard as a menace is a secondary issue.

Can hypnotic memories be trusted?

Answer: Much better than waking ones, writes Dr. Robert M. True in Science. A person who has been "regressed" by hypnosis to the point where he relives a period in his childhood will remember verifiable facts and events of that time with surprising accuracy. Eighty-three per cent of a group of men and women who were good hpynotic subjects could recall the day of the week on which Christmas or their birthdays came when they were 10, 7 and 4 years old although when awake they could not remember the date of recent events.

Will early illness make you hasty-tempered?

Answer: Yes, says Dr. George M. Stratton, University of California psychologist, on the basis of a study of 1000 students. People who have been through serious illness tend to become angry sooner and more violently than the average, and the earlier the illness came, the more hasty-tempered they are. A possible reason might be that a sense of insecurity makes you more prone to anger (in which fear is always the controlling factor), and that the less a child "understands" pain, the more frightening it will be to him

Music Makes Christmas

Can you imagine what Christmas would be without music—without "Holy Night" and the carols we love—without the "Halleluiah Chorus" from the "Messiah"—without "White Christmas"?

It's hard to imagine, isn't it? For music makes Christmas, Christmas is the birth of hope in the world, and music is the wings of hope.

There's a music gift for every member of the family—and for every pocketbook. You'll be amazed at the number of music gifts we have at the MUSIC SHOP. We'll be glad to show you items in which you are interested and to demonstrate them.

If you are undecided on what particular gift would most please your son, daughter, parent, friend—or yourself, perhaps the solution is a "gift certificate", or similar arrangement, which enables the recipient to make his or her own selection.

Give a music gift this Christmas. It will be a constant reminder of your thoughtfulness.

Truck Lights Probed In Crash

State Trooper Charles H. DeWitt is investigating to determine if improper lighting on the rear of a truck with which the automobile of Charles E. Stanton, 41, Grantsville, collided was a factor in Stanton's fatal crash.

The truck was driven by Herbert Clifford Layman, 45, also of Grantsville. The crash occurred last Thursday night.

Servies for Stanton, husband of the former Miss Pearl Hershberger, were held Sunday afternoon with Rev. George Ely, pastor of Grantsville Reformed Church, and Rev. L. N. Wilson, Berlin, Pa., former local pastor, officiating.

Chaplain Ray Jenkins read the burial rites and colorbearers included Edgar Bender and Randall Wiley. Color guards were Fay L. Miller and Darrell Stahl.

The firing squad was composed of Elbert Buckle, Paul Durst, Mark Miller, Guy Frickey, James Edwards and William H. Durst. Paul Lichty, Salisbury, and Michael Murray sounded taps.

Active pallbearers were D. W. Hershberger, Elwood Klotz, Clayton Edwards, Thomas and Charles Bender and Charles Keller, members of Camp No. 41, W.O.W. Honorary pallbearers included H. L. Pettit, C. O. Bender, Cecil Brenneman, Henry Patton, William Baker and Ralph Glotfelty.

Housework Easy Without Nagging Backache

As we get older, stress and strain, over-exertion, excessive smoking or exposure to cold sometimes slows down kidney function. This may lead many folks to complain of nagging backache, loss of pep and energy, headaches and dizziness. Getting up nights or frequent passages may result from minor bladder irritations due to cold, dampness or dietary indiscretions.

If your discomforts are due to these causes, don't wait, try Doan's Pills, a mild diuretic. Used successfully by millions for over 50 years. While these symptoms may often otherwise occur, it's amazing how many times Doan's give happy relief — help the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters flush out waste. Get Doan's Pills today!

10 Gubernatorial Contests Nov. 7 To Bear Watching

By D. HAROLD OLIVER

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The political fortunes of many a nationally-known figure will be at stake Nov. 7 when 32 states elect governors.

For some governorship candidates, the result will decide whether or not they are considered for presidential or vice-presidential nominations in 1952, or have a say in naming those slates.

Voter interest naturally turns first in non-presidential election years to which party is going to win control of the new Congress.

But when it is recalled that 13 of the nation's presidents previously served their states as governors, these races assume a significance that overlaps state borders.

At least 10 gubernatorial contests will bear watching this time. Not all of them have 1952 angles, of course. But wrapped up in them are veteran political figures, new personalities including a woman, and intro-party rows such as those in New York and Pennsylvania.

Govs. Thomas E. Dewey of New York and Earl Warren of California, the GOP national nominees in 1948; Frank J. Lausche (D-Ohio), and Chester Bowles (D-Conn) are battling hard for reelection in a list of elections that in many cases overshadow interest in Conrgessional contests.

All except Bowles are seeking third terms. Two of them—Warren and Bowles—are opposed by men with prominent names. Warren's opponent is James Roosevelt, eldest son of the late FDR. He is seeking his first political office. Bowles, wartime price administrator, is challenged by Rep. John Davis Lodge, brother of Sen. Lodge and grandson of the late Henry Cabot Lodge, leader in the fight against the League of Nations.

Rep. Walter A. Lynch is battling Dewey in what observers on both sides regard as Dewey's toughest fight of his political life. Republican State Treasurer Don H. Ebright takes on Lausche in Ohio.

The other six state races attracting more than average attention are these:

Pennsylvania — Former Superior Court Judge John S. Fine (R) versus Richardson Dilworth, Philadelphia city treasurer.

Massachusetts — Gov. Paul A. Dever (D) versus Arthur W. Coolidge (R), cousin of the late President Calvin Coolidge.

Arizona — Mrs. Ann Frohmiller (D), state auditor for 24 years, versus Howard Pyle (R), Phoenix radio executive.

Maryland—Gov. William Preston Lane, Jr. (D) versus Theodore R. McKeldin, former mayor of Baltimore.

Wisconsin—Walter J. Kohler (R), wealthy industrialist and son of the late former governor, versus Carl W. Thompson (D), national committeeman.

Altogether, 33 governorships are being filled this year. Maine started things off Sept. 11 by reelecting Gov. Frederick G. Payne, a Republican. Of the other governorships up for decision, 17 now are held by Democrats and 15 Republicans.

Another Delay In LaVale Water

In now appears that LaVale residents will have to wait until the end of the week before city water flows into their homes.

A spokesman indicated yesterday that three connections still had to be made. It will be "about the end of the week" before water flows through the pipes.

NEW YORK (INS)—THE PASSING show:

The invasion of Tibet by Chinese Reds poses many depressing questions for U. N. and the U. S. Shall we now fight half a billion Chinese to protect the theocracy of Lingerh Lamutanchu, the young Dalai Lama? We were appalled by the very prospect of fighting Chinese in Korea.

Is there a parallel between this new act of aggression and the one which we nobly contested in Korea to the tune of more than 100,000 American, South Korean, British, and Australian casualties—and billions of dollars?

Tibet is not a member of the United Nations and therefore is not eligible for certain of its boons. But doesn't the Charter of U. N. provide that non-members may appeal for protection against an imperialistic neighbor and U. N. is duty bound to do something about it? Even if the truculent neighbor also is a non-member.

Whether or not the entrance of Chinese troops into Tibet is an invasion probably will be argued at Lake Success until Mao is having a dinner of curds and yak steaks in the Potala, the fabled fortress-palace of the Dalai Lama and his ministers.

Tibet has not always been as remote as James Hilton painted it. The British, Chinese and Russians have sent forces against it in the 20th century. The Anglo-Russian convention of 1907 recognized Chinese control over this sky-scraping land, whose population is about half that of New York City. But when the Chinese revolution erupted in 1911 the Tibetans drove China's occupation forces out of Lhasa.

In World War One, the Tibetan government offered the British 1,000 troops, and as a result Britain since has been about the only foreign influence existing in the land whose very nature and customs militate against familiarity or control.

China tried to gain another foothold in a peaceful way under Chiang Kai-Shek. Now under Mao, China is doing it with force. That sweet dreamer of India, Pandit Nehru, refused to believe ill of Chinese Red intentions when he received the first reports. But now that the Reds are on the march and threaten to absorb what was the chief buffer between India and the Communist world, Nehru probably will be the first to squawk to U. N.

If U. N. decides to do something about it, the U. S. will have the main part of the job. But do our military men believe we can beat the limitless manpower of China on a battleground that possesses no targets for our air force, no area in which our navy can operate, and little foothold for our armored divisions?

But if U. N. decides to sit this one out, isn't it thus encouraging Communist armies to move into whatever lands are too inconvenient to defend?

If anyone has wondered how the New York Police Department was able to round up more than 500 hoodlums in the first few days of the move by ruggedly independent Vincent Impellitteri to insure an "election without terror," this is partly the answer:

Most of the bums dress alike. They wear an almost standardized outfit. It consists of a jacket about as long as an old zoot suit coat and trousers on the narrow side around the cuff.

The shirt is colored, with a Hollywood-type collar, always buttoned. No tie. The shoes often are a dark suede. The hat has a rather wide brim and is turned up all around. A cigar is a required ornament. The palor of the face is an inch deep, and the eyes are those of a cod.

The well-scrubbed hoboes frequent the bars, quick-and-dirties and fleabags adjacent to Broadway. They were about as hard to find as Times Square, and about as brassy. The city smells considerably better with them off the streets.

There are 96 members of the United States Senate. In April of 1950 Time Magazine singled out the ten leading members. One of these was Millard E. Tydings of Maryland. Nobody was surprised to see his name on the list. He has served with distinction in the Senate for 24 years. During that time, his energy, his independence and his ability have won him the respect of Democrats and Republicans alike. He's a good man in a good spot in critical times like these.

1 Tydings is 3rd ranking senior member of the Senate.

2 Tydings is Chairman of the Armed Services Committee.

3 Tydings is a member of the Joint Committee on Atomic Energy and the Foreign Affairs Committee.

4 Tydings has introduced and fought for more defense legislation than any other member of the Senate.

5 Tydings is one of the most forthright and independent men in Congress. He has never been the errand boy of any administration. He has consistently fought for the things he believes in.

6 Tydings served with distinction in World War I. He was awarded the Distinguished Service Cross for heroism in combat.

7 In the Senate Tydings has faced some of this country's gravest problems, yet he has never been too preoccupied or too busy to deal with matters which concern the people of his own state.

8 Tydings brings a lifetime of experience to his job. He is a lawyer, an engineer, a former soldier, and a statesman. He's a good man in a good spot in critical times like these.

Gunter Is Campaigning For State Office Without Asking For Votes

William A. Gunter, Cumberland attorney who is running for attorney general of Maryland on the Republican ticket, expects to finish the 1950 campaign without asking anyone to vote for him.

It occurred to Gunter about a week ago that he had yet to solicit a vote, and looking back upon a primary which he won by 15,000 votes, he decided that maybe this unpremeditated tactic was an effective one.

As lead-off speaker at rallies, he never mentions his own candidacy. He devotes half of his speech to lauding Theodore R. McKeldin, his party's choice for governor, and the remainder to John M. Butler, the senatorial nominee.

There are no Gunter signs, no Gunter pictures, no Gunter buttons, no Gunter "literature" in the campaign. He says he is quite content to be "that other man," because political stumping "can be so much fun."

Gunter contrives to remain apart from the bustle and turmoil that characterizes the McKeldin-Butler type of vote-getting.

While his running mates zoom from one prospective voter to another, handing out cards and shaking hands, Gunter sidles off to some lonely looking person and begins an intimate chat.

McKeldin and Butler easily brush through an entire packing plant while he is engaged in conversation with one oyster shucker.

"What's the use of running for office, if you don't have any fun?" he asks.

A "big "corporation" lawyer who had been out of politics for more than 20 years, Gunter was advised by his friends that labor would squash him in his own county if he ran.

"The most satisfaction I got out of the whole campaign was in watching the returns from Allegany county in the primary," he said. "I got 8,369 votes, and my opponent had only 1,186."

A native of Frostburg and a graduate of Dickinson College. Gunter began practicing law here 35 years ago. He served one term in the State Senate in 1927, and had not engaged in active politics until he filed this year.

He practices law with D. Lindley Sloan, former chief judge of the Maryland Court of Appeals, and his son, William A. Gunter, Jr.

Among his clients are the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad and the Celanese Corporation.

Garrett Grand Jury Gets Special Call

The case against Claude Selby, 23, Friendsville, charged with shooting District Game Warden Theodore Thoerig, 37, Mt. Savage, last Saturday, is one that will be considered at a special session of the Garrett county grand jury at 10 a. m. Friday.

Thoerig is recuperating at Allegany Hospital, where his condition last night was listed as "good." Associate Judge George Henderson issued the grand jury call yesterday.

Marriage Licenses Total 323 In Month

During October 323 marriage licenses, the majority obtained by couples from nearby states, were issued at the Court House, according to Clerk of Court Joseph E. Boden.

During the same period there were 12 divorce decrees issued in Circuit Court, which is reported to be lower than usual. These divorces were all to residents of Allegany county.

Premiere Movie Showing Sunday

A motion picture entitled "Again Pioneers," will be given its premiere in Cumberland and 99 other United States cities Sunday. The local showing, sponsored by the Cumberland Ministerium, will be presented at Centre Street Methodist Church at 7:30 p. m. Sunday.

"Again Pioneers" was produced at the MGM and Nassour studios by the Protestant Film Commission, which is supported by 19 major denominations and 13 interdenominational agencies. The Home Missions Council of North America cooperated in the production which was financed by boards of 14 denominations.

"This film will not only touch the heart of every American but will help to make clear the part the Christian Church is playing in safeguarding our democratic way of life from the sniping attacks of materialistic Communism by helping to strengthen the weak points in our social order," local ministers report. "The film is therefore of paramount interest to civic and community organizations as well as to the churches."

Education Week Program Planned

Morning discussions over the school's public address system will feature Fort Hill High School's observance of American Education Week, starting Sunday.

The topic for Monday, November 6, will be "Meaning of the Ballot" and will be discussed by Morgan C. Harris, state's attorney.

Wednesday will feature a talk by Earl E. Manges, local attorney, on "Responsibilities of the Citizen."

"Opportunity for All" will be presented by Mrs. Lucile Roeder, member of the City Council, on Thursday.

The series will be concluded Friday by Winfield H. Adam, secretary of the Y.M.C.A. His subject will be "Home, School, and Community Teamwork."

Barton Man Seeks Chief Clerk Post

David E. Kirk, 26, of Barton, applied for the position of chief clerk of Trial Magistrates' Court in Cumberland in a letter to the Allegany County Board of Commissioners.

Kirk has been operating a confectionery in Barton and also does some work for the Cumberland and Allegheny Gas Company. The board took no action as it has previously been reported that a successor to Charles Hyde, who resigned the post effective yesterday, will not be named until after the new board of county commissioners organizes early in December.

Liquor Board Opposes Request

A Class D beer license to Marian F. McLaughlin, trading as Glenora Inn, was denied yesterday by the Allegany County Liquor Control Board after residents of the Valley Road section where the place is situated expressed opposition.

The board cited numerous cases against the inn in refusing a license. Members particularly stressed that previous operators had been convicted of a number of violations of the liquor law and the place was open after hours and was some distance from police protection.

McKeldin and Butler easily brush through an entire packing plant while he is engaged in conversation with one oyster shucker.

"What's the use of running for office, if you don't have any fun?" he asks.

A "big "corporation" lawyer who had been out of politics for more than 20 years, Gunter was advised by his friends that labor would squash him in his own county if he ran.

"The most satisfaction I got out of the whole campaign was in watching the returns from Allegany county in the primary," he said. "I got 8,369 votes, and my opponent had only 1,186."

A native of Frostburg and a graduate of Dickinson College. Gunter began practicing law here 35 years ago. He served one term in the State Senate in 1927, and had not engaged in active politics until he filed this year.

He practices law with D. Lindley Sloan, former chief judge of the Maryland Court of Appeals, and his son, William A. Gunter, Jr.

Garrett Grand Jury Gets Special Call

The case against Claude Selby, 23, Friendsville, charged with shooting District Game Warden Theodore Thoerig, 37, Mt. Savage, last Saturday, is one that will be considered at a special session of the Garrett county grand jury at 10 a. m. Friday.

Thoerig is recuperating at Allegany Hospital, where his condition last night was listed as "good." Associate Judge George Henderson issued the grand jury call yesterday.

Marriage Licenses Total 323 In Month

During October 323 marriage licenses, the majority obtained by couples from nearby states, were issued at the Court House, according to Clerk of Court Joseph E. Boden.

During the same period there were 12 divorce decrees issued in Circuit Court, which is reported to be lower than usual. These divorces were all to residents of Allegany county.

Premiere Movie Showing Sunday

A motion picture entitled "Again Pioneers," will be given its premiere in Cumberland and 99 other United States cities Sunday. The local showing, sponsored by the Cumberland Ministerium, will be presented at Centre Street Methodist Church at 7:30 p. m. Sunday.

"Again Pioneers" was produced at the MGM and Nassour studios by the Protestant Film Commission, which is supported by 19 major denominations and 13 interdenominational agencies. The Home Missions Council of North America cooperated in the production which was financed by boards of 14 denominations.

"This film will not only touch the heart of every American but will help to make clear the part the Christian Church is playing in safeguarding our democratic way of life from the sniping attacks of materialistic Communism by helping to strengthen the weak points in our social order," local ministers report. "The film is therefore of paramount interest to civic and community organizations as well as to the churches."

Education Week Program Planned

Morning discussions over the school's public address system will feature Fort Hill High School's observance of American Education Week, starting Sunday.

The topic for Monday, November 6, will be "Meaning of the Ballot" and will be discussed by Morgan C. Harris, state's attorney.

Wednesday will feature a talk by Earl E. Manges, local attorney, on "Responsibilities of the Citizen."

"Opportunity for All" will be presented by Mrs. Lucile Roeder, member of the City Council, on Thursday.

The series will be concluded Friday by Winfield H. Adam, secretary of the Y.M.C.A. His subject will be "Home, School, and Community Teamwork."

Barton Man Seeks Chief Clerk Post

David E. Kirk, 26, of Barton, applied for the position of chief clerk of Trial Magistrates' Court in Cumberland in a letter to the Allegany County Board of Commissioners.

Kirk has been operating a confectionery in Barton and also does some work for the Cumberland and Allegheny Gas Company. The board took no action as it has previously been reported that a successor to Charles Hyde, who resigned the post effective yesterday, will not be named until after the new board of county commissioners organizes early in December.

Liquor Board Opposes Request

A Class D beer license to Marian F. McLaughlin, trading as Glenora Inn, was denied yesterday by the Allegany County Liquor Control Board after residents of the Valley Road section where the place is situated expressed opposition.

The board cited numerous cases against the inn in refusing a license. Members particularly stressed that previous operators had been convicted of a number of violations of the liquor law and the place was open after hours and was some distance from police protection.

Communist China Revises Almanac For Red Cause

SAN FRANCISCO — (AP) — The Communists now have gotten around to revising the Chinese equivalent of the old farmer's almanac—and have put it to work for the cause.

The Peiping radio, in a broadcast heard by the Associated Press in San Francisco, said a new calendar (actually, from the description, an almanac rather than a simple calendar) has been compiled by the Peiping Research Society for Cultural and Scientific Knowledge.

Giving both lunar and solar years, it is intended to replace the old almanac known as "the emperor's calendar," based on the lunar cycle.

Used for centuries by peasants, the emperor's calendar is replete with feudal superstitions. Every household, or at least every hamlet, has a copy that is, or has been, religiously consulted before nearly every undertaking, such as planting crops, building houses, traveling, marrying or burying the dead.

Even now its sales have been 2,000,000 to 3,000,000 a year in north, northeast and northwest China alone, the Red broadcast said.

In coming up with their new substitute, the Communists have followed the old form on advice on dates "suitable for doing so-and-so." The nature of the advice has been changed, however.

The Red version gives "suggestions about agricultural work," advice on such subjects as production, household hygiene and the new Red marriage laws, instruction in how to write a letter, how to play group games and songs and proverbs.

A first printing of 1,000,000 copies is planned.

Raw And Rugged Campaign Slugging Fires Election Battles In New York, Pa.

By GEORGE CORNELL

NEW YORK—(AP)—Raw and rugged campaign slugging is firing the East's pre-election battle—especially in politically important New York and Pennsylvania.

Long-time party loyalties, in some instances, have cracked under the strain.

With voting time only a week away, the most crucial struggles center in the big states with the biggest prizes. Combined results in the Empire and Keystone States could well swing the next Congress either to the Democrats or Republicans.

Both states also have a governorship and Senate seat at stake.

These factors, plus the airing of sensational charges of official corruption, are stirring intense public interest — evidenced by unusually high voting registration in the two states.

Also in the balance are the careers and political futures of two nationally powerful Republicans, Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York, and Gov. James H. Duff of Pennsylvania.

Other eastern states, notably Connecticut, also are generating considerable campaign fireworks. A surprising fight also has shaped up in normally Republican, normally calm New Hampshire.

Altogether, the six New England states, plus New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania, will fill 119 congressional posts, 55 of them now held by Democrats, 63 by Republicans, and one by the American Labor Party's coalition-beleaguered Vito Marcantonio of Manhattan.

Six Senate seats also are on the block in the region, four of them held by stiffly challenged Democrats.

As of today, here is how the picture stacked up in the eastern part of the country:

New York — Smoke still swirled from the hotly debated "Hanley Letter," which has supplied the Democrats with some of their most stinging campaign ammunition.

A Democratic-controlled U. S. Senate elections committee is investigating the affair, cited by state Democrats as evidence that Dewey snatched the governor's nomination from Lt. Gov. Joe R. Hanley by means of browbeating.

The letter, written by Hanley at the time he withdrew from the governor's race in Dewey's favor, said he had received "unalterable propositions" which would enable him to pay his debts if he agreed to run for the Senate instead.

Disclosure of the letter showed a sharp cleavage in the party, and poises a threat to the leadership of the two-times Presidential candidate on a national level.

Dewey's Democratic opponent, Rep. Walter A. Lynch, charges the incident demands Dewey's impeachments, and would keep Hanley from being seated in the Senate, if elected. Dewey retorts that the Democrats merely are trying to hide their own sins.

He accuses "Tammany crooks" of harboring a vast police graft and gambling setup, recently exposed in New York City. He pictures the letter affair as a "foul smear" being used by a "gang of scoundrels" trying to capture and disrupt an efficient, clean state government.

Hanley, echoing these charges, also is assailing his senatorial opponent, Incumbent Herbert H. Lehman, Democrat, as a leftist who is soft toward Communists. Lehman scoffs at the charge, terms Republicans a reactionary crowd that would stymie social progress.

Pennsylvania—Sparks of a series of grand jury probes coupled with an unhealed split in the GOP is sharpening the fight of Gov. Duff to unseat U. S, Senator Francis Myers, a New Deal and Fair Deal stalwart.

The Democrats are counting on a smouldering Republican rift to help them down Duff's Senate bid.

If they succeed, it would undermine Duff's wide party influence which has in the past earmarked him as a Presidential possibility.

Polish Mountain Homemakers Meet

A Halloween party will be held November 4 by the Polish Mountain Homemakers, who met recently at the camp club house.

Fire prevention and soil conservation were emphasized at the last meeting. As each of the 16 attending members answered roll call she read a phrase on fire prevention. Mrs. Russell O. Smith, president, read several articles on soil conservation. Then Mrs. J. Hartman, recreation chairman, directed a true and false game based on soil conservation statements. Most members answered correctly.

Forest Supervisor Brook Bodkin will show a fire prevention movie at the November 4 meeting. Guests at the last meeting were Mrs. Charles Crocks, Mrs. J. Teter and Mrs. John Teets.

Esther Circle Is Entertained

FORT ASHBY, W. Va. — Mrs. Daisy Davis, Mrs. Nannie Kline and Mrs. Mary Alkire were hostesses to the Esther Circle a recent evening at the home of Mrs. Davis.

Devotions were followed by a business session during which Mrs. Davis was elected president to replace Mrs. Pauline Adams, who resigned after holding the office for several years. The class presented Mrs. Adams with a sweater.

Others present were Mesdames Broome, Freda Frankland, Lola Wilson, Eva Richmond, Ethel Adams, Marjorie Wagoner, Elmira Borrer, Louise Wagoner, Mary Bennett, Nellie Welton, Pauline Adams, Edith Thompson, Ruth Deremer, Lola Dowden, Ethel Lotspeich, Clara May, Ruth Oates, Beatrice Jenkins, Hazel Troutman, Miss Flora Sweckler and Miss Flora Brafford.

Flintstone High Booters Play Central To 0-0 Tie

WMI Leaders Blow Two Penalty Shots, Barton Wins, 4-0

Coach Augie Eichhorn's Flintstone High School booters battled the pace-setting Central High eleven to a scoreless tie and Barton High handed Bruce its fifth straight defeat, 4-0, in W. M. I. Soccer League contests played yesterday at Flintstone and Barton.

The scoreless deadlock, fourth in the league this season, failed to knock the Orange and Black out of first place. Coach Johnny Meyers' Lonaconing Tigers head the procession with nine points while Barton and Beall are tied for the runner-up spot with seven points each.

Miss Two Penalties

Central was given two opportunities to score from the penalty line but Don McKenzie and Bobby Cook missed their shots. The final whistle halted a Flintstone scoring threat with two players in possession of the ball inside the 10 yard mark and only the Central goalie between them and the uprights.

Goalie Carl Mallow, Ronnie Roland, Ted Peffinberger and Aubrey Mauzy played best for Flintstone while Don McIntyre, Gene Reiber and Tommy Kelly stood out for Central.

High Score For Season

Barton's four points against Bruce was the greatest number of tallies credited to a league team in the 14 games played this year. No team had scored more than two points prior to this contest.

The teams battled without a score until the 3rd quarter when Tom Clark counted on a free kick from 25 yards out and Harry Kyle registered on a shot from scrimmage. Bill Kirk booted a pair of goals for Coach Johnny Thomas' team in the final stanza.

Goalie Don Bean, Tom Clark, Bill Kirk and Harry Kyle of Barton and Bill McKenzie, Bill Howe and Louis Complesi of Bruce played best.

Palmer Posts 65 To Equal Record In North, South

Five 67s Recorded In Opening Round

PINEHURST, N. C., Oct. 31 (AP)—With a record-equalling seven-under par 32-33 — 65 by Johnny Palmer the payoff punch, Pinehurst's fearsome No. 2 championship course rocked today under a birdie barrage never before seen in the 48-year-old North and South Open Golf Tournament.

Johnny Palmer

Palmer, the chunky Badin, N. C., professional who ranks 11th in this year's money winning list, strung together seven birdies and 11 pars to equal the event record set 15 years ago by Paul Runyan when the old course had sand greens.

Palmer had plenty of company in the par pulverizing department as this 72-hole, $7,500 event got under way.

Five 67 shooters were only two strokes off his scorching pace. In all, 18 players broke 70 and 17 others had 70 or 71, making 35 under par 72 for the 6,952-yard country club layout.

Fourteen others weighed in with respectable par 72's.

The 67 group included former P.G.A. champion Jim Ferrier of San Francisco; S. E. (Ted) Bishop, former national amateur king from Weston, Mass.; Johnny Weitzel, Harrisburg, Pa.; Walter Burkemo, Franklin, Mich., the Michigan open champion, and Toby Lyons, Jamestown, N. Y.

Only three strokes out of the lead were eight men at 68, headed by defending champion Sam Snead of White Sulphur Springs, W. Va. His company at that figure included amateur star Frank Stranahan of Toledo, Ohio.

Twenty-seven states are represented on Army's football roster. Pennsylvania has the heaviest representation with ten players.

Bonus Rule Headed For Scrap Pile

Move To Kill High School Rule Beaten

By FRITZ HOWELL

CINCINNATI, Oct. 31 (AP)—Baseball's controversial bonus rule, still on the books despite two major league attempts to oust it, appeared headed for the ash heap today.

Elimination of the rule, adopted Feb. 15, 1947, won approval of the major - minor executive committee today following a proposal by the Jersey City club.

The committee will recommend that the major and minor leagues, at their December meetings in St. Petersburg, Fla., erase the entire bonus structure.

Another proposal, under which the two Philadelphia clubs joined in an attempt to remove the high school rule, was rejected by the committee at a closed session called and presided over by Commissioner A. B. Chandler.

Warning From Chandler

Chandler said "abrogation of the high school rule would be one of the biggest mistakes organized baseball could make." The regulation prevents teams from signing high school players until after they have graduated, or their original class has graduated.

Walter Mulbry, secretary of baseball, said the game was "nearer than ever before to doing something for the Pacific Coast League."

The coast loop, with attorney Leslie O'Connor making the plea, asked the major-minor committee to excuse it from the draft, and for other undisclosed special dispensations. O'Connor, former assistant to the late Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis, and Branch Rickey—whose tenure as president and general manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers expired last Saturday — engaged in a friendly but highly vocal debate over the Pacific Coast loop's request.

The Coast League request gets further airing tomorrow by the committee in an 11 a. m. session, following a 10 o'clock meeting on: "What to do about major league baseball broadcasts."

To Discuss Broadcasts

The broadcasts, blamed by the minors for an 8,000,000 drop in attendance this year, were discussed for only a minute or two today.

Mulbry said "there was quite a bit of discussion on whether the $975,000 derived from world series

AHS Jayvees Defeat Keyser, 18-9, Dick Rank Scores Two Touchdowns

Whisler's Long Pass Sets Up Final Score

Dick Rank scored two touchdowns yesterday as Allegany High School's Jayvees notched their third victory of the football season at the expense of Keyser High School's Jayvees at Campobello. The score was 18-9.

In the opening period, Ellis Whisler passed 14 yards to Walter Bosley for the Campers' initial touchdown but Keyser came back in the same quarter to take a 7-6 lead when Alkire snatched G. Karras' pass in the end zone and G. Karras ran the extra point.

Rank ran 23 yards for the Blue and White's second score and Keyser trailed 12-9 at the halfway mark after scoring a safety.

The Campers sewed up the game in the third period when Rank pushed over from the one-yard mark following a series of plays after Whisler's 45-yard aerial to Jim Border had carried AHS to the KHS 27.

The game's outstanding players were Martin, Bosley, Rank, Ziler, Horton and Cecil of Allegany and Alkire, G. Karras, Stoutamyer and Rice of Keyser.

Keyser made 7 first downs to 6 for Allegany. Coach Jim Hosack's team completed two of five passes for 71 yards and piled up 178 yards on the ground. The West Virginians clicked four times in seven tries in the air for 61 yards and gained 167 yards overland.

The teams played a 6-6 tie in their initial meeting. Lineups:

NEW...fall-grade

Anti-stalling

Esso EXTRA Gasoline

A big new EXTRA at the Esso Sign

Helps prevent stalling* in your car!

NOW, FOR THE FIRST TIME IN MOTORING HISTORY — a revolutionary new fall-grade gasoline that resists stalling . . . annoying conk-outs at traffic lights or parking, and that sputter-and-stall trouble during the first few minutes of driving on damp, chilly days.

It's especially good in cars with AUTOMATIC TRANSMISSIONS—where restarting after stalling is more troublesome.

IT'S ANOTHER BIG EXTRA FOR YOUR MONEY IN ESSO EXTRA—the high-test gasoline long famous for quick starting, fast warm-up, high anti-knock power and long mileage! And Esso Extra is the ONLY premium gasoline with patented Esso Solvent Oil that fights harmful engine deposits.

Don't stall another day... try a tankful right away!

And when you're in, there's no better time to let your Esso Dealer give your car a complete check-up for the winter driving you'll be doing!

*Don't let this happen to you!

Stalling that occurs on cool, humid days (30° to 55° temperatures, humidity above 65%) is generally caused by carburetor "icing." Evaporation of the highly volatile gasolines required for modern cars has a refrigerating effect which freezes moisture out of the air, accumulating icy frost in the carburetor. New Fall-Grade Anti-Stalling Esso Extra Gasoline helps eliminate this cause of stalling, which is experienced with most cars on the road today. It will not, of course, prevent stalling caused by faulty carburetor adjustment or electrical failure.

NEW... fall-grade Anti-stalling Esso EXTRA Gasoline

A big new EXTRA at the Esso Sign

Helps prevent stalling* in your car!

NOW, FOR THE FIRST TIME IN MOTORING HISTORY — a revolutionary new fall-grade gasoline that resists stalling . . . annoying conk-outs at traffic lights or parking, and that sputter-and-stall trouble during the first few minutes of driving on damp, chilly days.

It's especially good in cars with AUTOMATIC TRANSMISSIONS—where restarting after stalling is more troublesome.

IT'S ANOTHER BIG EXTRA FOR YOUR MONEY IN ESSO EXTRA—the high-test gasoline long famous for quick starting, fast warm-up, high anti-knock power and long mileage! And Esso Extra is the ONLY premium gasoline with patented Esso Solvent Oil that fights harmful engine deposits.

Don't stall another day... try a tankful right away!

And when you're in, there's no better time to let your Esso Dealer give your car a complete check-up for the winter driving you'll be doing!

*Don't let this happen to you!

Stalling that occurs on cool, humid days (30° to 55° temperatures, humidity above 65%) is generally caused by carburetor "icing." Evaporation of the highly volatile gasolines required for modern cars has a refrigerating effect which freezes moisture out of the air, accumulating icy frost in the carburetor. New Fall-Grade Anti-Stalling Esso Extra Gasoline helps eliminate this cause of stalling, which is experienced with most cars on the road today. It will not, of course, prevent stalling caused by faulty carburetor adjustment or electrical failure.

Ben Hogan Voted Golfer Of Year, Snead Is Second

173 Cast Ballots, Texan Given 112

CHICAGO, Oct. 31 (AP) — Ben Hogan, 1950's gallant comebacker, today was voted the P.G.A.'s "Golfer of the Year."

Hogan was named 112 times in overwhelming support by 173 sports writers and radio sportscasters voting in the third annual Professional Golfers Association poll. Sam Snead, the 1949 award winner, was second, 43 votes behind the little Texan.

BEN HOGAN

Hogan and Snead were far ahead of any other candidates. Ballots also were cast for Lloyd Mangrum, Jim Ferrier, Jimmy Demaret Jack Burke, Jr., Dick Metz, Henry Ransom and Chandler Harper.

Hogan's comeback from a near-fatal auto accident captured the golfing public fancy as nothing had done since Bobby Jones' grand slam. Last January, less than a year after his mishap, Hogan picked the Los Angeles Open. to begin his campaign. After a 73 in the opening round, he fired three consecutive 69's to tie Snead for the title.

The following week he played in the Bing Crosby Invitational, then returned to Los Angeles for an 18-hole playoff with Sam. The leg-weary Hogan could muster only a 76 to Sam's 72.

Hogan next played in the Phoenix Open then went to the Masters at Augusta, where he finished fourth. Later at Greenbrier, Hogan shot rounds of 64-64-65-66 and tied the P.G.A. 72-hole record of 259 next he picked off third place in the Colonial Meet at Fort Worth.

Hogan climaxed his comeback by winning the National Open. The fritty little pro authored rounds of 72-69-72-74 — 287 over the rugged Merion Course to gain a three-way deadlock with Mangrum and George Fazio. In the playoff, he carved a 69 to win by four strokes.

Since the open, Hogan has played in only two tournaments, finishing 11th in each. He now is in Hollywood supervising the filming of his life, "Follow The Sun."

Presentation of "Golfer of the Year" award will be made at the president's dinner at the P.G.A. annual meeting in Chicago Nov. 13. Hogan won the honor in its first year, 1948.

Ben Hogan Voted Golfer Of Year, Snead Is Second

173 Cast Ballots, Texan Given 112

CHICAGO, Oct. 31 (AP) — Ben Hogan, 1950's gallant comebacker, today was voted the P.G.A.'s "Golfer of the Year."

Hogan was named 112 times in overwhelming support by 173 sports writers and radio sportscasters voting in the third annual Professional Golfers Association poll. Sam Snead, the 1949 award winner, was second, 43 votes behind the little Texan.

BEN HOGAN

Hogan and Snead were far ahead of any other candidates. Ballots also were cast for Lloyd Mangrum, Jim Ferrier, Jimmy Demaret, Jack Burke, Jr., Dick Metz, Henry Ransom and Chandler Harper.

Hogan's comeback from a near-fatal auto accident captured the golfing public fancy as nothing had done since Bobby Jones' grand slam. Last January, less than a year after his mishap, Hogan picked the Los Angeles Open. to begin his campaign. After a 73 in the opening round, he fired three consecutive 69's to tie Snead for the title.

The following week he played in the Bing Crosby Invitational, then returned to Los Angeles for an 18-hole playoff with Sam. The leg-weary Hogan could muster only a 76 to Sam's 72.

Hogan next played in the Phoenix Open then went to the Masters at Augusta, where he finished fourth. Later at Greenbrier, Hogan shot rounds of 64-64-65-66 and tied the P.G.A. 72-hole record of 259 next he picked off third place in the Colonial Meet at Fort Worth.

Hogan climaxed his comeback by winning the National Open. The fritty little pro authored rounds of 72-69-72-74 — 287 over the rugged Merion Course to gain a three-way deadlock with Mangrum and George Fazio. In the playoff, he carved a 69 to win by four strokes.

Since the open, Hogan has played in only two tournaments, finishing 11th in each. He now is in Hollywood supervising the filming of his life, "Follow The Sun."

Presentation of "Golfer of the Year" award will be made at the president's dinner at the P.G.A. annual meeting in Chicago Nov. 13. Hogan won the honor in its first year, 1948.

Blues Release Kuhel

The announcement was accompanied by an explanation given Kuhel by the New York Yankee general manager, George Weiss, that the organization in no manner blamed the manager for the poor showing made by the Blues this year.

Kuhel said he has no plans.

Unemployed Vet Loses Frostburg Home In Fire

Stove Explodes At Lewis Dwelling

FROSTBURG—A fire, caused by the explosion of an oil stove about I p. m., yesterday, completely destroyed the interior of a small two-room frame residence in Consolidation Village occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Russell Lewis and their two-year-old son James Russell Lewis, Jr. All the clothing and furniture owned by the occupants were so badly scorched to be unfit for use. Neither the house or the contents were covered by insurance.

When the fire started, Mrs. Lewis, 20, whose husband was not at home, was in the yard washing clothes and her young son was playing nearby. She was unaware of the fire until a neighbor saw the smoke and called the Frostburg Fire Department.

The firemen extinguished the blaze before it burned the outside of the structure, and assisted neighbors in carrying the damaged furniture from the building.

Lewis, 24, unemployed for several months, arrived at the scene of the fire shortly after the blaze was extinguished and assisted in carrying out the furniture, which consisted of the furnishings for a kitchen, and a combination living room and bed room, together with all the clothing the family owned except what they were wearing.

Lewis, a veteran of World War II, was at work today for Weimer Bros., for the first time in a long period since he was furloughed from the Celanese plant at Narrows, Va.

Mrs. Lois Jackson and Miss Kathleen McGraw, county health nurses were at the scene of the fire.

FROSTBURG—A fire, caused by the explosion of an oil stove about 1 p. m., yesterday, completely destroyed the interior of a small two-room frame residence in Consolidation Village occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Russell Lewis and their two-year-old son James Russell Lewis, Jr. All the clothing and furniture owned by the occupants were so badly scorched to be unfit for use. Neither the house or the contents were covered by insurance.

When the fire started, Mrs. Lewis, 20, whose husband was not at home, was in the yard washing clothes and her young son was playing nearby. She was unaware of the fire until a neighbor saw the smoke and called the Frostburg Fire Department.

The firemen extinguished the blaze before it burned the outside of the structure, and assisted neighbors in carrying the damaged furniture from the building.

Lewis, 24, unemployed for several months, arrived at the scene of the fire shortly after the blaze was extinguished and assisted in carrying out the furniture, which consisted of the furnishings for a kitchen, and a combination living room and bed room, together with all the clothing the family owned except what they were wearing.

Lewis, a veteran of World War II, was at work today for Weimer Bros., for the first time in a long period since he was furloughed from the Celanese plant at Narrows, Va.

Mrs. Lois Jackson and Miss Kathleen McGraw, county health nurses were at the scene of the fire.

KEEPING UP WITH HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 31 (INS)—Looks as if Tyrone Power will continue his globe-trotting. He was home only briefly after he made "An American Guerrilla In The Philippines." Then he took off for London for "Mister Roberts."

Tyrone Power

Now he's set to do "Beyond Time and Space" in London. After that, believe it or not, he goes to the Argentine to play a sort of South American cowboy in "The Way Of A Gaucho."

This will be a Henry King outdoor movie without the velvets and silks that Ty has worn in so many of his swashbuckling adventure stories. Henry already has sent a man to scout locations in the Argentine. He believes Ty, even though it's going to take him away from home again, will be enthusiastic about the story.

• — • — •

There will probably be a third Jolson picture. Harry Cohn has 22 songs Al recorded in the hopes that he, himself, would one day play the older Jolson. These are not in either "The Jolson Story" or "Jolson Sings Again."

Harry will do nothing, however, until he discusses the matter with Mrs. Jolson and gets her reaction and permission. Of course, there is the matter of getting Larry Parks. But since no pictures have ever brought him the fame of the two Jolson stories, I shouldn't think he would object. Besides, he owes Columbia a picture.

Chatter in Hollywood: Susan Peters has never given up hope that some day she could walk again. It has been almost four years that she has been confined to a wheel chair after the tragic accident in which she was injured while on a hunting trip with her ex-husband, Richard Quine.

Now doctors have advised her to undergo another operation, chiefly because she is suffering such intense pain in the nerve ends of her back. Susan, however, is hesitant about such an operation, and says she is going to try therapy first.

A sight I shall never forget was the late King of Sweden driving down a street in Stockhlom with his great-grandson, Prince Carl Gustav, in the car next to him. The contrast between the aging ruler and the little blonde boy, who was chattering like a magpie to his great-grandfather, was a picture.

The people of Stockholm loved Gustav, and he appeared among them without any great fanfare. It was wonderful to see the reception he received.

The little boy is their idol and it was so cute to see him waving and bowing with all the dignity of a grown person.

When Victor Mature refused to report to RKO on loan from his studio, 20th Century-Fox, a situation arose that has resulted in Vic's suspension by 20th.

The trouble started over the leg injury which Vic suffered several months ago while riding a motorcycle on location. He claims he still is incapacitated. The studio says he is well enough to work if he wants to, and so has taken him off the pay roll.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Marlon Brando is expected to announce his engagement to Celia Webb when he arrives in New York this coming week.

At La Rue were the Danny Kayes, Laurence Olivier, Doris and Nunnally Johnson. Vivien Leigh is on location in New Orleans. I thought Larry looked tired, and he said he'd been working hard to finish his picture.

I don't know how serious Marti Schenck, eldest daughter of the Nicholas Schencks, is about John Conte. But he's serious about her. He flew to Minneapolis, where she is appearing, to see her and talk things over.

Jimmy Durante is telling his friends in New York he is just plain homesick for Hollywood. Come on home, Jimmy—we miss you, too.

Sunday night June Havoc and Jimmy McHugh dedicated Frank Kerwin's new Wilshire Seacomber. Tomorrow night is the regular opening.

Hunt Stromberg Jr. has an option to make the life of Bernarr Macfadden, exponent of health and longevity.

That's all today. See you tomorrow!

KEEPING UP WITH HOLLYWOOD
By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 31 (INS)—Looks as if Tyrone Power will continue his globe-trotting. He was home only briefly after he made "An American Guerrilla In The Philippines." Then he took off for London for "Mister Roberts."

Tyrone Power

Now he's set to do "Beyond Time and Space" in London. After that, believe it or not, he goes to the Argentine to play a sort of South American cowboy in "The Way Of A Gaucho."

This will be a Henry King outdoor movie without the velvets and silks that Ty has worn in so many of his swashbuckling adventure stories. Henry already has sent a man to scout locations in the Argentine. He believes Ty, even though it's going to take him away from home again, will be enthusiastic about the story.

• — • — •

There will probably be a third Jolson picture. Harry Cohn has 22 songs Al recorded in the hopes that he, himself, would one day play the older Jolson. These are not in either "The Jolson Story" or "Jolson Sings Again."

Harry will do nothing, however, until he discusses the matter with Mrs. Jolson and gets her reaction and permission. Of course, there is the matter of getting Larry Parks. But since no pictures have ever brought him the fame of the two Jolson stories, I shouldn't think he would object. Besides, he owes Columbia a picture.

Chatter in Hollywood: Susan Peters has never given up hope that some day she could walk again. It has been almost four years that she has been confined to a wheel chair after the tragic accident in which she was injured while on a hunting trip with her ex-husband, Richard Quine.

Now doctors have advised her to undergo another operation, chiefly because she is suffering such intense pain in the nerve ends of her back. Susan, however, is hesitant about such an operation, and says she is going to try therapy first.

A sight I shall never forget was the late King of Sweden driving down a street in Stockhlom with his great-grandson, Prince Carl Gustav, in the car next to him. The contrast between the aging ruler and the little blonde boy, who was chattering like a magpie to his great-grandfather, was a picture.

The people of Stockholm loved Gustav, and he appeared among them without any great fanfare. It was wonderful to see the reception he received.

The little boy is their idol and it was so cute to see him waving and bowing with all the dignity of a grown person.

When Victor Mature refused to report to RKO on loan from his studio, 20th Century-Fox, a situation arose that has resulted in Vic's suspension by 20th.

The trouble started over the leg injury which Vic suffered several months ago while riding a motorcycle on location. He claims he still is incapacitated. The studio says he is well enough to work if he wants to, and so has taken him off the pay roll.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Marlon Brando is expected to announce his engagement to Celia Webb when he arrives in New York this coming week.

At La Rue were the Danny Kayes, Laurence Olivier, Doris and Nunnally Johnson. Vivien Leigh is on location in New Orleans. I thought Larry looked tired, and he said he'd been working hard to finish his picture.

I don't know how serious Marti Schenck, eldest daughter of the Nicholas Schencks, is about John Conte. But he's serious about her. He flew to Minneapolis, where she is appearing, to see her and talk things over.

Jimmy Durante is telling his friends in New York he is just plain homesick for Hollywood. Come on home, Jimmy—we miss you, too.

Sunday night June Havoc and Jimmy McHugh dedicated Frank Kerwin's new Wilshire Seacomber. Tomorrow night is the regular opening.

Hunt Stromberg Jr. has an option to make the life of Bernarr Macfadden, exponent of health and longevity.

That's all today. See you tomorrow!

Radio And Television

By JOHN CROSBY

Small Program, Big Audience

ONE of the most inconspicuous little radio programs anywhere on the air and one of the pleasantest is Piano Playhouse which you'll find on the full ABC network (12:30 p. m. E.S.T. Sundays). This small program, simply a half hour of piano music, has an audience which will surprise the daylights out of you. Besides being broadcast all over this country, Piano Playhouse is heard in Japan, London, Rome, Australia, South America, Asia, Africa, the Far East and on the Armed Forces network all over the world. It even has a sponsor in Alaska.

John Crosby

Piano Playhouse gets letters from four corners of the globe, including Iron Curtain countries. It is supposed to reach an audience of 10,000,000 persons, though, of course, it's pretty hard to make any sort of accurate guess. The regular pianists on the program are Cy Walter and Stan Freeman, two well known names in the plush New York saloons, and they play as a two-piano team both concert and popular music in about even quantities. Guests have included some of the world's best pianists—Jesus Marie Sanroma, Abram Chasins, Eugene List, Andor Foldes, Teddy Wilson, Art Tatum, to name only a few. The comment is provided by Milton Cross who practically owns the field of music commentary.

Pretty Maggy Fisher who owns the show explains that all pianists are happy to get on her little show because it's one way to get a national and international audience without going on tour. And pianists, like comedians, want the largest audience they can get. Only two pianists have declined and both of them did so only because their feelings were hurt at not being asked sooner. All visiting pianists get the same amount of money, $1,000. They team up in all sorts of unusual combinations as duos, trios and quartets. (Piano Playhouse has also presented the Philharmonic Quartet.)

Miss Fisher thinks the popularity of her little show, which will be seven years old come Dec. 11, was inevitable. "After all," she says, "the piano is the world's most popular instrument. It has been estimated that one out of every ten homes has one." During the war when G I.'s were polled on their favorite programs, Piano Playhouse surprised everyone by showing up fourth on the list.

Miss Fisher thinks the show could be even more popular if it were on the air at a different time, something she has been battling for for seven years. "It's a sophisticated show," she says, "and it ought to be on at night."

• — • — •

I was talking to my friend Robert Mainwaring, a Scardale man who keeps his finger on the Westchester pulse for me, and he was very upset about the color television controversy. "You know what this color thing is going to do, don't you?" he announced belligerently. "It's going to drive folks right back into the saloons. We just got the people out of the saloons and back into their own homes, so many of them having their own sets now.

"Well, the barrooms are all going to install color television and everyone will go trooping back, drinking more than is good for them and staying up too late."

• — • — •

He tossed off his scotch and water, ordered another and continued morosely: "All that visiting back and forth. We got that to do all over again, too. The first man with a color set is going to have all the neighbors in fifty miles on his neck, eating up his food and drinking up his whiskey. It's socially deplorable. Instead of RCA suing CBS, the people ought to be suing."

He lowered his voice to a whisper. "And speaking of that suit, I have the straight inside dope on why RCA is doing it. Got it from a man in Wall Street who is the brother-in-law of an assistant sound engineer at NBC. The reason NBC doesn't want color television is that Milton Berle is actually bright green. NBC is afraid that a full color Miltie would scare the hell out of the children."

Radio And Television

By JOHN CROSBY

Small Program, Big Audience

ONE of the most inconspicuous little radio programs anywhere on the air and one of the pleasantest is Piano Playhouse which you'll find on the full ABC network (12:30 p. m. E.S.T. Sundays). This small program, simply a half hour of piano music, has an audience which will surprise the daylights out of you. Besides being broadcast all over this country, Piano Playhouse is heard in Japan, London, Rome, Australia, South America, Asia, Africa, the Far East and on the Armed Forces network all over the world. It even has a sponsor in Alaska.

John Crosby

Piano Playhouse gets letters from four corners of the globe, including Iron Curtain countries. It is supposed to reach an audience of 10,000,000 persons, though, of course, it's pretty hard to make any sort of accurate guess. The regular pianists on the program are Cy Walter and Stan Freeman, two well known names in the plush New York saloons, and they play as a two-piano team both concert and popular music in about even quantities. Guests have included some of the world's best pianists—Jesus Marie Sanroma, Abram Chasins, Eugene List, Andor Foldes, Teddy Wilson, Art Tatum, to name only a few. The comment is provided by Milton Cross who practically owns the field of music commentary.

Pretty Maggy Fisher who owns the show explains that all pianists are happy to get on her little show because it's one way to get a national and international audience without going on tour. And pianists, like comedians, want the largest audience they can get. Only two pianists have declined and both of them did so only because their feelings were hurt at not being asked sooner. All visiting pianists get the same amount of money, $1,000. They team up in all sorts of unusual combinations as duos, trios and quartets. (Piano Playhouse has also presented the Philharmonic Quartet.)

Miss Fisher thinks the popularity of her little show, which will be seven years old come Dec. 11, was inevitable. "After all," she says, "the piano is the world's most popular instrument. It has been estimated that one out of every ten homes has one." During the war when G I.'s were polled on their favorite programs, Piano Playhouse surprised everyone by showing up fourth on the list.

Miss Fisher thinks the show could be even more popular if it were on the air at a different time, something she has been battling for for seven years. "It's a sophisticated show," she says, "and it ought to be on at night."

• — • — •

I was talking to my friend Robert Mainwaring, a Scardale man who keeps his finger on the Westchester pulse for me, and he was very upset about the color television controversy. "You know what this color thing is going to do, don't you?" he announced belligerently. "It's going to drive folks right back into the saloons. We just got the people out of the saloons and back into their own homes, so many of them having their own sets now.

"Well, the barrooms are all going to install color television and everyone will go trooping back, drinking more than is good for them and staying up too late."

• — • — •

He tossed off his scotch and water, ordered another and continued morosely: "All that visiting back and forth. We got that to do all over again, too. The first man with a color set is going to have all the neighbors in fifty miles on his neck, eating up his food and drinking up his whiskey. It's socially deplorable. Instead of RCA suing CBS, the people ought to be suing."

He lowered his voice to a whisper. "And speaking of that suit, I have the straight inside dope on why RCA is doing it. Got it from a man in Wall Street who is the brother-in-law of an assistant sound engineer at NBC. The reason NBC doesn't want color television is that Milton Berle is actually bright green. NBC is afraid that a full color Miltie would scare the hell out of the children."

SMU, Army

beaten only by California and 30-7 conqueror of Navy last weekend. The game is at Philadelphia.

The SMU-Texas game is the only one matching two members of college football's first ten, chosen for the fifth week today by the nation's sports writers and broadcasters. Texas is No. 7.

Here is the new ranking, hardly disturbed at the top but given a good shaking down below:

SMU, Army, Oklahoma, Ohio State, Kentucky, California, Texas, Miami (Fla.), Princeton and Illinois.

Ohio State leaped from sixth to fourth on the strength of its awesome 83-21 rout of Iowa, dropping Kentucky and California down a notch.

Texas held firm at the seventh slot and three new teams moved in below, replacing Tennessee, Northwestern and Cornell.

Tennessee wasn't impressive in shading Washington and Lee, 27-20. Northwestern and Cornell fell from unbeaten ranks:

SMU gained favor by being idle last week, polling 153 first place votes and a total of 2,574 points on the basis of ten points for a No. 1 vote, nine for No. 2, etc.

The rankings, with first place votes in parentheses and points awarded on the basis of ten for first, nine for second, etc.:

radio and television broadcasts should be placed in the pension fund, and I have a hunch that's what will be done with it, although more talks are necessary before an action is taken."

A year ago the major league committee recommended elimination of the bonus rule, but the proposal was defeated at the minor league annual meeting. Later, following another major league request, Trautman conducted a mail vote and the "bushes" again voted to retain the regulation.

The bonus tag is placed on players signed for more than one year, those who receive more than a specific amount for signing, or those who get a portion of the purchase price when sold. They may be sent to a lower league for only one year, and are subject to unlimited draft through their careers.

Fast, Sudden Selling Again Beats Stock Prices Down

NEW YORK, Oct. 31 (AP) — Fast, sudden selling beat stock prices down again today.

Heavy liquidation hit the market in the last hour of trading. A similar wave of selling, intense and unexpected, flattened the market in the last hour Monday.

Losses today extended to around $3 a share before leading issues found a bottom. Final prices were a trifle above the extreme lows in most cases.

Sell orders expanded so rapidly late in the day that for 20 minutes the high-speed ticker tape ran behind in reporting transactions from the trading floor to the exchange.

Trading volume expanded to 2,010,000 shares from 1,790,000 Monday.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks lost 40 cents at $82.10 a share. This compared with a drop of 90 cents on Monday.

U. S. Steel closed 50 cents higher at $41.25.

Armco made a comeback after dropping $2.75 to $43.50 a share Monday. The stock gained more than $1 a share at one time but this was later reduced to 12 cents.

Consolidated Edison was another one of the few firm spots, moving up 87 cents to $30.12 a share following a boost in the quarterly dividend to 50 cents a share from 40 cents.

Among the losers were General Motors, Bethlehem Steel, Jones & Laughlin, Republic Steel, Chrysler, N. Y. Centrla, Curtis Publishing, Sunray Oil, Caterpillar Tractor, Douglas Aircraft, Zenith Radio, American Telephone, American Smelting, Dow Chemical, International Paper, Santa Fe, Nickel Plate, Texas Co., and Certain-teed

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

INCREASE THE CHANCES

WHATEVER contributes, in even the slightest degree, to the probability of making his contract is something a rubber bridge declarer should attempt. As contrasted with the duplicate player, who should attempt every move which favors his taking additional tricks, it behooves the rubber declarer to abandon every possibility of an extra trick if in doing so he increases his chance for the game or slam, or whatever he has bid.

South had no difficulty in reading, from the spade 9 lead, that East had the length in the suit. So he let that defender have the first two spade tricks and took the third with his A, to make sure that West would then have no more left to lead toward his partner. He was concentrating every resource upon making the contract, since his game was worth so much more than extra tricks above the line, especially since this game would close out the rubber.

The main danger confronting his contract was that East might regain the lead and run his last two spades. To reduce that chance to the minimum, he led the diamond 3 and came up with the A, refusing the finesse. That dropped the K, whereupon East called him a lucky stiff. He proceeded then to run his established tricks, taking eleven all told.

With the last two tricks given up to the defense, he volunteered a simple lesson to East. He was not, he said, trying to drop the singleton diamond K. His sole purpose in playing that way was to increase the chances that East would be kept from regaining the lead. He could afford to lose to the diamond K if West had it, so cared not for the extra trick which might come from a successful finesse. Playing the A on the first round gave him the very slight added chance of success which would be provided if East had the K unguarded. His soundness paid heavy dividends by winning the rubber.

SMU, Army

beaten only by California and 30-7 conqueror of Navy last weekend. The game is at Philadelphia.

The SMU-Texas game is the only one matching two members of college football's first ten, chosen for the fifth week today by the nation's sports writers and broadcasters. Texas is No. 7.

Here is the new ranking, hardly disturbed at the top but given a good shaking down below:

SMU, Army, Oklahoma, Ohio State, Kentucky, California, Texas, Miami (Fla.), Princeton and Illinois.

Ohio State leaped from sixth to fourth on the strength of its awesome 83-21 rout of Iowa, dropping Kentucky and California down a notch.

Texas held firm at the seventh slot and three new teams moved in below, replacing Tennessee, Northwestern and Cornell.

Tennessee wasn't impressive in shading Washington and Lee, 27-20. Northwestern and Cornell fell from unbeaten ranks.

SMU gained favor by being idle last week, polling 153 first place votes and a total of 2,574 points on the basis of ten points for a No. 1 vote, nine for No. 2, etc.

The rankings, with first place votes in parentheses and points awarded on the basis of ten for first, nine for second, etc.:

radio and television broadcasts should be placed in the pension fund, and I have a hunch that's what will be done with it, although more talks are necessary before an action is taken."

A year ago the major league committee recommended elimination of the bonus rule, but the proposal was defeated at the minor league annual meeting. Later, following another major league request, Trautman conducted a mail vote and the "bushes" again voted to retain the regulation.

The bonus tag is placed on players signed for more than one year, those who receive more than a specific amount for signing, or those who get a portion of the purchase price when sold. They may be sent to a lower league for only one year, and are subject to unlimited draft through their careers.

Fast, Sudden Selling Again Beats Stock Prices Down

NEW YORK, Oct. 31 (AP)—Fast, sudden selling beat stock prices down again today.

Heavy liquidation hit the market in the last hour of trading. A similar wave of selling, intense and unexpected, flattened the market in the last hour Monday.

Losses today extended to around $3 a share before leading issues found a bottom. Final prices were a trifle above the extreme lows in most cases.

Sell orders expanded so rapidly late in the day that for 20 minutes the high-speed ticker tape ran behind in reporting transactions from the trading floor to the exchange.

Trading volume expanded to 2,010,000 shares from 1,790,000 Monday.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks lost 40 cents at $82.10 a share. This compared with a drop of 90 cents on Monday.

U. S. Steel closed 50 cents higher at $41.25.

Armco made a comeback after dropping $2.75 to $43.50 a share Monday. The stock gained more than $1 a share at one time but this was later reduced to 12 cents.

Consolidated Edison was another one of the few firm spots, moving up 87 cents to $30.12 a share following a boost in the quarterly dividend to 50 cents a share from 40 cents.

Among the losers were General Motors, Bethlehem Steel, Jones & Laughlin, Republic Steel, Chrysler, N. Y. Centrla, Curtis Publishing, Sunray Oil, Caterpillar Tractor, Douglas Aircraft, Zenith Radio, American Telephone, American Smelting, Dow Chemical, International Paper, Santa Fe, Nickel Plate, Texas Co., and Certain-teed

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

INCREASE THE CHANCES

WHATEVER contributes, in even the slightest degree, to the probability of making his contract is something a rubber bridge declarer should attempt. As contrasted with the duplicate player, who should attempt every move which favors his taking additional tricks, it behooves the rubber declarer to abandon every possibility of an extra trick if in doing so he increases his chance for the game or slam, or whatever he has bid.

South had no difficulty in reading, from the spade 9 lead, that East had the length in the suit. So he let that defender have the first two spade tricks and took the third with his A, to make sure that West would then have no more left to lead toward his partner. He was concentrating every resource upon making the contract, since his game was worth so much more than extra tricks above the line, especially since this game would close out the rubber.

The main danger confronting his contract was that East might regain the lead and run his last two spades. To reduce that chance to the minimum, he led the diamond 3 and came up with the A, refusing the finesse. That dropped the K, whereupon East called him a lucky stiff. He proceeded then to run his established tricks, taking eleven all told.

With the last two tricks given up to the defense, he volunteered a simple lesson to East. He was not, he said, trying to drop the singleton diamond K. His sole purpose in playing that way was to increase the chances that East would be kept from regaining the lead. He could afford to lose to the diamond K if West had it, so cared not for the extra trick which might come from a successful finesse. Playing the A on the first round gave him the very slight added chance of success which would be provided if East had the K unguarded. His soundness paid heavy dividends by winning the rubber.

30,000 Turn Out To See Mummers

South End, College Floats Win Prizes

It was an ideal autumn night with temperatures in the high sixties that brought out an estimated crowd of 30,000 or more people from the Tri-State area to view and take part in the annual Halloween mummers parade sponsored by the 40 and 8.

Paraders Boost Pajama Plant

Industrial expansion in the area, to create jobs for the unemployed, was given a terrific piece of publicity last night in the Halloween parade, with the appearance of over 100 girls and women from the Frostburg Pajama Factory.

Marching in two long files behind the Frostburg band, the girls wore pajamas made in the Frostburg plant.

A sign preceding them urged the public to support the current drive to raise funds for the expansion of the plant.

Starting on Virginia Avenue, the parade comprised 16 divisions of bands, drum corps, floats, fire companies and every conceivable type of costume and get-up from the sublime to the ridiculous, from the beautiful to the grotesque, and many others for the sheer fun of just "dressing up."

Winding its way toward the uptown section, the long route of march served to slow the parade considerably and it was a half hour late reaching Baltimore Street.

Parked Cars A Hindrance

Along North Centre and North Mechanic Streets, marching units and floats had considerable difficulty because of parked automobiles on both sides of the street. On North Mechanic Street especially, just south of the Market Street intersection, six large floats had to stop and get help in coming down the narrow thoroughfare. Two floats hung up on parked cars.

Members of the 40 and 8 sponsoring committee as well as hundreds of people along the streets voiced their criticism of the situation.

The South End Business Men's Association won first prize of $100 in the float contest.

Second prize of $75 went to Frostburg State Teachers College.

East Side Maids (soft ball team) won third prize of $50.

Junior Women's Civic Club won fourth prize of $25.

Honorable mention went to Dapper Dan for its float carrying the championship ball team; and Frostburg Troop No. 48, Boy Scouts, for their outdoor scene complete with campfire.

Float judges included Arthur B Gibson, Albert J. Sell, S. Russ Minter and Thomas B. Finan.

The parade was led by a contingent of Maryland State and City of Cumberland Police, the Parade Marshal Thomas F. Conlon, and members of the sponsoring committee.

The lead band was Wardensville, W. Va., High School, with the Mathais, W. Va., High School band leading the second division.

Petersburg, W. Va., High School Band, Allegany High School Junior Band, Allegany High School Senior Band, Fort Hill High School Band, Moose Toonerville Band, Oakland Volunteer Fire Company Band, Accident High School Band, Arion Band, Frostburg, Mt. Savage Junior Order Band, and the Sad Sacks of Lonaconing each led divisions of mummers.

Fire Companies In Line

Cumberland Lodge No. 271, Loyal Order of Moose, South End Business Men's Association, Frostburg State Teachers College, East Side Maids (soft ball team), Dapper Dan Club (junior baseball team), Knobley Mountain Post No. 136, American Legion Auxiliary; Bowman's Addition Fire Company Auxiliary; Junior Women's Civic Club; El Fidel Club; Radio Station WCUM; Baltimore Pike 4-H Club; Frostburg Troop No. 48, Boy Scouts and others entered the most outstanding floats.

Fire companies in the parade displaying equipment included Cresaptown Community truck and marching unit; LaVale Volunteer Fire Company; Baltimore Pike Volunteers; Bedford Road; Bowman's Addition.

Prize money was divided among musical units based upon the distance travelled, and awards to mummers are listed as follows:

Grand prize of a round-trip ticket to Pittsburgh via All American Airways, with overnight hotel accommodations provided in that city, was won by Mr. and Mrs. T. R. Shaffer, 229 Glenn Street.

They were judged the best fancy dressed couple, wearing black costumes and masks.

Other prizes, ranging from $10 to $2.50 in cash, were awarded at the Strand Theatre following the parade event.

Winners in the various groups were as follows:

Jimmie Soethe and Amy Correone, this city, best Colonial couple; Austin Ward, this city, best clown; Roxie Willison, Hyndman, Pa., most original, with second prize going to Ada Willison, also of Hyndman.

In The Halloween Parade

The youngster sitting on the curb (top left) didn't let blank spots in the line of march in last night's parade disturb her a bit. She had plenty of reading material. Her name? Sharon Parrish, 2-year-old daughter of Mrs. Jane Parrish, Wiley Ford. The picture (top right) shows the second-place winning float, entered by Frostburg State Teachers College. The queen is Miss Mary Susan Passarelli, of Frostburg. Float that took first prize honors is shown (lower right). It was entered by the South End Businessmen's Association. Miss Betty Comer, Maryland Junction, W. Va., is the attractive brunette gracing it. A touch of comedy is provided by the unidentified couple (lower left). The man of the house is doing the wash while his "better half" hangs it on the line.

Employment, Payrolls, On Upswing Here

Cumberland Placed On Preferred Lists

Employment and payrolls in Cumberland's 17 major industries were up in September, according to the October Report of Activities of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce.

Total employment in the 17 firms was 13,139, a gain of 1,262 over the September, 1949, total of 11,877.

Payrolls of the same industries increased almost half a million dollars in the period.

September payrolls totaled $3,490,108.99, a boost of $479,999.80 over last September's $3,010,109.19.

The Maryland Employment Service reported 3,716 registrants on October 15, a decrease of 360 over September. Placements for the month were 225, a boost of 21.

Debits to individual accounts in August totaled $25,894,000, a 28 per cent increase, as compared to 11 per cent boosts in Hagerstown and 21.4 increases in debits in Baltimore.

Cumberland was again listed as a "preferred" city-of-the month in business indexes. Sales Management predicts Cumberland business in November will hit the $5,180,000 mark, or 109.3 of the national average.

Navy Mothers Give 25 Gifts

The local chapter of the American Red Cross has been notified by the Navy Mothers' Club that they are going to supply 25 gift boxes for boys on the high seas in connection with National Red Cross program of "Christmas on the High Seas," according to Mrs. Lee Witherup, of the local Red Cross chapter.

Mrs. Witherup said that Mrs Charles Bujack, welfare chairman of the Navy Mother's Club, has been authorized to purchase the articles for 25 boxes.

The Allegany County Chapter of the Red Cross has been requested by the national headquarters to supply 100 boxes at an approximate value of $2.50 each.

Any organization which is interested in supplying some boxes or an individual wishing to contribute may do so by contacting Mrs. Witherup (telephone 4181) today.

If, because of the changing world conditions, the need for gifts for servicemen on the high seas should diminish by Christmas, they will be distributed to patients in military hospitals in this country, Mrs. Witherup related.

Gets Beer License

Quentin M. Rice, 19 Laing Avenue was granted a beer license yesterday by the Allegany County Liquor Control Board.

Equity Suit Filed

A bill of complaint was docketed in Circuit Court yesterday for Edith M. Crites, vs. Clyde H. Crites.

Cost Of Fringe Issues Hits $477 Mark In U. S. Industry

That fringe on the top of industry's surrey isn't being paid for with peanuts.

In fact, fringe issues averaged 16 per cent to the labor costs of doing business in the United States last year.

The nonwage payments represent an additional 23.7 cents per hour for each employe, or an extra $477 a year, according to a study of wage supplements by the Chamber of Commerce of the United States.

Legally required payments (employer's share) cost an average of 2.9 per cent of payrolls. This includes Old-Age and Survivors Insurance, unemployment compensation, workmen's compensation and Railroad Retirement tax.

Pension plans and other agreed-upon payments (employer's share) averaged 5 per cent of payrolls. This includes pension plan premiums and pension payments not covered by an insurance-type plan, life insurance premiums, death benefits, sickness and accident insurance, payments to needy employes, separation or termination pay, discounts on goods to employes, tuition refunds, savings and stock purchase plans.

Paid rest periods, lunch periods, wash up time, travel time, clothes change time and get ready time items cost an average of 1.4 of payrolls.

Paid vacations and bonuses in lieu of vacation, payment for holidays not worked, payments for State and National Guard duty, jury, witness and deaths in family cost another 5.2 per cent.

Other items, such as profit sharing payments, Christmas or special bonuses and special wage payments ordered by the court and payments to union stewards average 1.5 per cent in the study of 690 companies in all phases of industry.

A special nonwage study compared 1947 with 1949. It was found average payroll costs rose from 14.4 to 16.2 in that period, with an hourly cost of 19.2 in 1947 and 24.8 last year. Cost per employe per year rose from $393 to $505.

Woman Injured Watching Parade

Mrs. Ruth Swartley, 48, of 119 Grand Avenue, sustained a painful injury when she fell from the curb on Virginia Avenue while watching last night's Halloween parade.

The South Cumberland woman twisted her right leg when she fell and attendants at Memorial Hospital said it was feared she might have fractured her right hip. X-rays were taken to determine the extent of her injuries.

Mrs. Swartley was injured about 8:15 last night. She was admitted to Memorial Hospital a short time later.

Weather

A high temperature of 84 degrees was recorded yesterday to give Cumberland another summer-like day as October bowed out.

The temperature was so high that a number of those who watched last night's parade were in shirt sleeves. Yesterday's low temperature was 58 degrees.

Tri-Town Parade Draws Big Crowd

Hundreds of mummers turned out last night to join in the Halloween parade sponsored by the Tri-Towns Halloween Association.

Streets of the Tri-Towns were lined with revelers watching the colorful parade led by the Potomac Fire Company Band.

Higher Taxes Not Necessary, Snyder Charges

Administration Aids USSR, He Says

BELINGTON, W. Va.—When the Truman Administration tells the American people this nation cannot be strong unless the people make more and more sacrifices by paying more and more of their wages for taxes, it is playing right into the hands of the Russian rulers who would like to "see this country milked dry and made weaker."

The statement was made last night by Melvin C. Snyder, Republican candidate for Congress, who declared "every taxpayer in the United States can be given a break and more take-home pay without hurting the defense plans of this nation at all."

The Kingwood attorney and veteran of two World Wars said America's greatest selling point abroad is her un-matched standard of living, but that this standard of living is dropping as fast as taxes and the cost of living increase.

"How wonderful it must be for Stalin and company when they can say the American people can no longer afford the necessities of life and the luxuries of which they have always been proud. How wonderful it must be for our enemies to see every American struggling to make ends meet.

"If the Government of the United States were to sacrifice many of the foolish enterprises in which the office-holder like to indulge, desperately needed money would be released for defense purposes at no extra cost to the taxpayer, who now is carrying more than he can stand," Snyder said.

These sums are tremendous, Snyder added, but the Truman Administration cannot release them because they help keep the Administration in power through "the Missouri Gang's spoils system."

Saying that his opponent, Harley Staggers, never offered anything in the way of tax legislation except a bill to raise the pay of Administration tax collectors, Snyder said that if he is elected "I will make it my first item of business to cut out the deadwood around Washington offices, and work to get some relief forthe wage earners, farmers, and small business men whose backs are being broken by the tax load."

Absentee Voting Rules Explained

Application forms for absentee ballots for the November 7 election are available with the Board of Election Supervisors here, or from the Secretary of State of Maryland, Annapolis.

Patrick F. King, clerk to the election board of this county, said he has sent out 14 absentee ballots thus far, and there may be more applications received.

Under the regulations pertaining to absentee voting, officials explain, ballots are available to any resident of Maryland qualified under the Constitution as to age, citizenship and length of residence and not disqualified because of crime, and who are absent and engaged in military or naval service of the United States, members of the Merchant Marine, War Shipping Administration, American Red Cross, Society of Friends, The Women's Auxiliary, Service Pilots and U. S. organizations attached to or serving with the armed forces of the United States outside the country.

Any friend or relative of an absentee voter can request an application for the ballots. However, only the qualified voter himself can request the ballot.

The applications, in the form of cards, may be obtained from King or the Secretary of State, sent to the absentee voter, who must return it to the Secretary of State. He in turn forwards it to King who mails the ballot.

After voting, the ballots will be returned to the Secretary of State and he in turn will give them to specially appointed election supervisors the night of the election.

30,000 Turn Out To See Mummers

South End, College Floats Win Prizes

It was an ideal autumn night with temperatures in the high sixties that brought out an estimated crowd of 30,000 or more people from the Tri-State area to view and take part in the annual Halloween mummers parade sponsored by the 40 and 8.

Paraders Boost Pajama Plant

Industrial expansion in the area, to create jobs for the unemployed, was given a terrific piece of publicity last night in the Halloween parade, with the appearance of over 100 girls and women from the Frostburg Pajama Factory.

Marching in two long files behind the Frostburg band, the girls wore pajamas made in the Frostburg plant.

A sign preceding them urged the public to support the current drive to raise funds for the expansion of the plant.

Starting on Virginia Avenue, the parade comprised 16 divisions of bands, drum corps, floats, fire companies and every conceivable type of costume and get-up from the sublime to the ridiculous, from the beautiful to the grotesque, and many others for the sheer fun of just "dressing up."

Winding its way toward the uptown section, the long route of march served to slow the parade considerably and it was a half hour late reaching Baltimore Street.

Parked Cars A Hindrance

Along North Centre and North Mechanic Streets, marching units and floats had considerable difficulty because of parked automobiles on both sides of the street. On North Mechanic Street especially, just south of the Market Street intersection, six large floats had to stop and get help in coming down the narrow thoroughfare. Two floats hung up on parked cars.

Members of the 40 and 8 sponsoring committee as well as hundreds of people along the streets voiced their criticism of the situation.

The South End Business Men's Association won first prize of $100 in the float contest.

Second prize of $75 went to Frostburg State Teachers College.

East Side Maids (soft ball team) won third prize of $50.

Junior Women's Civic Club won fourth prize of $25.

Float judges included Arthur B Gibson, Albert J. Sell, S. Russ Minter and Thomas B. Finan.

The parade was led by a contingent of Maryland State and City of Cumberland Police, the Parade Marshal Thomas F. Conlon, and members of the sponsoring committee.

The lead band was Wardensville, W. Va., High School, with the Mathais, W. Va., High School band leading the second division.

Petersburg, W. Va., High School Band, Allegany High School Junior Band, Allegany High School Senior Band, Fort Hill High School Band, Moose Toonerville Band, Oakland Volunteer Fire Company Band, Accident High School Band, Arion Band, Frostburg, Mt. Savage Junior Order Band, and the Sad Sacks of Lonaconing each led divisions of mummers.

Fire Companies In Line

Cumberland Lodge No. 271, Loyal Order of Moose, South End Business Men's Association, Frostburg State Teachers College, East Side Maids (soft ball team), Dapper Dan Club (junior baseball team), Knobley Mountain Post No. 136, American Legion Auxiliary; Bowman's Addition Fire Company Auxiliary; Junior Women's Civic Club; El Fidel Club; Radio Station WCUM; Baltimore Pike 4-H Club; Frostburg Troop No. 48, Boy Scouts and others entered the most outstanding floats.

Fire companies in the parade displaying equipment included Cresaptown Community truck and marching unit; LaVale Volunteer Fire Company; Baltimore Pike Volunteers; Bedford Road; Bowman's Addition.

Prize money was divided among musical units based upon the distance travelled, and awards to mummers are listed as follows:

Grand prize of a round-trip ticket to Pittsburgh via All American Airways, with overnight hotel accommodations provided in that city, was won by Mr. and Mrs. T. R. Shaffer, 229 Glenn Street.

They were judged the best fancy dressed couple, wearing black costumes and masks.

Other prizes, ranging from $10 to $2.50 in cash, were awarded at the Strand Theatre following the parade event.

Winners in the various groups were as follows:

Jimmie Soethe and Amy Correone, this city, best Colonial couple; Austin Ward, this city, best clown; Roxie Willison, Hyndman, Pa., most original, with second prize going to Ada Willison, also of Hyndman.

Employment, Payrolls, On Upswing Here

Cumberland Placed On Preferred Lists

Total employment in the 17 firms was 13,139, a gain of 1,262 over the September, 1949, total of 11,877.

Payrolls of the same industries increased almost half a million dollars in the period.

The Allegany County Chapter of the Red Cross has been requested by the national headquarters to supply 100 boxes at an approximate value of $2.50 each.

Any organization which is interested in supplying some boxes or an individual wishing to contribute may do so by contacting Mrs. Witherup (telephone 4181) today.

The candidates, with John Marshall Butler, Senatorial candidate, and Rep. J. Glenn Beall, who seeks re-election to Congress from the Sixth District, made a whirlwind tour of Garrett County yesterday.

They spoke briefly at Bittinger, Accident, Grantsville, Friendsville, Deer Park, Kitzmiller, Crellin and Jennings.

The candidates will return to Baltimore today for an intensive drive in that metropolitan area.

Absentee Voting Rules Explained

Application forms for absentee ballots for the November 7 election are available with the Board of Election Supervisors here, or from the Secretary of State of Maryland, Annapolis.

Patrick F. King, clerk to the election board of this county, said he has sent out 14 absentee ballots thus far, and there may be more applications received.

Under the regulations pertaining to absentee voting, officials explain, ballots are available to any resident of Maryland qualified under the Constitution as to age, citizenship and length of residence and not disqualified because of crime, and who are absent and engaged in military or naval service of the United States, members of the Merchant Marine, War Shipping Administration, American Red Cross, Society of Friends, The Women's Auxiliary, Service Pilots and U. S. organizations attached to or serving with the armed forces of the United States outside the country.

Any friend or relative of an absentee voter can request an application for the ballots. However, only the qualified voter himself can request the ballot.

The applications, in the form of cards, may be obtained from King or the Secretary of State, sent to the absentee voter, who must return it to the Secretary of State. He in turn forwards it to King who mails the ballot.

After voting, the ballots will be returned to the Secretary of State and he in turn will give them to specially appointed election supervisors the night of the election.

Oratory Contest Run-Off Planned

Preliminary run-off contests in the county-wide "Voice of Democracy" contest will begin Saturday at 9:30 a. m. over a local radio station, Donald A. Coomber, chairman, announced yesterday.

Judges will be Dr. Dorothy Howard, Frostburg State Teachers College; Miss Mary Walsh, librarian of the Cumberland Free Public Library; Harold E. Naughton, local attorney, and Charles S. Catherman, Jr.

Among schools to be represented in the contest are Allegany High School, Fort Hill High School, Barton High School; St. Peter's High School, Westernport; Beall High School, Frostburg; Flintstone High School; Central High School, Lonaconing.

LaSalle High School, Ursuline Academy, Girls Central High School and Carver High School, Cumberland; Bruce High School, Westernport; and SS. Peter and Paul, Cumberland.

Guard Unit Members Are Exempt From Draft

Members of organized units of the federally recognized National Guard, the Officers Reserve Corps and the Enlisted Reserve Corps are exempt from training and service by the draft provisions of the Selective Service Act, according to the Headquarters of the Maryland Military District.

Thomas B. Cumiskey, Jr., unit commander, 729th Army Postal Unit, has received the above information and suggests that "some local people might be interested." Cumiskey said there are six vacancies in the unit which he commands.

GOP Rally Scheduled At Lonaconing Tonight

State Senator Robert B. Kimble and John L. Estes, chairman of the Political Action Committee of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America, will be the principal speakers at a Republican rally to be held at the Lonaconing Republican Club tonight at 7:30.

REDS STALL YANKS' DRIVE NORTH

Pact Ministers Defer Military Setup Decision

Other Units Will Study German Issue

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31 (AP) — France's old dread of German power tonight led North Atlantic defense ministers to postpone a decision on a combined army under a supreme commander to defend Western Europe against Communism.

Deadlocked on the issue of what Germany's role shall be in the historic new defense force, the defense ministers of 12 North Atlantic pact nations threw up their hands temporarily. They referred the matter to other North Atlantic treaty organizations, hoping for a quick decision.

The action spelled delay for the widely expected appointment of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower to the supreme command post.

U. S. Plan More Realistic

The deadlock arose over French insistence that Germans be used in the mutual defense force in only small units and under sweeping safeguards involving long steps toward federation of Europe.

The U. S. proposed what American officials consider a more realistic plan under present circumstances. It called for German units as large as divisions, and lacked the French idea of a supra-national assembly with powers over a combined European army.

Some onlookers saw in tonight's postponement evidence of a United States determination not to send an American to head Europe's defenses until what it considers a practical plan for the make-up of the defense army has been agreed on.

The defense ministers — Secretary of Defense Marshall and his European counterparts — referred the German issue to the Military Committee composed of military chiefs such as Gen. Omar N. Bradley, and to the Council of Deputies.

The defense ministers then adjourned, subject to recall by Secretary Marshall, their chairman.

Communique Issued

Marshall announced at a news conference immediately afterward that the Military Committee, composed of ranking military officers of the treaty nations, went into a preliminary meeting on its new assignment this evening. He said the Council of Deputies would have a preliminary report on it here tomorrow.

In a communique the defense ministers said they had reaffirmed the importance of a German contribution to increase defenses in Europe.

The communique said the ministers considered a U. S. plan to use German troops — which calls for German units as large as divisions — and the new French plan to use the smallest possible German units in a European army under a European defense minister responsible to a European assembly.

Probe-Shy Adonis Gives Himself Up

HACKENSACK, N. J., Oct. 31 (AP) — Joe Adonis, big-time racketeer who ducked a Senate crime committee bid to tell what he knows of the nation's underworld, gave himself up today to face New Jersey gambling charges.

The 48-year-old Adonis, alias Joseph Doto, alternately smiled and clammed his lips tightly together as he entered Bergen County Court to plead innocent to charges of conspiracy to violate state gambling laws.

Arraigned with the swarthy, conservatively-dressed Adonis was Salvatore Moretti, another reputed gambling kingpin. He also surrendered to answer the gambling charges which stem from a lavish, wide-open dice casino in nearby Lodi, some nine miles across the Hudson river from Manhattan. Moretti joined Adonis in maintaining innocence.

Judge J. Wallace Leyden released the pair in $15,000 bail each.

Less than two weeks ago Adonis was among the missing when U. S. Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn) sought to have the onetime overlord of Brooklyn's rackets testify before the Senate Crime Investigating Committee in New York City.

B-29s Home From Korea

MARCH AIRBASE, Calif., Oct. 31 (AP)—The first mass flight of Superforts from Korea returned today with this promise from its commander: "Blow the whistle and we'll be ready to go again."

The homecoming of the 11 giant B-29s was highlighted by a mixed reception of tears and happy greetings from wives and children of tired crews who flew in from Hawaii.

British Plane Crash Kills 28

Ship Strikes Pile Of Pipe In Heavy Fog

Two Survive Crash At London Airport

LONDON, Oct. 31 (AP)—A British European Airways plane hunting a safe haven crashed into a pile of pipe beyond the end of a runway at London airport tonight, killing 28 of the 30 persons aboard. Two of the dead were Americans.

BEA identified the Americans as Ernest Friedenheim, New York City, and P. Levy, North Winthrop, Chicago, Ill. A third person killed was Miss Judith Lauterbach, a British citizen, New York City.

Two survivors were found alive in the wreckage. They were identified as Stewardess Alice Steen and William Perkins, a passenger, both of London. Others killed were of French, British and Irish nationality, taking advantage of BEA's 10 pounds ($28) London to Paris "bargain" rate.

Second Crash In Two Weeks

The two-engine British European Airways Viking, carrying a crew of four and 26 passengers, was hunting a safe haven from ceiling zero fog. It had been en route from Paris to Northolt airport but had been diverted to London airport because of the weather.

Two weeks ago a BEA twin-engine Dakota crashed in this area and claimed the same number of lives. This plane hurtled into a London suburban back yard, killing 28 of the 29 aboard. The worst crash of the London district occurred in 1948, when a Swedish airliner and Royal Air Force transport collided, killing 39.

Parts of the plane were scattered over hundreds of yards. One of the plane's engines was found a quarter mile from the main debris. Rescue work was hampered by the heavy fog.

Heard Plane Coming Down

An airline employe, one of the first men to reach the scene, said:

"I was standing only 100 yards away. We heard it coming down and then there was a terrific crunch.

"The engine seemed to cut out and there was a horrible sound of crunching glass.

"I looked around for many minutes in the dense fog before I found the wreckage."

The plane crashed shortly after 8 p. m. (3 p. m. Eastern Standard Time). It was more than an hour before the 28 bodies were recovered.

Missing Teacher, Girl Still Sought

NAOMA, W. Va., Oct. 31 (AP) — A high school social science teacher still faced a kidnaping charge today in the disappearance of a former student he is reported to have married.

A sister of 17-year-old Ann Tabor, missing student nurse, said her family so far has no plans for withdrawing a kidnaping warrant against Lewis G. Daniel, 35, the divorced father of two children.

A telegram purportedly from Daniel to the missing Naoma girl's uncle, J. T. Jarrell, said the couple was married yesterday in Portsmouth, O., and left for Virginia. Their exact destination was not mentioned.

Authorities at Portsmouth said there was no record of a marriage license issued to the couple. West Virginia state police got similar reports from Kentucky counties across the river from Portsmouth.

State police noted that both Kentucky and Ohio have three-day waiting periods, and said that unless the couple obtained a license prior to Miss Tabor's disappearance, it is doubtful they could have been married in either state.

Palace Attacked In Puerto Rican Revolt

Two men lie sprawled on the pavement before the governor's palace in San Juan, Puerto Rico, after an attack on the building guards by anti-U. S. nationalist rebels. An eyewitness said five men approached the palace in a car (foreground) and killed one guard and wounded another. Four of the five rebels were killed and the other was wounded.

Valentine Says Economic Curbs May Last Years

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31 (AP) — The man charged with keeping the economy on an even keel advised Americans today to steel themselves for long years of a harder life while the nation builds up and maintains its armed strength.

"We need to formulate a program for defense production, not for four years but possibly for much longer," Economic Stabilization Director Alan Valentine said. Four years was the World War II emergency period.

Addressing the Women's National Press Club, he asked cooperation by all Americans.

"One thing is clear," he said, "to halt inflation is everyone's job. x x x Neither this agency (Valentine's ESA) nor any other under a free government can maintain economic stability unless the general program has the support of most Americans."

Valentine's idea that the job is a long one was echoed almost simultaneously in a Chicago luncheon speech by Claude A. Putnam, president of the National Association of Manufacturers. Putnam foresaw years as a "garrison state" for America. He said "the danger is that we will not — or will not be allowed to" operate efficiently at industry's task of production, economic expansion and prevention of inflation.

Valentine set out his views against a background of developments which made it plain the pressures of which he spoke are about to clamp down. Notable were:

1. An Agriculture Department forecast that food prices will push still higher next year, perhaps to the highest level ever. The effort was reinforced by speakers at an Agriculture Department conference who said clothing and building materials appear headed for higher prices too, and fuel is likely to be in tight supply.

2. Word from National Production Authority officials that cuts of 20 to 30 per cent in civilian use of copper, nickel and aluminum probably will be ordered within 10 days, effective Dec. 1. This would put brakes on output of such things as radio and television sets, washing machines, refrigerators and automobiles.

John L. Lewis Making New Raids On AFL, Petrillo Says

NEW YORK, Oct. 31 (AP) — James C. Petrillo, president of the American Federation of Musicians (AFL), today accused John L. Lewis of "further raids on the AFL through his organization the United Mine Workers Union District 50."

District 50 of the UMW takes in fields other than coal mining.

In a statement, Petrillo said at his office today that the miners are entitled to far better protection than they get from "such a man as Lewis."

Petrillo said, however, that Lewis never has attempted any raids on the American Federation of Musicians.

"Lewis," he said, "only uses the miners as a springboard to grab publicity for himself." He added:

"I defy him (Lewis) to open the secret ballots on which he was elected president of the mine workers. He could not be elected unless he had appointed 75 per cent of the delegates participating in the balloting. I defy him to give local autonomy to 75 per cent of his locals."

Lewis' Washington office reported the UMW leader was traveling in the Midwest and was not available for comment. However, an UMW official who asked to remain anonymous commented that Petrillo "might look into the democracy of his own union."

This spokesman said that UMW presidents are elected by referenda of the membership, and not by delegates to a convention, "unlike the musicians union."

Halloween Heat Records Tumble

[By The Associated Press]

It was the hottest Halloween in history Tuesday over much of eastern two thirds of the nation.

There wasn't a frost covered pumpkin from Eastern Colorado and Central New Mexico to the Atlantic seaboard. Instead, most of this broad 2,000-mile expanse broiled in summer-like heat.

Heat records for the date were shattered in scores of cities in the plateau states, Eastern Rockies, Great Plains, Midwest, and East.

Ex-Mate Of Late FDR's Daughter Leaps To Death

NEW YORK, Oct. 31 (AP)—John Boettiger, the late President Roosevelt's former son-in-law, killed himself today in a seven-story leap from his hotel room window. He suffered a nervous breakdown a week ago.

Tall, handsome Boettiger, 50, whose White House romance with Roosevelt's only daughter, Anna, blossomed into marriage and a decade of husband-wife teamwork in newspaper publishing, had entered the publicity business a year ago. An associate said Boettiger may have been depressed over his change from newspaper to publicity work.

He and Anna were divorced in 1949 after their up-and-down 14 years of newspapering together in Seattle, Wash. and Phoenix, Ariz., with time out for his wartime tour of duty in the Army.

After their divorce, Boettiger remarried. His attractive widow, the former Mrs. Virginia Daly Lunn, Phoenix, arrived here by air a few hours after the death leap. On learning the news, she screamed, "Oh, no! Oh, no!" and all but collapsed on an airport ramp.

She had made her flying trip here from the west coast after learning that Boettiger three days ago took an overdose of sleeping pills and had to be revived by a physician.

U. S. May Halt Dollar Gifts To Great Britain

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31 (AP)—The United States may put a stop to its Marshall Plan dollar gifts to Great Britain.

This was indicated in a statement today by Marshall Plan Administrator William C. Foster. He made it plain, however, that dollar grants might be resumed if Britain's improving economic conditions take a turn for the worse.

Britain has received $2,711,153,000 from this country since the Marshall Plan for European rehabilitation began April 3, 1948.

Coffee Drinking Target Of Chain Letter Drive

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31 (AP) — A chain letter campaign against coffee drinking was reported under way in many states today.

The staff of a Senate Agriculture subcommittee said it apparently was begun by housewives trying to promote a "strike" against use of coffee until prices come down.

GOP, Democrats Open Final Drive To Sway Voters

[By The Associated Press]

Leaders of both major parties opened the throttle yesterday in a final week drive to sway the voters in next Tuesday's election of a new Congress and of 32 state governors.

Democratic National Chairman William M. Boyle, Jr., led off for his party with a broadcast speech that will be followed on Saturday night by President Truman's campaign broadcast from St. Louis.

Gabrielson In West Virginia

For the Republicans, who say they haven't the money to match the Democrats' radio time, National Chairman Guy George Gabrielson speaks tonight at Charleston, W. Va., and continues on Thursday a border state swing that will take him into Kentucky.

Each side was making the usual victory claim although contests looked so close in a number of states that a slight swing of voter sentiment either way could be decisive.

Rep. Michael J. Kirwan of Ohio, chairman of the Democratic National Congressional Committee, predicted a "decisive" Democratic victory on the basis of "a careful survey of every district in the U. S. where there is any reason to believe there is a close contest."

Conflicting Forecasts

Kirwan said the Democrats not only will hold their present House majority but also stand "an excellent chance of reversing previous off-year election trends by increasing our Democratic membership."

The corresponding Republican group forecast an exactly opposite result last week. It said the GOP definitely would increase its strength and might capture 55 or 60 Democratic seats, enough to take control of the House.

Democrats now hold a 259-169 margin in the House. Their Senate edge is 54 to 42.

U. S. Steel Earnings Highest Since 1917

NEW YORK, Oct. 31 (AP)—United States Steel Corp. reported its highest nine-months earnings since 1917 today and directors ordered an increased distribution of the profits to the company's approximately 245,000 stockholders.

Holders of common stock of the nation's No. 1 steel producer will be paid $1.50 a share Dec. 9, representing a 75-cent dividend and a special payment of 75 cents. Participating will be holders of record Nov. 10.

Net income of U. S. Steel for the nine months ended Sept. 30 was reported at $178,821,540, equal to $6.12 a common share. This was the largest profit for a similar period since the corporation earned $180,304,000 in the first three quarters of 1917.

Austin Fights For Extension Of Lie's Term

Vishinsky Blasts Lie As U. S. 'Stooge'

NEW YORK, Oct. 31 (AP)—Warren R. Austin fought today to extend Secretary-General Trygve Lie's term for three years as a sign of U. N. unity against aggression. Andrei Y. Vishinsky countered with a denunciation of Lie as an American "stooge" and declared the Soviet Union would not recognize Lie nor deal with him if he is maintained in office.

The fight took place in the 60-nation General Assembly. Lie, who usually sits on the rostrum during sessions, left his seat when the debate began. He spent the remainder of the day at his home.

U. S. Delegate Austin told the Assembly that Lie was vetoed in the Security Council by the Russians to punish him for carrying out Security Council decisions to resist aggression in Korea. The U. S. and 14 other countries have put a resolution before the Assembly to add three years to Lie's term which ends next Feb. 2.

"The veto was not employed because Mr. Lie had been incompetent, timid, or derelict in his duty," Austin said. "It was employed because his actions, in response to the expressed wish of 53 member states, did not conform to the national policies of one of the permanent members (Russia)."

"We cannot permit our efforts (for peace through collective security) to be undermined, sabotaged, or attacked indirectly by a veto of the man who had the courage to take his stand against aggression in Korea on the 25th of June," Austin said.

Soviet Delegate Vishinsky attacked the resolution for an extension of Lie's term as a violation of the Charter; said there could be no action in the Assembly because the Security Council has not made a recommendation, and then turned his guns on Lie.

U. N. Unit Votes To Ease Franco Ban

LAKE SUCCESS, Oct. 31 (AP)—The U. N. Special Political Committee voted today to give a measure of United Nations membership to Franco Spain.

Rejecting Soviet charges that the move was in line with United States military designs on Spain, the committee approved a Latin American resolution allowing Spain to belong to such special U. N. agencies as the world health organization.

The roll call vote was 37 in favor, 10 against and 12 abstentions.

The resolution which now goes to the General Assembly where it is assured a two-thirds majority, also rescinds the 1946 U. N. recommendation that all member countries withdraw their top ambassadors from Madrid.

Sen. John J. Sparkman (D-Ala), U. S. delegate, emphasized in supporting the resolution today that the U. S. backing "does not constitute any approval of the policies or practices of the Spanish government."

3 Killed When Plane Crashes Into Houses

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Oct. 31 (AP)—A small sports plane crashed into a group of houses near the city limits today, killing its three occupants.

Three homes were gutted by flames that spread when the plane exploded. Sheriff's deputies said all residents managed to reach safety.

"Kid Soldier," 19, Killed After 5 Years In Uniform

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., Oct. 31 (AP)—Five years in uniform has ended for Bob Shaw, the "kid soldier with the big grin."

A lanky, six-foot tall youth, Bob had hung around the Huntington armory until officers accepted his story that he was nearly 17.

In truth, he was 14, but he was admitted to the West Virginia State Guard. That was in 1945, while he was still in junior high school.

Then when the state unit was dissolved in 1947 and the National Guard revived, Bob signed up.

He was the envy of his classmates in high school. Every time there was a military funeral or other military duty to perform, Bob was let out to attend.

"He never had any wish but to be a soldier," said his mother, Mrs. L. O. Johnson.

Bob enlisted in the regular army in 1948, and later that year was shipped to Tokyo, assigned to the First Cavalry Division.

Last January, about the time he turned 19 and now risen in the ranks, he sent his mother a photograph, with a prideful notation:

"My self and Gen. Palmer when I made 'Soldier of the Week' two weeks ago."

That was before Korea.

His mother has other letters from the boy whose whole life was soldiering, some of them mud-smeared as if written in a foxhole, but all of them cheerful.

Today, Mrs. Johnson received a notice from the Defense Department:

"We regret to inform x x x ."

Nearly five years of military service had come to an end. At the age of 19, Sgt. Robert E. Shaw was killed in action.

Big Power System May Explain China Aid To Korea Reds

HAMHUNG, Korea, Oct. 31 (AP)—The great hydro-electric complex at Changjin (Chosin) and Pujon (Fusen) offers the probable explanation why Chinese Communists have committed forces in this area.

The 10th U. S. Army Corps has confirmed that one Chinese Communist regiment is in the area. South Korean army officers say two Chinese divisions have been committed.

Pujon and Changjin reservoirs make up a power system which feeds both North Korea's devastated heavy industry and Manchurian border area plants. So far as is known here, the elaborate system of dams and generators still is intact.

New Violence Ups Death Toll In Puerto Rico

32 Dead; Troops Retake Two Towns

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico, Oct. 31 (AP)—A gun battle with barricaded anti-United States nationalists erupted in San Juan tonight. One man was killed and five persons wounded, including two children.

This was the latest violence in the revolt set off by the nationalists yesterday. It brought to 32 the number of Puerto Ricans killed in rioting and bloodshed that spread through 10 Puerto Rican centers. Gov. Luis Munoz Marin described the revolt as a "conspiracy against democracy, helped by the Communists," and said it would be stamped out in a day or two.

Today national guard troops smashed at the rebels with planes and tanks and drove them out of two strongholds outside of San Juan.

Two Towns Recaptured

Shortly after dusk a group of nationalists barricaded themselves in a barber shop in the Barrio Obrero (working class) section of San Juan. A gun battle developed. The barber shop owner was shot to death. The children wounded were among spectators. Others wounded were two national guardsmen and a civilian.

Striking at dawn, troops armed with machine guns, bazookas and tanks, recaptured Jayuya, 50 miles southwest of San Juan, and the neighboring town of Utuado. Fighter planes strafed the rebels. The rebels had seized control of the two towns last night after bombing police stations, killing some policemen and setting many fires.

A police recount of casualties said 32 persons had been killed and 40 wounded in the rebellion. The dead included 21 nationalists, nine policemen, and one national guardsmen.

Revolt, Prison Break Linked

By afternoon, guardsmen were patroling the two towns, with the last pocket of resistance apparently wiped out. Jayuya looked as though an earthquake had struck it. Several blocks were destroyed and most of the other buildings in the town of 1,500 were charred by fire.

Continued scattered reports of shootings in San Juan and other parts of this U. S. island territory of 2,149,000 persons in the Caribbean made it difficult to estimate the total casualties since the uprising started yesterday morning.

Munoz said today that the revolt was definitely connected with, and probably sparked by, the island's worst prison break Saturday, when 111 inmates escaped from Rio Piedras prison 10 miles from San Juan.

U. S. Armored Unit 32 Miles From Border

Attack Will Test China Red Strength

SEOUL, Wednesday, Nov. 1 (AP)—A lightning dash by an American column up North Korean's west coast to the Manchurian border was halted last night by a savage Red counterattack.

The Reds stopped an armored column of the U. S. 24th Division 32 miles short of its border objective and prevented the column from making an intended all-night advance. It planned to return to the attack today.

On the northeast coast of Korea, where another American column was within 51 miles of the border, Maj. Gen. Edward M. Almond said his 10th Army Corps would attack soon in strength to determine just how many Chinese Communist reinforcements stand in the way.

The Red counterattack in the northwest, which cost the enemy 100 casualties, was made northwest of Chongju, captured Monday by the British Commonwealth 27th Brigade.

On the right flank of the U. S. 24th Division, where one South Korean division was cut to pieces last week, there were fresh reports today of Red activity. The South Korean First Division beat off the sixth strong Communist counterattack in the past 48 hours near Unsan. It is 37 miles northeast of Chongju.

A First Division spokesman said that 1,000 Reds on horseback were reported moving south on a road toward Unsan.

For the second night in a row, enemy planes appeared over an area to the immediate rear of fighting in the northwest. No bombs were dropped last night. A few fell the night before. The Reds claimed in a communique that the raiders wrecked vital bridges.

American planes were out in force but ground support was hampered by smoke rolling up from fires set by artillery shells in the wooded hills.

Gen. Almond disclosed that at least one Chinese Red regiment had marched to within 15 miles of the important industrial center of Hamhung on the east coast.

In a statement at Hamhung he indicated that a strong U. N. attack would be delivered "in the next few days" to determine if two Chinese Red divisions are supporting the Red attack. Prisoners have said two Chinese divisions have moved into Northeast Korea.

A tank column of the U. S. 24th Division advanced 24 miles beyond Chongju Tuesday.

Field dispatches said the column reached a point only 32 miles away from Sinuiju, on the Yalu river, across from the Chinese city of Antung.

The column was ordered by Maj. Gen. John H. Church, division commander, to continue rolling Tuesday night to keep the Reds off balance.

On the northeast front, a column of the U. S. 7th Division raced through light opposition for the interior Manchurian border town of Hyesanjin. These Americans and Korean troops landed Sunday at Iwon, and took off on a northwest tangent leading away from the Sea of Japan coastline.

Aerial reports to the U. S. Eighth Army headquarters said the 7th Division column reached Pungsan Tuesday, a gain of 52 road miles since Sunday. At Pungsan they were 51 road miles south of the border.

NPA Eases Up Building Policy

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31 (AP)—The National Production Authority, in the face of protests from the building industry, today backed down on its threat to halt future non-defense building even if construction has been started.

The action followed vigorous protests from the Associated General Contractors of America, whose managing director, H. E. Foreman, said one clause of NPA's ban on construction of amusement places was more drastic than "anything in World War II".

The provision in question declared that NPA will follow the policy, whenever necessary in the defense effort, of banning non-essential construction "even though its commencement at the present time is not forbidden."

NPA Administrator William H. Harrison today declared the agency "has no intention of adopting a policy of halting construction which may then be under way."

The disputed section of the regulation has been amended, Harrison said.

8 Believed Dead In River Blast

FRIARS POINT, Miss., Oct. 31. (AP)—Eight men were presumed dead today from an explosion that shattered four Mississippi river vessels during a peaceful twilight.

Two were known dead; Paul Godsey Jr., about 23, and William Smith, about 28, both of Caruthersville, Mo.

Missing and presumed dead are John Whitney Purser, Helena, Ark.; Paul Godsey Sr., Earl Wallace, Edward Rush, Richard Kurtz and Harry Fields, all of Caruthersville. A search party continued to hunt for them.

The explosion and resultant fire last night crippled a fuel barge, a gravel dredge, a gravel barge and the tugboat "Skipper."

Unofficial reports gave this chronology of happenings:

The dredge and gravel barge were operating. The fuel barge, towed by the tugboat, was alongside, supplying fuel for the the operation. Suddenly there was a terrific explosion aboard the oiler. The dredge sank, the gravel barge was wrecked, and the tug caught fire.

The fuel barge began drifting downstream, dragging the tug with it. In the dusk, the glow of two burning vessels—like twin pillars of fire—was visible for miles.

Another towboat, the Sam Houston, braved the heat and dangers and shoved the two flaming craft into the river bank to get them out of the way of other traffic.

Balto. County Won't Use Voting Machines

TOWSON, Md., Oct. 31 (AP)—Baltimore county will not use any voting machines in next Tuesday's general election, county election supervisors announced today after their latest change of mind.

Seventy of 300 voting machines the county has contracted for were set up yesterday and today in 24 polling places, but the county board of election supervisors decided there isn't time to print and publish the special ballot.

The 300 machines, with 70 to be delivered in time for the Nov. 7 balloting, were purchased after last month's primary election.

Medical Examiner System Is Extolled

BALTIMORE, Oct. 31 (AP) — Dr. Russell S. Fisher, chief medical examiner of Maryland, today attacked coroner's inquests as "time wasting and unnecessary."

Dr. Fisher extolled the Maryland medical examiner system, which he heads, before the tenth annual conference of the Maryland-District of Columbia-Delaware Hospital Association.

He said a coroner consumes time on "quasi-legal procedures," while a medical examiner can "devote more time to determining the medical facts concerning the cause of death."

Statistics show that people who receive expert driver education are involved in 40 to 60 per cent fewer accidents than others.

Serpent Lore Revived As Danish Scientists Plan To Plumb Ocean

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31 (AP) — Maybe it's just the Halloween spirit. Anyway, the National Geographic Society nervously peeked over its shoulder today, and saw sea serpents.

The society noted in a news release that Danish scientists plan to plumb the ocean depths. The ocean is more than 35,000 feet deep in some places, and nobody knows what goes on down there.

The Danes hope to find out by lowering an apparatus on a 50,000-foot steel hawser during their two-year study.

What, asks the N.G.S., if they pull up a sea serpent?

The society is saddened by the fact — and properly so, I think — that the sea serpent has been displaced by the flying saucer in the I-saw-it-with-my-own-eyes league.

For the sea serpent has a wonderful history.

Originally he was such a monster that he could gulp down a ship without even bothering to masticate.

Though time has reduced his proportions, he has wandered back from time to time in circumstances that have been difficult to explain.

Most scientists think sea serpent stories are bunk. They point out that none has ever been discovered, dead or alive, to give scientific proof to the stories and legends.

Stubborn Grandma Foils Holdup Man

NEW YORK, Oct. 31 (AP) — Mrs. Elizabeth Hughes is a 65-year-old grandmother, a white-haired little woman with a yen for adventure — and a stickler for rules.

"I can't stand any deviation from the rules," she explains.

So last night when a husky holdup man stuck a gun in her face and told her to give him the $100 in her subway change booth, she said "I won't."

She didn't either — would have been against the rules.

"Everything he told me to do, open the door, sit down, I said the same. It was a series of I won'ts," Mrs. Hughes said today.

Finally the bandit gave up, apparently recognizing stubborness when he sees it. He want away muttering something about "a brave woman."

Scramble Eggs, Be On Safe Side

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 31 (AP)—To be on the safe side, scramble your eggs, three Michigan health experts suggested today.

Dr. Henrik J. Stafseth and two colleagues said a poultry disease called "pullorum" is transmissable to man as a dysentery-like ailment and that germs of the disease may be found in eggs of infected birds.

Reporting on research they conducted at Michigan State College, they said boiling, frying or poaching of eggs doesn't destroy the germs. But tests showed, they said, that scrambling results in "100 per cent kill after a minute and a half."

Sen. O'Conor Defends Tydings' Record

BALTIMORE, Oct. 31 (AP) — Sen. O'Conor took to the radio tonight to defend the handling of his Democratic colleague, Sen. Tydings, of the investigation of charges that Communists had infiltrated the State Department.

O'Conor said a "smear campaign" has been waged against Tydings, candidate for re-election to a fifth term in Tuesday's general election.

Franciscan friars, in 1775, were the first white men to set foot in what is now Nevada.

Young Mother Fails In Effort To Save Son

CALVERT MANOR, Md., Oct. 31 (AP)—A young mother waded waist-deep into Piscataway creek here today in a fruitless effort to save the life of her 22-months-old son whom she found floating on the surface.

The dead child, Edward N. Edington, son of Mr. and Mrs. Archie Edington, Calvert Manor, apparently had crept out of his back yard and fallen into the water almost a block from his home.

Prince Georges county police and the Oxon Hill rescue squad worked for four hours in attempts to revive the boy.

CTP Program Is Held In McCoole

McCOOLE, Md.—The Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Company's Cooperative Transit Program was presented to a large group of Keyser and McCoole citizens at the McCoole Fire Hall by C. N. Fullerton, Baltimore, special representative of the CTP.

Miss Mildred Dreschler, Baltimore, said she will return here in January for the purpose of organizing a Woman's division of the CTP.

A motion picture in technicolor, "You and Your Railroads," was shown.

Pope Proclaims Dogma Today

VATICAN CITY, Oct. 31 (AP) — Pope Pius XII, on the eve of his dogmatic proclamation of the Virgin Mary's assumption into Heaven, recited for the first time tonight a prayer he has composed in her honor.

"We believe with all the fervor of our faith in your triumphant assumption, in soul and in body, into heaven, where you are acclaimed queen by all the choirs of the angels and all the legions of the saints," he said, speaking from his Vatican apartment.

Loudspeakers carried the Pope's prayer to a huge throng in St. Peter's Square, where the high point of the Roman Catholic 1950 Holy Year jubilee will take place with proclamation of the dogma tomorrow.

The dogma will establish as a doctrine of the Roman Catholic Church what most Catholics have long believed—that Mary, the mother of Jesus Christ, ascended to heaven bodily as well as spiritually.

Note On Suicide's Body Leads To Slain Mother

NEW CASTLE, Ind., Oct. 31 (AP)—The body of a young man was found in his home today and a note on it led officers to the shallow grave of his mother in the basement of a house under construction near here.

Robert Couden, acting coroner, said it appeared that Robert Degler, 26, a factory worker, killed his 50-year-old mother, Vergie, also a factory worker, 11 days ago and then took his own life this morning.

A note on young Degler's body said: "I killed my mother Oct. 20."

Couden said Degler had been shot in the head and the gun was lying on his chest.

Malayan Reds Intensify Militant Action To Offset Korea Setbacks

SINGAPORE—(AP)—Militant Communism in Singapore is being intensified to offset reverses suffered by Communist forces in Korea.

Bombs have been flung into places of entertainment frequented by Britons. Rubber warehouses and factories have been destroyed. An officer in charge of Chinese education has been shot in a public bus. British-operated buses and taxicabs have been doused with flaming gasoline.

Singapore's thousands of illiterate believe the Red whispering campaign that big things are in the offing by the Communists.

This British colony was completely free of Communist violence for a year after June 1948 when the Malayan Communist Party was outlawed.

Then a lone Communist tossed a bomb into a pro-Nationalist Chinese newspaper office. Five other bomb throwings followed. One hit the Singapore governor, Sir Franklin Gimson, when he left a boxing stadium. In all cases the bombs were either home-made or old British army material. They failed to explode efficiently.

The Reds then struck at Malaya's chief dollar-earner. They burned a number of small rubber warehouses. Their biggest success was the Aik Hoe, Chinese-owned rubber factory where more than $4,000,000 of the vital war material went up in smoke.

About this time the authorities closed two Chinese schools in which they had found Communist literature. The schools were later allowed to reopen but pro-Communist students, boys and girls, were banned

While this was going on, an unknown assassin climbed aboard a bus and shot in the stomach the colony's officer in charge of Chinese education. Observers linked the two incidents.

Letters proclaiming the greatness of the Soviet Union and Communist China, and denouncing the "Anglo - American blood - suckers" poured out to selected persons, including government officers, from an unknown source.

Red arsonists made the city's transport their next objective. Cans of petrol placed aboard unattended buses were the main weapon. Many were set afire.

Communism in Singapore today presents a greater danger than the authorities will admit. The Red propagandists are active among the illiterate classes.

A Chinese accountant shocked the editor of Singapore's biggest English-language newspaper, the Straits Times, when he wrote to say the paper was printing "lies." It was the Americans who attacked the North Koreans and started the Korean war, he maintained.

Hapless Chinese merchants, put in fear of destruction to life and property, are unwittingly financing the Communist underground.

The police exhort all Chinese merchants who receive threats to report them. But not always has the person involved the spirit to see the affair through.

Report Of Operation For Coronary Heart Disease Amazes Physicians

CHICAGO—(AP)—A report of an operation for coronary heart disease, killer of many persons, drew applause and gasps from a fascinated group of doctors at Northwestern University.

Dr. Claude S. Beck, neurosurgeon at Western Reserve University, Cleveland, made the report in a lecture and in movies of the operation.

Usually reserved physicians called it "amazing," and "astonishing," medical sources said.

The operation is designed to feed more blood into the heart muscle by bypassing the blocked coronary artery. A piece of blood vessel is grafted between the aorta, or main blood channel, and the opening of the heart chamber.

Dr. Beck said four persons in the nation have undergone the operation and lived. He said one is a 60-year-old Cleveland physician who had to quit his practice because of a coronary occlusion but now works full time without any heart pain.

Coronary occlusion is a hardening or narrowing of the arteries supplying the heart muscle. It strikes many doctors and others, such as business executives, who work at high tension or for long hours.

The usual treatment has been complete rest.

Dr. Beck made his report to a postgraduate course in cardiovascular surgery, sponsored by the Chicago Medical Society and attended by 90 physicians from across the nation.

He said the first operation was preceded by 16 years of research and thousands of experiments on dogs. Of 11 persons who underwent the surgery, seven died. However, Dr. Beck said, at least five died of coronary heart disease, not from the operation.

The next big question is what stage of the disease is the best time for the surgery. He said experience so far shows patients with severe "degenerative changes" in the heart are poor risks.

Several other heart experts said the techniques involved may lead to new methods of treating angina pectoris, another heart ailment which causes sharp chest pains, and myocardial damage — damage to heart muscles as a result of being deprived of blood.

Pennsy's "Southwind" Derailed In Kentucky

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 31 (AP) — 'The Southwind," a limited train of the Pennsylvania Railroad, northbound from Miami, Fla., was derailed here.

Witnesses said three passengers were injured, none seriously.

Cause of the derailment was not determined immediately. Nine of the train's 12 cars left the track, it was reported.

The Court Divides

During the great court-packing controversy of 1937, New Dealers criticized the tendency of the Supreme Court to divide in 5-4 decisions. The Court's job was not to determine policy, on which differences of opinion are natural, but to hew to the meaning of the Constitution. A group of constitutional experts, it might be thought, should come close to agreement on that.

Actually the Justices were dealing, in many cases in the '30s, with situations the Constitution had not foreseen. The Constitutionalists therefore held that anything not specifically authorized should be forbidden. The New Dealers held that anything not specifically forbidden should be acceptable if Congress voted for it.

The latter view is the one that now prevails.

The present Court, however, still has its 5-4 decisions, though the division is on other grounds. Once in a while it even has a 4-4 decision, when one of the justices does not participate because of illness or previous connection with the case. A 4-4 decision is really unfortunate.

The other day, for example, the court ruled 4-4 on the conviction of a Quaker teacher who told one of his students to stick to his conscientious decision not to register for the draft. As the lower court in Ohio upheld the conviction and the Supreme Court is deadlocked, the conviction stands.

But now suppose that an identical case comes before the Supreme Court from another lower court, which reversed an identical conviction. If the justices again split 4-4, the effect is that the highest court in the land has freed one man and sent another to prison for identical offenses. That is not equal justice under law.

Now it is claimed civilization is at bay—having become tired, apparently, of hanging around the crossroads.

Feeding Koreans

Withdrawal of American forces from Korea in the near future is not in the cards. Sufficient U. S. troops will remain in the devastated country to maintain order and bring about a semblance of normal conditions. And what a job it will be.

It is proposed to unite North and South Korea into one nation, with a single government—a tremendous task in itself. After that has been accomplished will come the job of feeding the people, including 150,000 prisoners of war.

The whole country has been laid waste. The capital of North Korea, with a population of 500,000, has been practically destroyed. There are no utilities, the remaining citizens are bewildered and hungry. Everywhere there is death and desolation.

Restoration of Korea will depend to a considerable extent upon the attitude of Russia, which sponsored the invasion of South Korea, and which is expected to hamper any effort in behalf of peace. After winning the war, the task of caring for the victims and feeding the starving will also fall to America.

Days and nights being now about equal, both may be said to have attained parity.

Japanese Peace Treaty

Three years of prodding by the United States were unsuccessful in bringing Russia around to the point where she would consent to discuss a peace treaty for Japan across a conference table. Now, the State Department's Dulles says, Malik will "listen" to what the U. S. diplomats have to say.

Things have now progressed to the point where State Department emissaries feel real good if Russian Reds, who are given the run of the United States on the pretext that they are attending United Nations sessions, condescend to talk to them!

The proposed draft of the Japanese peace treaty has already been circulated among the 11 nations which were at war, by word or deed, with Japan. The U. S. draft proposes that no restrictions be placed on Jap rearmament, or on her economic and commercial affairs. The United States also proposes to administer Okinawa, Iwo Jima and the Bonin and Ryukyu chains. Washington also wants to keep bases there.

Pressure for a treaty has been strong in this country and in Japan for some time. Knowing Russia's cynical regard for the "welfare" of enemies of the Allies in World War II, it is incomprehensible that Russia would accept any treaty that didn't include complete evacuation of that country by the U. S. and so weaken that country economically and militarily that it would fall to Russia very soon.

Why Russia should be consulted at all about a Japanese treaty is not clear. When the United States was winning the war against Japan, Russia was neutral and, in fact, interned U. S. fliers who were forced down on Russian territory while attacking Japan.

Deflation In Lots

Inflation is continuing its upward course, but government action has deflated prices of building lots drastically. Credit curbs on new housing put into effect by Washington has all but decimated demand for lots, according to a survey by the Wall Street Journal. Many recent buyers of lots at high prices now are sorry they bought, according to the Journal.

What this points up is that the government possesses life or death power over vast categories of business, and concentration of control in Washington will continue for the duration of the "crisis." Who, for instance, believes rent controls will ever be dropped if Congress can be stampeded into renewing them in December?

HOW TO KEEP WELL

Sick Nails

THE nails protect the ends of the fingers and, despite the beating they take, seldom become the seat of disease. This is fortunate because most afflictions of these structures are difficult to treat. In addition, their condition is a reflection of the health of the individual and in this respect they resemble other tissues such as the hair and skin.

Nail biting is a common cause of injury. This habit generally commences in childhood and frequently is carried over into adult life. The practice is ascribed to a neurosis when it persists; in severe cases considerable damage may be inflicted. Now and then the nail plate is almost entirely gnawed and infection invariably occurs because the area is left without a defense against bacterial and fungous invasions. This is further enhanced because the mouth teems with bacteria, many of a virulent type.

Transverse ridges often form in the nail from pushing back the cuticle too vigorously. These lines are best seen by holding the fingers so that light reflects from the polished surface. Overzealous manicuring also may leave spots, or striations that turn white; they remain until they grow out at the end. The nail is bruised easily when caught in a door or hit with a hammer. This mishap usually leads to hemorrhage beneath the nail which, on healing, frequently causes loosening and shedding of the nail. An injury of this nature is painful because the accumulated blood creates considerable pressure. In the past it was a common procedure to insert a red hot needle thru the nail to relieve the pressure but nowadays this procedure is condemned by most physicians because infection is a frequent aftermath. Germs love blood and a hole thru the nail offers a supply. They multiply rapidly in this environment and in no time are in a position to invade nearby tissues. A better plan is to apply cold applications to discourage bleeding, followed by the use of a clean sterile bandage.

A variety of nail disfigurations are caused by contact with any one of a large number of chemical agents. These include nail polish, remover, and undercoats as well as dyes, soaps and other alkalis, acids, and a host of industrial products. The damage may result from irritation or thru an allergic response to repeated contact. In some instances the nail becomes soft and the surrounding tissue inflamed; in others brittleness and longitudinal ridging and splitting of the plate ensue.

• — • — •

When the nail is invaded by fungi, molds, and yeast organisms a perplexing problem arises: these organisms are difficult to eradicate. The old reliable Whitfield's ointment seems to work as well as anything. X-ray also is used, as well as mechanical scraping. Surgical removal of the infected structure seldom leads to cure because infection invariably reappears. Nail changes develop when anemia is present or the body lacks vitamins. Numerous abnormalities may occur when the circulation is poor and dryness and brittleness is common in a bout of rheumatoid arthritis. Now and then alterations are traced to glandular or systemic disturbances.

SWEAT IS SECRETED

H. G. writes: Exactly where does perspiration come from? Is it a poisonous fluid discharged from our bodies?

REPLY

Perspiration is secreted by the sweat glands, which have the ability to manufacture this fluid. The secretion is not poisonous altho it may contain waste products.

WEIGHT AND MALIGNANCY

J. W. writes: Can weight be gained with cancer or does the victim always lose?

REPLY

Occasionally weight is gained in the early stages. Some have explained this phenomenon by saying that the individual is eating more to feed the cancer. Weight loss is the rule, however, when cancer is beyond hope.

NECK CARBUNCLES

H. J. writes: Do carbuncles on the neck mean bad kidneys?

REPLY

No. Carbuncles are infections in their own right and represent an invasion of hair follicles by staphyl ococci. The neck is a favorite location because it is a good dirt collector and is subjected to irritation from the collar.

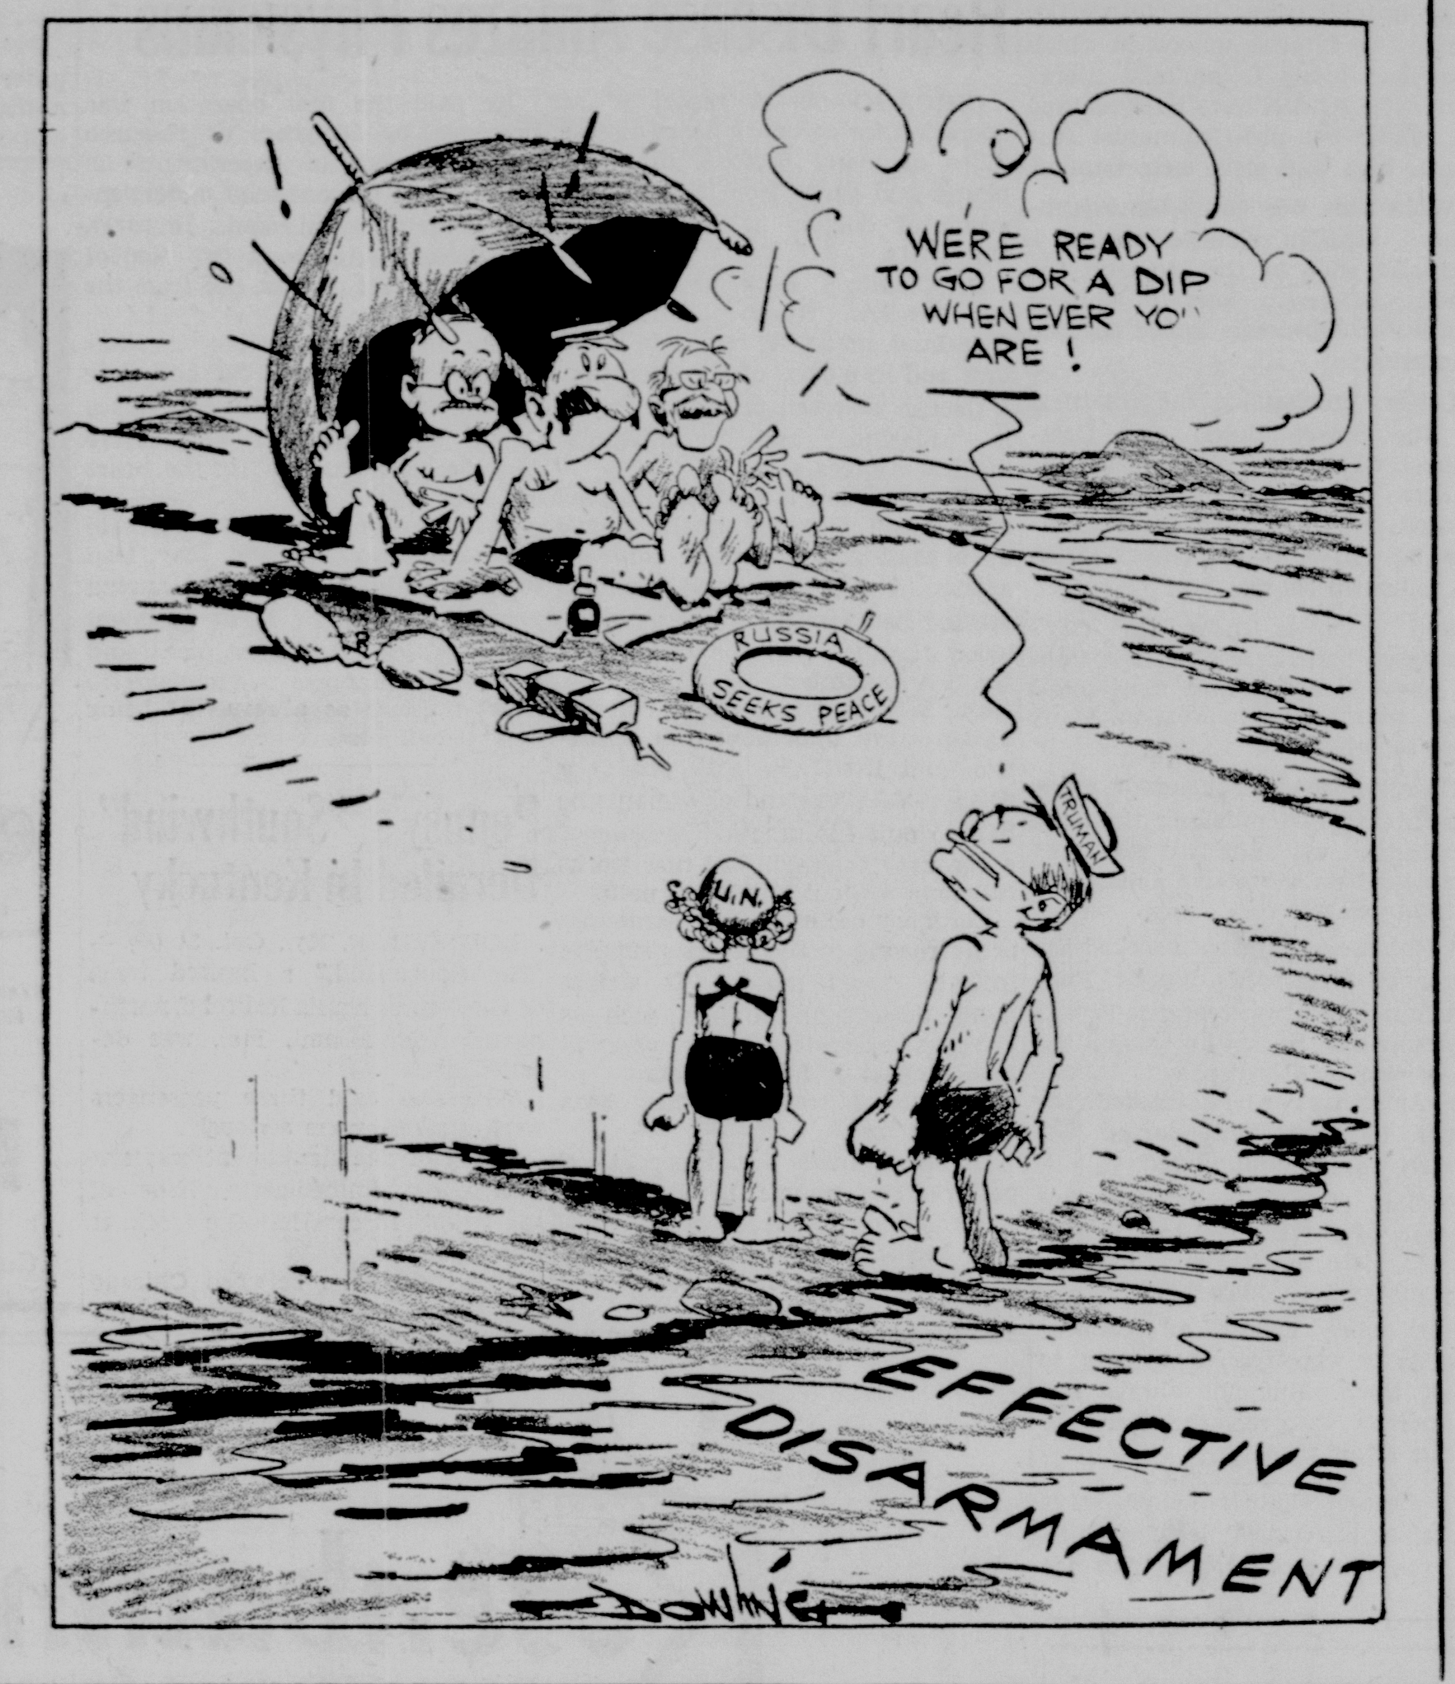
IRRITABLE HEART

L. W. writes: What is the medical name for a nervous heart?

REPLY

Various terms are used, including cardiac neurosis, simple tachycardia, arrhythmia, and irritable heart. When the symptom is present, physicians formerly referred to the general condition as neurocirculatory asthenia but now psychoneurosis is the term used.

NOW COMES THE SHOWDOWN



The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Pennsylvania Offers Two Good Senate Candidates; Gov. Duff Represents New GOP Philosophy; Duff May Be Presidential Candidate If He Wins Senate Race

Says DREW PEARSON

HARRISBURG, Pa.—The State of Pennsylvania, which has sent some freak senators to Washington in the past, this year can't very well go wrong. It has two good men to pick from: Gov. James Duff, Republican; and Sen. Francis Myers, Democrat.

However, if the tremendous swing which nominated Duff last May continues, he will be the new senator in Washington next January.

This—if it happens—will mark something more than just a new senator from Pennsylvania. For Duff represents a new philosophy inside the Republican party which it needs more of if it is ever going to recapture the White House. He also is a man who is sure to be considered a Presidential candidate if he wins on November 7.

When Duff was nominated to the Senate last spring he received letters from all over the country stating: "Thank God for a change in the Republican leadership. We're Democrats, but we would vote Republican, if the Republicans offered something new."

What they referred to is the fact that Duff has not tried to tear down all the new deal legislation FDR built up. Nor has he based his campaign on the Senator McCarthy bogey that Communists lurk under State Department desks. Instead, he has followed a policy not unlike that of Governor Warren of California of taking the best of the new deal program and adding some features of his own—cleaning up one of the chief rivers of his state, reforming the insane asylums, improving the schools, and putting the Pennsylvania Manufacturers Association in its place.

For years, Pennsylvania was ruled by the barons of coal, steel, gas, and oil. What they wanted, they largely got. And the normal GOP governor in Harrisburg usually did their bidding. Governor Duff, however, reversed this, and in so doing won the undying enmity of that insatiable disciple of the high tariff, Joe Grundy, plus all his fellow manufacturers. They did their best to defeat Duff at the primaries, and, believe it or not, they are now conspiring with a Democrat, Senator Myers, to try to defeat Duff in November.

Presidential Material

Jim Duff is big, barrel-chested, redheaded, rides horseback at the age of 67 two or three times a week, works late hours, reads till one or two a. m., and drinks water incessantly. If it wasn't for his age, he would be excellent Presidential timber, though in these days, with MacArthur 71, General Marshall 70, and Harry Truman one year younger than Duff, he can't be counted out.

Duff inherited some of his crusading belligerency from his father, a Presbyterian minister in Westmoreland county, near Carnegie. His father supported five children on an income of $3,700, and sent all of them to college. When Jim Duff was a boy, he remembers an oil company drilling wells opposite his father's farm and offering to buy the Duff place—for a song. His father refused.

Instead, he drilled eight wells on his own land. But when he could not get the oil company to buy his gas, the elder Duff simply uncorked a well, let the gas gush out, thus lowering the pressure in the wells across the line.

After that the oil company came to terms.

That was when Jim Duff got his first taste of bucking big business, and he has been bucking the barons most of his life.

His next brush came when he was attorney general of Pennsylvania and closed the legal loopholes permitting dumping in Pennsylvania rivers. Later, as Governor, he started the almost revolutionary project of dredging out the Schuylkill river.

Dredges River

For years the coal companies had been dumping their waste coal and culm into the Schuylkill until its channel was choked to a height of 18 feet. This is now being dredged out of the river, the channel restored, and about one-third of the coal reclaimed.

At first, business was opposed. But the other day, Revelle Brown, president of the Reading Railroad told the Governor: "They've been rapping you over the Schuylkill river, but I think it's one of the best things the state has ever done."

Another Duff project was to clean up the state asylums, long one of the worst scandals in Pennsylvania. The Byberry asylum near Philadelphia was so filthy that holes in the floor were used as toilets, and inmates were chained to the walls. But with the help of former Supreme Court Justice Owen Roberts, Life magazine and a group of Quakers, Byberry has now been completely renovated. And today Pennsylvania is ahead of most states in its care of the insane.

Duff is a former bull-mooser, was a delegate to the Teddy Roosevelt convention in 1912, along with another eminent Pennsylvanian, Harold Ickes. His disrespect for big business was acquired both from Teddy and his father.

"The general run of people," he says, "are not interested in making the rich richer and the poor poorer."

Turns Down Retainers

There is an interesting contrast between the life of Jim Duff and that of Joe Hanley, lieutenant governor of New York. When Duff was urged to run for governor, he also pled lack of funds. But a friend argued:

"You can get two retainers for $20,000 and $15,000 that will supplement your state salary."

The friend mentioned two Pennsylvania utility companies for whom Duff had worked in the past. Unlike Hanley, however, Duff replied:

"Not me. When I work for my state or my government, I don't take money from an outside source."

After conferring with Mrs. Duff, however, they decided to curtail their domestic budget and thus run for office.

Governor Duff belongs to a small but growing school within the Republican party, including Governor Warren of California, Governor Driscoll of New Jersey, Senators Ives of New York and Morse of Oregon, who believe that you don't win votes merely by criticism. You have got to lead, build, contruct, they believe, not tear down. And if sometimes your program overlaps or coincides with the Democrats', they also believe that's no reason for shying away from it.

That's why the prospective senator from Pennsylvania says:

Hickenlooper's Success Depends On Farm Vote

By MARK SULLIVAN

THE campaign in Iowa for election of United States Senator is described by Doris Fleeson, newspaper columnist for the Bell syndicate. The contest is between Republican candidate, Bourke Hickenlooper, running to succeed himself, and Democratic candidate Al Loveland. The grouping and attachments of voters is analyzed by Miss Fleeson.

"Roughly speaking, the Iowa vote centers in three major blocs. The Senator (Hickenlooper) has a substantial edge in the important small towns. Loveland will benefit to some undetermined degree from labor activity in the larger cities. The farmers will set the final verdict."

On what basis will farmers determine their verdict? The question is answered by Miss Fleeson: "What they (farmers) principally want to know is simply who will make farmers the best Senator."

And what, in the Iowa farmers' judgment, makes the best candidate for Senator? Answer to that may be found in what the Iowa farmers did in the Presidential election of 1948. It was a sensational incident in the victory of Democratic candidate Truman.

Success Remembered

Mr. Truman, in his 1948 campaign, promised farmers not only to continue price support of farm crops but to make it more effective specifically he promised in a campaign speech at Decatur, Iowa, that if he should be elected the government would provide storage facilities for farm crops. On that narrow local and group issue, Iowa went for Truman, sensationally reversing the strong Republican trend it had shown in recent preceding elections. And the Truman victory in Iowa, with similarly surprising victories in five other Mid-West farm states, was the largest cause of his victory in the nation and of the surprise which that victory was, That 1948 Truman success on the farm storage bin issue, as one facet of the crop price support issue, has been remembered in national politics ever since.

Assuming that in the present campaign any large number of farmers ask "who will make farmers the best Senator," and assuming that a similar condition exists in other states, having a large number of farm voters, and bearing in mind many exceptions on the part of individuals and farm leaders—nevertheless this condition, to the extent to which it exists, is a disturbing phenomenon, a subordination of national issues to group ones. Abroad, the country is at war, is faced by threat of more war, and to prepare against more war is drafting its youth, mobilizing its industry, and putting limitations on individual freedom. Domestically the country is in the course of an inflation which unless checked threatens economic disaster. The combination of national dangers ought to be occasion for subordination of group and individual interests.

May Reveal Disapproval

It is always possible that individuals who compose the rank and file of a group interest may not be as conscious of it in their voting as might be suggested by political appeals made to the group. The political arms of the two great national labor organizations, CIO and AFL, are strident in appeals to labor as a group interest. Harsh emphasis is put upon the Taft-Hartley labor law and one of the authors of the law, Sen. Taft of Ohio, is subjected to as bitter an opposition as ever occurred in American politics. It is possible that the outcome on election day may reveal disapproval of the attack on Sen. Taft by much of the rank and file of labor, and resentment against the source and manner of the fight by many Democrats and many voters generally.

Appeal to labor and to farmers as groups was made conspicuous by President Truman in his 1948 campaign. To both groups he said in the speech in which he accepted the Presidential nomination, that if they did not support the Democratic party they would be "the most ungrateful people in the world." That appeal to group interest is objectionable at any time was less apparent in 1948 than now.

Decision To Use Veto May Block Red China

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31 — The United States Government may have inadvertently—or perhaps purposely—made a decision to use the veto for the first time in the Security Council of the United Nations, which, although on a different matter, could mean an adamant refusal to admit Communist China as a permanent member of the Council.

The United States has long hesitated to use the veto. The other day, when the question of permitting other candidates to replace Trygve Lie as secretary-general of the U. N. was up for consideration, American Ambassador Warren Austin said frankly to the press that, if necessary, the veto would be used. This was widely heralded as the first threat on the part of the U. S. to use the veto power.

But in the background of this decision something else comes up for consideration. The United States had announced before the outbreak of the Korean war that, if the other members of the council favored the admission of Communist China, there would be no use of the veto and the American government would abide by the wishes of the majority.

Played Dangerous Role

The Communists of China, however, have played a dangerous role in the Koeran affair. They have denounced the U. S. as an aggressor and have echoed the party line of Moscow. The Chinese Communists, moreover, have been sending military equipment to aid the Korean reds to do battle against the U. N. forces. Today word comes that a Chinese regiment has been identified as part of the North Korean forces.

In the face of all these facts, the United States can contend that the situation with respect to Communist China has changed since June 25, when the Korean war broke out, and that military control of all China by one government is not the sole criterion. Rather it can be argued that the hostility of the Communist government in China to the U. N. is in itself a major reason why admission should be denied.

Nor can the United States now say that to use the veto would be a bad precedent. Up to now, it has been pointed out that the excessive use of the veto by the Russians was a sufficient cause for restraint on the part of the free nations in withholding the veto.

But the reasons advanced by the United States in announcing a willingness to use the veto to prevent the election of someone other than Trygve Lie as secretary-general included a statement that, to do otherwise, would be to condone Russia's course in the Korean affair.

Substantial Issue

It is admitted by the Russians that they oppose Trygve Lie only because he summoned the U. N. Security Council into session last June and helped to get the procedure into operation for U. N. resistance to aggression. This is a substantial issue and one which the American government is right in defining, but it is not more important than the admission of a government which not only denounced the U. N. as aggressors but also furnished military assistance to attempt to defeat the efforts of the U. N. forces.

The veto was originally inserted in the U. N. charter because of a belief on the part of the late President Roosevelt and Marshal Stalin that each of the major powers would wish to protect their sovereighty in the international organization and that matters affecting their own vital interests would not be submitted to majority vote.

But there never was any thought that a nation which itself was involved directly or indirectly in an aggression should be permitted to use the veto or block the enforcement of a rule of law in the world. So, in appraising the future, it is clear that a vote to keep out of the U. N. Security Council a nation hostile to the purposes of the U. N. itself is a logical exercise of the veto power in a matter of great substance.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

The Shortage Of Teachers

THE TEACHING profession is running down, although teachers are comparatively well paid for a professional group. To the monetary payments must be added the short year, the short day and the opportunities to earn additional pay.

These used to be regarded favorably until the 40-hour week for industrial workers equalized the advantage of a short day for teachers. The steady income and tenure used to be a great advantage for teachers, but with full employment and even wartime employment, industry can provide stead work and seniority is similar to tenure in some respects.

Teachers go into industry for higher pay. It is a matter of money. The preparation for school teachers has become stiffer; the examination tougher; and if a teacher really wants to advance, he or she has to take summer work, leading to an M. A. of a PH.D. It is cheaper to join a union and get a job in a factory.

There was a time when the position of school teacher stood in the community as a post of great dignity and importance. The school teacher was among the leaders of men. Public esteem and leadership are often compensations in themselves. The leveling of communal life has removed these advantages and has left the teacher in the position of just another government worker, often regarded as a particularly unsatisfactory worker because the school system in many communities is no longer favorably accepted by parents who wonder why their wonderful children come out of the schools such queer creatures. Non-parents wonder at the costs.

The number of children going to school is on the increase. Shifts of population influence school costs and activities. For instance, large new building projects throw upon communities new burdens of taxation beyond their strength. Thousands of children are being born to veterans who in from four to six years hence will need schools in these new areas. Local budgets rarely make provisions long enough in advance not to send the tax rate up to heights that actually endanger home ownership.

In some communities, teachers are changed often to avoid tenure, thus preventing that continuity of personality which builds an institution. In rural communities that is particularly a growing vice, the idea being that the community does not want to be tied to a teacher it cannot fire.

It is expected that by 1957, elementary school enrollment will reach 29,500,000 and high school enrollment will be 7,300,000. This will mean an increase by about 10,000,000 children over a period of 10 years, and provision must be made for them, not only in buildings but teachers.

The real dilemma for local communities is that money is getting to be harder to find. The thing called "welfare" eats up so much of a municipality's budget. Even rural townships find old age relief and similar welfare funds encroaching on school and road money. Real estate in cities cannot carry much more of a tax load without raising rents, and whenever that is tried, for whatever reason, a howl goes up on the general assumption that the landlord is a usurer per se.

If parents were happier about the schools, the teachers would, nevertheless, have greater public support for increases. The fact is that quite generally parents wonder what the children learn at school. The fault is not altogether the teacher's; it is as much the responsibility of the parent.

As a parent, he insists that his child shall, in the school, be taught to be a decent citizen, an upright, moral person. This can only be done by religious education; by teaching the precept; by reading the Bible and the great writings of our civilization. As a citizen, he often objects to just that. He cannot have it both ways. Children brought up without moral precept and without religious guidance lack a complete education in their early years. Yet, many parents want just that but object to the results of their own desires. Then they blame the schools and the teachers for their own decisions as parents and citizens.

Teaching in elementary schools must be made more attractive while at the same time the schools must be more selective as to the quality of teachers. It is a tough problem not easily solved, but an important one if the citizens of our next generations are to be any good.

Times Square Talk-Talk

TALKED to a smart fellow the other night—Joe E. Lewis, the night-club comedian.

"Hear you turned down five grand to do a guest shot on TV," I said.

Billy Rose

"You heard right," said Joe.

"Five grand is a lot of dough for an hour's work," I said.

"It sure is," said Joe, "but they're not buying an hour. Actually, they're buying twenty years — that's how long it took me to learn how to make an audience laugh."

"A lot of people would get to see you," I said.

"That's the trouble," said Joe. "The way I'm going now, I play to, lets say a thousand customers a night and they each spend about five bucks to see me. On a big TV show I'd be seen by a million people, which means I'd be selling my act for half a cent a head. Besides, there's no guarantee I wouldn't strike out—some pretty funny guys already have."

"Several of your routines are sure-fire," I said.

"I'd use them up in a couple of weeks," said Joe. "Playing the night-club circuit, I can tell the same jokes for months because I never play for long in any one town. No, I think I'd better stick to my own racket where there's no stop-watch, no sponsor and no guy named Hooper to worry about. Think I'm crazy?"

"Sure, you're crazy," I said. "As crazy as that little animal they chase after in red coats."

This afternoon Herman Levin, co-producer of the show playing my theatre, dropped in to see me.

"Any idea where I can find a dozen good-looking girls?" he said.

"Casting for a harem?"

"No, for 'Bless You All,' my new show," said Herman. "I'm willing to pay a hundred and fifty a week for standout showgirls."

"Afraid I can't help you," I said. "The pretty ones I know are all working."

"Where do you get your girls?" asked Herman.

"From all over," I said. "If I hear of a beautiful girl in Chicago, I write for her photo, and if it measures up I have her come into New York for an interview. To show you how far I'll go—a few years back Stanton Griffis sent me a picture of a girl in Sweden named Siri. It took six months to clear her with the immigration people, but the big blonde was worth all the trouble."

"That kind of thing would take months," said Herman, "and I go into rehearsal next week."

"Next time you do a show," I said, "give yourself a little more leeway. schedule some of your chorus calls out of town—Texas, for instance, is sure-pop in the girl department. Matter of fact, there's hardly a city in this country where a chorus call won't turn up some pretty snazzy specimens—gals who never had the carfare to come to New York."

"What you're proposing," said Herman, "is that I hit the road for several months and do nothing but look at girls."

"What's wrong with that?" I said.

Try And Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

Betty Hutton was sent to represent her studio at a religious convention while she was making personal appearances in the South to ballyhoo a new musical. "I think I made one slight error," she reported in mortification, when she came back to the hotel. "One of the ministers asked me if I'd like some more corn—and without thinking, I handed him an empty glass."

A man was rushing lickety-split down Park Avenue one morning, when a friend stopped him and reminded him, "Hey, it's hot! Why are you hurrying so?" The harassed man answered, "Because I'm on my way to my analyst's, and when I'm late he makes me stand up."

Hollywood's most distinguished language-assassin was invited to a dinner recently. "I can't make it," he announced regretfully, "but I hope you'll give me a rain-coat."

Thre are foolish ways and faddish ways to lose weight. But the easy way is following the Powers Beauty Diet.

SECRETS OF CHARM

by JOHN ROBERT POWERS

HABIT is a wonderful thing when you use it to do your bidding. But when habit uses you, it may use you very badly. That is what has happened if you're overweight. You have got into the habit of eating high-caloried foods and cultivated a taste for them. You can change that habit, and in sooner than you think, will find yourself actually preferring the food that will keep you looking your best and feeling your best, too.

Neither Faddy nor Foolish

To lose weight, the foolish often starve themselves; but that's neither easy on the nerves nor on the looks. The faddy folk go for special foods; but that's no simple matter either at home or at a restaurant. There's just one easy way: Eat the ordinary, everyday foods—but in the exact portions and balances that result in reduced weight.

Following is a correctly planned, weight-reducing day's menu to use as a pattern. Get out your calorie counter (found in most cookbooks) and compute the calories of each item on it. Using this as your guide, beside each food listed on your calorie counter, note the quantity you can allow yourself without going over your calorie budget for any meal. You'll discover such interesting facts as—a slice of blueberry pie costs you seven times as much as a dish of blueberries; you can have more than twice as large a serving of carrots as of lime beans. A large beefburger or a generous slice of lean roast beef costs only twice as much as an unbuttered slice of white bread.

When you've completed your list, stick a copy up in the kitchen and another in your purse—and then stick to it! You'll be able to sit down to a happy board, no matter where, and find a selection of slimming, beautifying, healthful foods suited to your needs.

Foods for One Day

Here is your day's meal guide.

Breakfast: ½ cup grapefruit juice; ¾ cup hot oatmeal; ½ cup milk; 1 slice rye toast; ½ pat butter; coffee.

Lunch: ¼ cup welsh rarebit; 3 saltines; 1 jellied tomato salad; 1 cup milk; ½ cup fruit cup.

Dinner: 1 stuffed green pepper with meat; ½ cup stewed tomatoes; 4 stalks celery; 3 halves of canned apricots with syrup; coffee.

Tomorrow: Party preparations.

P. S. from J. R. P.
YOUR BEAUTY DIET

No matter what your weight problem — whether you want to gain, lose or remain the same — YOUR BEAUTY DIET will provide you with a safe and sane pattern of laboratory-tested menus that can be followed by the entire family according to each individual's needs. YOUR BEAUTY DIET is a way of eating, not starving, and the tasteful, appetizing meals it contains require no extra planning or preparation! WASHINGTON

THE Political Pollsters ride again! . . . In spite of the spills they took predicting Dewey to beat Truman in '48, they're galloping along merrily . . . One Capitol Hill forecaster sees the Republicans winning six seats in the Senate, just enough to cause a confusing tie . . . The present division is 54 Democrats to 42 Republicans . . . In the words of the sports writers, he lists GOP pick-up as follows:

Penna.—Duff over Meyers
Calif.—Dixon over Douglas
Conn.—Talbert over McMahon
Bush over Benton
Okla.—Alexander over Monroney
Idaho—Walker over D. Worth Clark

Fall election worries can give The Special Counsel to the President, Mr. Charles Murphy, a headache when he's at the office . . . And he has cause for headaches at home too . . . The Murphy household has been in an autumn turmoil.

The Murphys have three children . . . oldest daughter plays accordion in the Montgomery High School Band . . . Oldest boy, ten, a student at Woodside, plays cornet . . . Both play the piccolo, clarinet, piano, cornet, guitar AND fife.

"They get their musical talent out of thin air," sighs Mrs. Murphy. Neither she nor papa can play anything. "Our household's in an uproar! What with getting band uniforms ready and practicing different numbers on the different instruments!"

Mr. Murphy and Mr. Truman his boss, it seems, both have talented offspring . . . Further coincidence: Clark Clifford, Murphy's predecessor, also has a daughter who seriously considered a concert singing career until not long ago. A young Marine has talked her out of it and into marriage.

At an off-the-record campaign debate recently, Helen Gahagan Douglas heckled her Republican opponent for California's Senate seat, Rep. Richard Nixon. . . She lashed at him for the reactionary company he kept . . Nixon protested, "Why, Mrs. Douglas, listen to this letter I got"—He read a letter, offering him money for his campaign fund and heartiest support for his courageous fight. "That letter," bragged Nixon, "is signed Eleanor Roosevelt!"

He passed it around for examination . . . Mrs. Douglas looked crushed. To think that her old friend, Eleanor, was backing a Republican! . . . Nor did she laugh with the rest of the audience when Nixon took an envelope from his pocket and showed the postmark—Oyster Bay . . . He explained that this Eleanor Roosevelt was Eleanor Butler Roosevelt, widow of Col. Theodore Roosevelt. Although she has every right to call herself Eleanor Roosevelt she wasn't Helen Gahagan Douglas' Eleanor Roosevelt.

Windmills may whirl into fashion . . . I don't mean "windmills" is a name for a new style hat, skirt of brassiere . . . No, I mean the kind they have in Holland.

Scientists, called to Washington by the President's Water Resources Board Chairman, Leland Olds, have presented lengthy technical reports seriously proving that the wind should be harnessed to produce electric power . . . Including diagrams showing how it would be possible to produce constant electric power in every state . . . simply by building huge windmills.

Now if we build windmills for electric power, and fly around the sky making rain, some of these big Government dams could be put up for sale as summer resorts.

Senator O'Mahoney, for instance, argues that, "it's only a question of time before rain-making will be an accomplished fact like big power dams and reclamation ditches . . . We'll probably even come to deciding whether we'll have 'Government Rain' or 'Free Enterprise Rain'."

As soon as Congress gets back, Senator O'Mahoney and his Committee on Interior and Insular Affairs will press for bigger and better and more rain-making.

Also for making fresh water out of salt water.

As yet they have no plans for desalting the ocean—the old fogies.

County Roads Cost $59,830.20 In Past Quarter

Chapman Reports To Commissioners

A total of $59,830.20 was spent by the Allegany County Roads Department during the quarter running from July 1 through September 30, J. Walker Chapman, county purchasing agent and storekeeper, has reported to the Board of County Commissioners.

In a recapitulation of the purchases, Walker pointed out gas, fuel oil, oil and grease, tires, batteries, parts and labor cost the county $7,568.74, an average of $2,522.91 a month or $128.28 a day.

The overall totals, including the $7,568.74, in addition to purchases of tools, miscellaneous, materials on roads, labor on roads, vacation pay and sick pay, amounted to $59,830.20 or an average of $19,943.40 a month and $1,014.07 a day for the period from July 1 to September 30.

In his report on purchases, Chapman listed the following: Roads—bridges, $16,643.45, the largest single expenditure of $5,210.40 going to the Cumberland Contracting Company; equipment, $7,968.89; tools, $66.97; miscellaneous, $2,993.44; for a total of $27,672.75.

Expenses for equipment were listed like this: Gas-oil. $3,280.14; tires, $566.80; battery, $13.16; parts, $1,083.88; labor, $1,724.76 for a grand total of $7,568.74.

The report shows $16,643.45 spent on materials for roads; and $31,651.60 on labor for roads.

Potomac Coach Line Makes Second Cut

Potomac Coach Lines now has sold its rights to operate a city bus service in Martinsburg, W. Va., to City Coach Lines.

Earlier this week Potomac Coach Lines announced discontinuance of its Cumberland to Berkeley Springs, W. Va., run effective November 4. The Martinsburg rights have been turned over to Floyd E. Wilburn, who reports the West Virginia Public Service Commission has approved the change.

MIRROR OF YOUR MIND

By LAWRENCE GOULD
Consulting Psychologist

Would your husband "leave you for a prettier woman"?

Answer: He might, but it's most unlikely that that would be his main reason. Moral issues apart, a man is most likely to leave his wife because he believes, however wrongly, that he has found someone who will be kinder to him than she is. His ideas of what kindness consists in may be utterly unreasonable and unrealistic, but that does not change the fact that in most cases it is his attempt to realize them that makes him unfaithful, and the "pretty face" which some wives regard as a menace is a secondary issue.

Can hypnotic memories be trusted?

Answer: Much better than waking ones, writes Dr. Robert M. True in Science. A person who has been "regressed" by hypnosis to the point where he relives a period in his childhood will remember verifiable facts and events of that time with surprising accuracy. Eighty-three per cent of a group of men and women who were good hpynotic subjects could recall the day of the week on which Christmas or their birthdays came when they were 10, 7 and 4 years old although when awake they could not remember the date of recent events.

Will early illness make you hasty-tempered?

Answer: Yes, says Dr. George M. Stratton, University of California psychologist, on the basis of a study of 1000 students. People who have been through serious illness tend to become angry sooner and more violently than the average, and the earlier the illness came, the more hasty-tempered they are. A possible reason might be that a sense of insecurity makes you more prone to anger (in which fear is always the controlling factor), and that the less a child "understands" pain, the more frightening it will be to him

Music Makes Christmas

Can you imagine what Christmas would be without music—without "Holy Night" and the carols we love—without the "Halleluiah Chorus" from the "Messiah" —without "White Christmas"?

It's hard to imagine, isn't it? For music makes Christmas, Christmas is the birth of hope in the world, and music is the wings of hope.

There's a music gift for every member of the family—and for every pocketbook. You'll be amazed at the number of music gifts we have at the MUSIC SHOP. We'll be glad to show you items in which you are interested and to demonstrate them.

If you are undecided on what particular gift would most please your son, daughter, parent, friend—or yourself, perhaps the solution is a "gift certificate", or similar arrangement, which enables the recipient to make his or her own selection.

Give a music gift this Christmas. It will be a constant reminder of your thoughtfulness.

Truck Lights Probed In Crash

State Trooper Charles H. DeWitt is investigating to determine if improper lighting on the rear of a truck with which the automobile of Charles E. Stanton, 41, Grantsville, collided was a factor in Stanton's fatal crash.

The truck was driven by Herbert Clifford Layman, 45, also of Grantsville. The crash occurred last Thursday night.

Servies for Stanton, husband of the former Miss Pearl Hershberger, were held Sunday afternoon with Rev. George Ely, pastor of Grantsville Reformed Church, and Rev. L. N. Wilson, Berlin, Pa., former local pastor, officiating.

Military honors for the World War II veteran were accorded at the grave in Grantsville Cemetery by Post No. 214, American Legion, with Commander Wayne H. Durst in charge. Chaplain Ray Jenkins read the burial rites and colorbearers included Edgar Bender and Randall Wiley. Color guards were Fay L. Miller and Darrell Stahl.

The firing squad was composed of Elbert Buckle, Paul Durst, Mark Miller, Guy Frickey, James Edwards and William H. Durst. Paul Lichty, Salisbury, and Michael Murray sounded taps.

Active pallbearers were D. W. Hershberger, Elwood Klotz, Clayton Edwards, Thomas and Charles Bender and Charles Keller, members of Camp No. 41, W.O.W. Honorary pallbearers included H. L. Pettit, C. O. Bender, Cecil Brenneman, Henry Patton, William Baker and Ralph Glotfelty.

Out of town relatives attending were Brig. Gen. and Mrs. W. H. Powell, Alexandria, Va.; Mr. and Mrs. Paul Stanton and Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Gnagey, Baltimore; Mr. and Mrs. Harvey H. Stanton, Aurora, W. Va.; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Stanton, Huntington, W. Va.; Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Parsons, Salisbury; Harry Gnagey and son, Elmer, Warren, Pa.; Harry Donner, Pittsburgh; Mr. and Mrs. Howard Gnagey, Mr. and Mrs. Stanton Funk and daughter, Helen, Washington, Pa.; Mr. and Mrs. Markel Stanton, Cumberland; W. E. Hershberger and sons, Milton Ray and William, Meyersdale, Pa.; Mr. and Mrs. William Gnagey and family, St. Paul; Mr. and Mrs. Norman Gnagey, Claysville, Pa.; Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Keim and family and Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Livengood, Salisbury; Mrs. Homer Gnagey and family, Boynton, Pa., and Mrs. Nell Zeller and Mrs. James Lemmert, Frostburg.

Other prize winners in South Cumberland were not available at midnight, and are to be announced later, committee members said.

Barton Children Give Away Apples

BARTON — Persons answering door bells here last night were surprised to find that instead of being greeted by pranksters they were given apples as part of Barton High School's "safe" Halloween program.

The senior class distributed apples in the community instead of the usual "Trick or Treat" custom. The junior class previously held a parade through the business district with 125 mummers taking part.

Prizes donated by Barton Post No. 189, American Legion, and its auxiliary and Barton Hose Company No. 1 and its auxiliary were awarded to Shirley and Elizabeth Miller, Linda and Sandra Kyle, Mrs. Paul Miller and Raymond Miller and Earl Kyle.

The senior class was awarded the best float prize. It represented the Halloween season and carried a witch impersonated by Wilma Winters. The float was driven by Arnold Tichnell. Judges were Mrs. Joseph Shuhart, Jr., Mrs. Jesse Kimble, and Samuel Berry.

DAR Anniversary Noted At Keyser

KEYSER, W. Va. — The Potomac Valley Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, met recently at the home of Miss Hallie Sayre. The co-hostesses were Miss Daisy Lowry, Mrs. A. A. Jordan, Mrs. H. M. Wells and Mrs. J. R. Norman.

Mrs. Eltin D. Gourley, regent, opened the meeting. Mrs. Walter A. Jaworek read the president general's message which recounted the 60 years of patriotic service the society has given America. The formal organization date was October 12, 1890.

The social hour was a birthday party for the founding of the society. The table was covered with a crocheted cloth with the decorated birthday cake surrounded by small candles on a crystal platter at one end and a mirror flanked by crystal candelabra with pink tapers and topped by a bud vase containing a single pink rose at the other end.

Present besides the hostesses and regent were: Mesdames Margaret Jordan Reeves, Lee Williams, J. C. Sanders, James G. Wright, Huntley Hoffman, J. H. Dean, J. H. A. Brown, George Loy, J. F. Richards, Walter A. Jaworek, P. E. Holly, J. W. Ervin and the Misses Myrtle Blackburn, Lilly Wagoner, May Davis, Frances Davis and Pauline Gelwicks.

Housework Easy Without Nagging Backache

As we get older, stress and strain, overexertion, excessive smoking or exposure to cold sometimes slows down kidney function. This may lead many folks to complain of nagging backache, loss of pep and energy, headaches and dizziness. Getting up nights or frequent passages may result from minor bladder irritations due to cold, dampness or dietary indiscretions.

If your discomforts are due to these causes, don't wait, try Doan's Pills, a mild diuretic. Used successfully by millions for over 50 years. While these symptoms may often otherwise occur, it's amazing how many times Doan's give happy relief — help the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters flush out waste. Get Doan's Pills today!

10 Gubernatorial Contests Nov. 7 To Bear Watching

By D. HAROLD OLIVER

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The political fortunes of many a nationally-known figure will be at stake Nov. 7 when 32 states elect governors.

For some governorship candidates, the result will decide whether or not they are considered for presidential or vice-presidential nominations in 1952, or have a say in naming those slates.

Voter interest naturally turns first in non-presidential election years to which party is going to win control of the new Congress.

But when it is recalled that 13 of the nation's presidents previously served their states as governors, these races assume a significance that overlaps state borders.

At least 10 gubernatorial contests will bear watching this time. Not all of them have 1952 angles, of course. But wrapped up in them are veteran political figures, new personalities including a woman, and intro-party rows such as those in New York and Pennsylvania.

Govs. Thomas E. Dewey of New York and Earl Warren of California, the GOP national nominees in 1948; Frank J. Lausche (D-Ohio), and Chester Bowles (D-Conn) are battling hard for reelection in a list of elections that in many cases overshadow interest in Conrgessional contests.

All except Bowles are seeking third terms. Two of them—Warren and Bowles—are opposed by men with prominent names. Warren's opponent is James Roosevelt, eldest son of the late FDR. He is seeking his first political office. Bowles, wartime price administrator, is challenged by Rep. John Davis Lodge, brother of Sen. Lodge and grandson of the late Henry Cabot Lodge, leader in the fight against the League of Nations.

Rep. Walter A. Lynch is battling Dewey in what observers on both sides regard as Dewey's toughest fight of his political life. Republican State Treasurer Don H. Ebright takes on Lausche in Ohio.

The other six state races attracting more than average attention are these:

Pennsylvania — Former Superior Court Judge John S. Fine (R) versus Richardson Dilworth, Philadelphia city treasurer.

Massachusetts — Gov. Paul A. Dever (D) versus Arthur W. Coolidge (R), cousin of the late President Calvin Coolidge.

Arizona — Mrs. Ann Frohmiller (D), state auditor for 24 years, versus Howard Pyle (R), Phoenix radio executive.

Maryland—Gov. William Preston Lane, Jr. (D) versus Theodore R. McKeldin, former mayor of Baltimore.

Wisconsin—Walter J. Kohler (R), wealthy industrialist and son of the late former governor, versus Carl W. Thompson (D), national committeeman.

Altogether, 33 governorships are being filled this year. Maine started things off Sept. 11 by reelecting Gov. Frederick G. Payne, a Republican. Of the other governorships up for decision, 17 now are held by Democrats and 15 Republicans.

Another Delay In LaVale Water

In now appears that LaVale residents will have to wait until the end of the week before city water flows into their homes.

A spokesman indicated yesterday that three connections still had to be made. It will be "about the end of the week" before water flows through the pipes.

ON THE LINE

By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK (INS)—

THE PASSING show:

The invasion of Tibet by Chinese Reds poses many depressing questions for U. N. and the U. S. Shall we now fight half a billion Chinese to protect the theocracy of Lingerh Lamutanchu, the young Dalai Lama? We were appalled by the very prospect of fighting Chinese in Korea.

Is there a parallel between this new act of aggression and the one which we nobly contested in Korea to the tune of more than 100,000 American, South Korean, British, and Australian casualties—and billions of dollars?

Tibet is not a member of the United Nations and therefore is not eligible for certain of its boons. But doesn't the Charter of U. N. provide that non-members may appeal for protection against an imperialistic neighbor and U. N. is duty bound to do something about it? Even if the truculent neighbor also is a non-member.

Whether or not the entrance of Chinese troops into Tibet is an invasion probably will be argued at Lake Success until Mao is having a dinner of curds and yak s aks in the Potala, the fabled fortress-palace of the Dalai Lama and his ministers.

Tibet has not always been as remote as James Hilton painted it. The British, Chinese and Russians have sent forces against it in the 20th century. The Anglo-Russian convention of 1907 recognized Chinese control over this sky-scraping land, whose population is about half that of New York City. But when the Chinese revolution erupted in 1911 the Tibetans drove China's occupation forces out of Lhasa.

In World War One, the Tibetan government offered the British 1,000 troops, and as a result Britain since has been about the only foreign influence existing in the land whose very nature and customs militate against familiarity or control.

China tried to gain another foothold in a peaceful way under Chiang Kai-Shek. Now under Mao, China is doing it with force. That sweet dreamer of India, Pandit Nehru, refused to believe ill of Chinese Red intentions when he received the first reports. But now that the Reds are on the march and threaten to absorb what was the chief buffer between India and the Communist world, Nehru probably will be the first to squawk to U. N.

If U. N. decides to do something about it, the U. S. will have the main part of the job. But do our military men believe we can beat the limitless manpower of China on a battleground that possesses no targets for our air force, no area in which our navy can operate, and little foothold for our armored divisions?

But if U. N. decides to sit this one out, isn't it thus encouraging Communist armies to move into whatever lands are too inconvenient to defend?

If anyone has wondered how the New York Police Department was able to round up more than 500 hoodlums in the first few days of the move by ruggedly independent Vincent Impellitteri to insure an "election without terror," this is partly the answer:

Most of the bums dress alike. They wear an almost standardized outfit. It consists of a jacket about as long as an old zoot suit coat and trousers on the narrow side around the cuff.

The shirt is colored, with a Hollywood-type collar, always buttoned. No tie. The shoes often are a dark suede. The hat has a rather wide brim and is turned up all around. A cigar is a required ornament. The palor of the face is an inch deep, and the eyes are those of a cod.

The well-scrubbed hoboes frequent the bars, quick-and-dirties and fleabags adjacent to Broadway. They were about as hard to find as Times Square, and about as brassy. The city smells considerably better with them off the streets.

Point five, in the government six-point program relating to how to survive an enemy a-bomb attack says "stick to . . . bottled beverages."

(REG. U.S. PAT. OFF.)
VOL. LV NO. 14

There are 96 members of the United States Senate. In April of 1950 Time Magazine singled out the ten leading members. One of these was Millard E. Tydings of Maryland. Nobody was surprised to see his name on the list. He has served with distinction in the Senate for 24 years. During that time, his energy, his independence and his ability have won him the respect of Democrats and Republicans alike. He's a good man in a good spot in critical times like these.

1. Tydings is 3rd ranking senior member of the Senate.
2. Tydings is Chairman of the Armed Services Committee.
3. Tydings is a member of the Joint Committee on Atomic Energy and the Foreign Affairs Committee.
4. Tydings has introduced and fought for more defense legislation than any other member of the Senate.
5. Tydings is one of the most forthright and independent men in Congress. He has never been the errand boy of any administration. He has consistently fought for the things he believes in.
6. Tydings served with distinction in World War I. He was awarded the Distinguished Service Cross for heroism in combat.
7. In the Senate Tydings has faced some of this country's gravest problems, yet he has never been too preoccupied or too busy to deal with matters which concern the people of his own state.
8. Tydings brings a lifetime of experience to his job. He is a lawyer, an engineer, a former soldier, and a statesman. He's a good man in a good spot in critical times like these.

Gunter Is Campaigning For State Office Without Asking For Votes

William A. Gunter, Cumberland attorney who is running for attorney general of Maryland on the Republican ticket, expects to finish the 1950 campaign without asking anyone to vote for him.

It occurred to Gunter about a week ago that he had yet to solicit a vote, and looking back upon a primary which he won by 15,000 votes, he decided that maybe this unpremeditated tactic was an effective one.

As lead-off speaker at rallies, he never mentions his own candidacy. He devotes half of his speech to lauding Theodore R. McKeldin, his party's choice for governor, and the remainder to John M. Butler, the senatorial nominee.

There are no Gunter signs, no Gunter pictures, no Gunter buttons, no Gunter "literature" in the campaign. He says he is quite content to be "that other man," because political stumping "can be so much fun."

Gunter contrives to remain apart from the bustle and turmoil that characterizes the McKeldin-Butler type of vote-getting.

While his running mates zoom from one prospective voter to another, handing out cards and shaking hands, Gunter sidles off to some lonely looking person and begins an intimate chat.

McKeldin and Butler easily brush through an entire packing plant while he is engaged in conversation with one oyster shucker.

"What's the use of running for office, if you don't have any fun?" he asks.

A "big "corporation" lawyer who had been out of politics for more than 20 years, Gunter was advised by his friends that labor would squash him in his own county if he ran.

"The most satisfaction I got out of the whole campaign was in watching the returns from Allegany county in the primary," he said. "I got 8,369 votes, and my opponent had only 1,186."

A native of Frostburg and a graduate of Dickinson College. Gunter began practicing law here 35 years ago. He served one term in the State Senate in 1927, and had not engaged in active politics until he filed this year.

He practices law with D. Lindley Sloan, former chief judge of the Maryland Court of Appeals, and his son, William A. Gunter, Jr.

Garrett Grand Jury Gets Special Call

The case against Claude Selby, 23, Friendsville, charged with shooting District Game Warden Theodore Thoerig, 37, Mt. Savage, last Saturday, is one that will be considered at a special session of the Garrett county grand jury at 10 a. m. Friday.

Thoerig is recuperating at Allegany Hospital, where his condition last night was listed as "good." Associate Judge George Henderson issued the grand jury call yesterday.

Marriage Licenses Total 323 In Month

During October 323 marriage licenses, the majority obtained by couples from nearby states, were issued at the Court House, according to Clerk of Court Joseph E. Boden.

During the same period there were 12 divorce decrees issued in Circuit Court, which is reported to be lower than usual. These divorces were all to residents of Allegany county.

Premiere Movie Showing Sunday

A motion picture entitled "Again Pioneers," will be given its premiere in Cumberland and 99 other United States cities Sunday. The local showing, sponsored by the Cumberland Ministerium, will be presented at Centre Street Methodist Church at 7:30 p. m. Sunday.

"Again Pioneers" was produced at the MGM and Nassour studios by the Protestant Film Commission, which is supported by 19 major denominations and 13 interdenominational agencies. The Home Missions Council of North America cooperated in the production which was financed by boards of 14 denominations.

"This film will not only touch the heart of every American but will help to make clear the part the Christian Church is playing in safeguarding our democratic way of life from the sniping attacks of materialistic Communism by helping to strengthen the weak points in our social order," local ministers report. "The film is therefore of paramount interest to civic and community organizations as well as to the churches."

Education Week Program Planned

Morning discussions over the school's public address system will feature Fort Hill High School's observance of American Education Week, starting Sunday.

The topic for Monday, November 6, will be "Meaning of the Ballot" and will be discussed by Morgan C. Harris, state's attorney.

Wednesday will feature a talk by Earl E. Manges, local attorney, on "Responsibilities of the Citizen."

"Opportunity for All" will be presented by Mrs. Lucile Roeder, member of the City Council, on Thursday.

The series will be concluded Friday by Winfield H. Adam, secretary of the Y.M.C.A. His subject will be "Home, School, and Community Teamwork."

Barton Man Seeks Chief Clerk Post

David E. Kirk, 26, of Barton, applied for the position of chief clerk of Trial Magistrates' Court in Cumberland in a letter to the Allegany County Board of Commissioners.

Kirk has been operating a confectionery in Barton and also does some work for the Cumberland and Allegheny Gas Company. The board took no action as it has previously been reported that a successor to Charles Hyde, who resigned the post effective yesterday, will not be named until after the new board of county commissioners organizes early in December.

Liquor Board Opposes Request

A Class D beer license to Marian F. McLaughlin, trading as Glenora Inn, was denied yesterday by the Allegany County Liquor Control Board after residents of the Valley Road section where the place is situated expressed opposition.

The board cited numerous cases gainst the inn in refusing a license. Iembers particularly stressed that previous operators had been convicted of a number of violations of the liquor law and the place was open after hours and was some distance from police protection.

Communist China Revises Almanac For Red Cause

SAN FRANCISCO — (AP) — The Communists now have gotten around to revising the Chinese equivalent of the old farmer's almanac—and have put it to work for the cause.

The Peiping radio, in a broadcast heard by the Associated Press in San Francisco, said a new calendar (actually, from the description, an almanac rather than a simple calendar) has been compiled by the Peiping Research Society for Cultural and Scientific Knowledge.

Giving both lunar and solar years, it is intended to replace the old almanac known as "the emperor's calendar," based on the lunar cycle.

Used for centuries by peasants, the emperor's calendar is replete with feudal superstitions. Every household, or at least every hamlet, has a copy that is, or has been, religiously consulted before nearly every undertaking, such as planting crops, building houses, traveling, marrying or burying the dead.

Even now its sales have been 2,000,000 to 3,000,000 a year in north, northeast and northwest China alone, the Red broadcast said.

In coming up with their new substitute, the Communists have followed the old form on advice on dates "suitable for doing so-and-so." The nature of the advice has been changed, however.

The Red version gives "suggestions about agricultural work," advice on such subjects as production, household hygiene and the new Red marriage laws, instruction in how to write a letter, how to play group games and songs and proverbs.

A first printing of 1,000,000 copies is planned.

By GEORGE CORNELL

NEW YORK—(AP)—Raw and rugged campaign slugging is firing the East's pre-election battle—especially in politically important New York and Pennsylvania.

Long-time party loyalties, in some instances, have cracked under the strain.

With voting time only a week away, the most crucial struggles center in the big states with the biggest prizes. Combined results in the Empire and Keystone States could well swing the next Congress either to the Democrats or Republicans.

Both states also have a governorship and Senate seat at stake.

These factors, plus the airing of sensational charges of official corruption, are stirring intense public interest — evidenced by unusually high voting registration in the two states.

Also in the balance are the careers and political futures of two nationally powerful Republicans, Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York, and Gov. James H. Duff of Pennsylvania.

Other eastern states, notably Connecticut, also are generating considerable campaign fireworks. A surprising fight also has shaped up in normally Republican, normally calm New Hampshire.

Altogether, the six New England states, plus New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania, will fill 119 congressional posts, 55 of them now held by Democrats, 63 by Republicans, and one by the American Labor Party's coalition-beleaguered Vito Marcantonio of Manhattan.

Six Senate seats also are on the block in the region, four of them held by stiffly challenged Democrats.

As of today, here is how the picture stacked up in the eastern part of the country:

New York — Smoke still swirled from the hotly debated "Hanley Letter," which has supplied the Democrats with some of their most stinging campaign ammunition.

A Democratic-controlled U. S. Senate elections committee is investigating the affair, cited by state Democrats as evidence that Dewey snatched the governor's nomination from Lt. Gov. Joe R. Hanley by means of browbeating.

The letter, written by Hanley at the time he withdrew from the governor's race in Dewey's favor, said he had received "unalterable propositions" which would enable him to pay his debts if he agreed to run for the Senate instead.

Disclosure of the letter showed a sharp cleavage in the party, and poises a threat to the leadership of the two-times Presidential candidate on a national level.

Dewey's Democratic opponent, Rep. Walter A. Lynch, charges the incident demands Dewey's impeachments, and would keep Hanley from being seated in the Senate, if elected. Dewey retorts that the Democrats merely are trying to hide their own sins.

He accuses "Tammany crooks" of harboring a vast police graft and gambling setup, recently exposed in New York City. He pictures the letter affair as a "foul smear" being used by a "gang of scoundrels" trying to capture and disrupt an efficient, clean state government.

Hanley, echoing these charges, also is assailing his senatorial opponent, Incumbent Herbert H. Lehman, Democrat, as a leftist who is soft toward Communists. Lehman scoffs at the charge, terms Republicans a reactionary crowd that would stymie social progress.

Pennsylvania—Sparks of a series of grand jury probes coupled with an unhealed split in the GOP is sharpening the fight of Gov. Duff to unseat U. S, Senator Francis Myers, a New Deal and Fair Deal stalwart.

The Democrats are counting on a smouldering Republican rift to help them down Duff's Senate bid.

If they succeed, it would undermine Duff's wide party influence which has in the past earmarked him as a Presidential possibility.

Polish Mountain Homemakers Meet

A Halloween party will be held November 4 by the Polish Mountain Homemakers, who met recently at the camp club house.

Fire prevention and soil conservation were emphasized at the last meeting. As each of the 16 attending members answered roll call she read a phrase on fire prevention. Mrs. Russell O. Smith, president, read several articles on soil conservation. Then Mrs. J. Hartman, recreation chairman, directed a true and false game based on soil conservation statements. Most members answered correctly.

Forest Supervisor Brook Bodkin will show a fire prevention movie at the November 4 meeting. Guests at the last meeting were Mrs. Charles Crocks, Mrs. J. Teter and Mrs. John Teets.

Esther Circle Is Entertained

FORT ASHBY, W. Va. — Mrs. Daisy Davis, Mrs. Nannie Kline and Mrs. Mary Alkire were hostesses to the Esther Circle a recent evening at the home of Mrs. Davis.

Devotions were followed by a business session during which Mrs. Davis was elected president to replace Mrs. Pauline Adams, who resigned after holding the office for several years. The class presented Mrs. Adams with a sweater.

Others present were Mesdames Broome, Freda Frankland, Lola Wilson, Eva Richmond, Ethel Adams, Marjorie Wagoner, Elmira Borrer, Louise Wagoner, Mary Bennett, Nellie Welton, Pauline Adams, Edith Thompson, Ruth Deremer, Lola Dowden, Ethel Lotspeich, Clara May, Ruth Oates, Beatrice Jenkins, Hazel Troutman, Miss Flora Swecker and Miss Flora Brafford.

WINNER AND HER OWNER—Dr. H. C. Diehl, of the Hi-Rock Kennels, Frostburg, proudly poses with his Mad Cap Princess, winner in the 15 inch bitch class of the licensed field trial held yesterday by the Allegany Beagle Club. Mad Cap Princess came back high dog in the second series and remained first place hound in the finals. Four of the five winners in yesterday's final trial on the four-day program were owned by members of the Allegany Beagle Club.

Dr. Diehl's Beagle Wins Field Trial

Frostburg Owner's Mad Cap Princess Grabs Final Award

Mad Cap Princess, owned by Dr. H. C. Diehl, Frostburg, captured first prize in the 15 inch bitch class as the Allegany Beagle Club's second licensed field trial came to a close yesterday at the club grounds on the Barton Dairy Farm, McMullen highway.

It was a banner day for the local beagle club as four of the five winners in yesterday's trial were owned by members.

Grover's Hound Second

Si's Amawalk Lady, owned by Carl A. Grover, Altoona, Pa., placed second among the eight entries. Mr. Grover, well known in the AKC and on the board of the Futurity Committee of the AKC, is a member of the local organization.

Tin-Yan's Jingles, owned and handled by Samuel W. Connell, took third place.

Fourth place went to Chet's Honey Babe, owned by Mrs. H. M. Armstrong, Rawlings, Md., and reserve honors were captured by Weires' Trixie, owned by W. L. Weires, president of the club.

93 Beagles Entered

The trial was a success although there were only 93 entries in comparison to 163 last year. There are several more new clubs than last year which drew some of the entries nearer their homes.

Hounds were fed by a nationally known feed company whose representative, Mr. Loud, of Baltimore, helped in many ways.

"Cappy" Haller served meals during the trial and the club was fortunate in having the new addition to the club house finished in time to take care of the beaglers and visitors.

The results:

1. Mad Cap Princess; Hi-Rock Kennels, owner, Dr. H. C. Diehl, handler, with Tin-Yan's Jingles, Samuel W. Connell, owner and handler.
2. Weires' Trixie; W. L. Weires, owner and handler, with Si's Amawalk Lady; Carl A. Grover, owner and handler.

Flintstone High Booters Play Central To 0-0 Tie

WMI Leaders Blow Two Penalty Shots, Barton Wins, 4-0

Coach Augie Eichhorn's Flintstone High School booters battled the pace-setting Central High eleven to a scoreless tie and Barton High handed Bruce its fifth straight defeat, 4-0, in W. M. I. Soccer League contests played yesterday at Flintstone and Barton.

The scoreless deadlock, fourth in the league this season, failed to knock the Orange and Black out of first place. Coach Johnny Meyers' Lonaconing Tigers head the procession with nine points while Barton and Beall are tied for the runner-up spot with seven points each.

Miss Two Penalties

Central was given two opportunities to score from the penalty line but Don McKenzie and Bobby Cook missed their shots. The final whistle halted a Flintstone scoring threat with two players in possession of the ball inside the 10 yard mark and only the Central goalie between them and the uprights.

Goalie Carl Mallow, Ronnie Roland, Ted Peffinberger and Aubrey Mauzy played best for Flintstone while Don McIntyre, Gene Reiber and Tommy Kelly stood out for Central.

High Score For Season

Barton's four points against Bruce was the greatest number of tallies credited to a league team in the 14 games played this year. No team had scored more than two points prior to this contest.

The teams battled without a score until the 3rd quarter when Tom Clark counted on a free kick from 25 yards out and Harry Kyle registered on a shot from scrimmage. Bill Kirk booted a pair of goals for Coach Johnny Thomas' team in the final stanza.

Goalie Don Bean, Tom Clark, Bill Kirk and Harry Kyle of Barton and Bill McKenzie, Bill Howe and Louis Complesi of Bruce played best.

SMU, Army Rank 1-2 In Grid Poll

Ohio State Jumps Into 4th Position

NEW YORK, Oct. 31 (AP)—Southern Methodist and Army are one-two again this week in the Associated Press football poll—and "x" marks the big, round spot they're on.

These two unbeaten, untied leaders for national honors go against what stack up as their toughest assignments of the season in Saturday's games.

SMU's Mustangs, who have rolled up 184 points on five foes, will meet a big, fast Texas team at Austin. Texas' only defeat was a 14-13 decision to Oklahoma.

Army will risk a 25-game unbeaten streak against Pennsylvania,

Palmer Posts 65 To Equal Record In North, South

Five 67s Recorded In Opening Round

Johnny Palmer

Palmer, the chunky Badin, N. C., professional who ranks 11th in this year's money winning list, strung together seven birdies and 11 pars to equal the event record set 15 years ago by Paul Runyan when the old course had sand greens.

Palmer had plenty of company in the par pulverizing department as this 72-hole, $7,500 event got under way.

Five 67 shooters were only two strokes off his scorching pace. In all, 18 players broke 70 and 17 others had 70 or 71, making 35 under par 72 for the 6,952-yard country club layout.

Fourteen others weighed in with respectable par 72's.

The 67 group included former P.G.A. champion Jim Ferrier of San Francisco; S. E. (Ted) Bishop, former national amateur king from Weston, Mass.; Johnny Weitzel, Harrisburg, Pa.; Walter Burkemo, Franklin, Mich., the Michigan open champion, and Toby Lyons, Jamestown, N. Y.

Only three strokes out of the lead were eight men at 68, headed by defending champion Sam Snead of White Sulphur Springs, W. Va. His company at that figure included amateur star Frank Stranahan of Toledo, Ohio.

Twenty-seven states are represented on Army's football roster. Pennsylvania has the heaviest representation with ten players.

Bonus Rule Headed For Scrap Pile

Move To Kill High School Rule Beaten

By FRITZ HOWELL

CINCINNATI, Oct. 31 (AP)—Baseball's controversial bonus rule, still on the books despite two major league attempts to oust it, appeared headed for the ash heap today.

Elimination of the rule, adopted Feb. 15, 1947, won approval of the major-minor executive committee today following a proposal by the Jersey City club.

The committee will recommend that the major and minor leagues, at their December meetings in St. Petersburg, Fla., erase the entire bonus structure.

Another proposal, under which the two Philadelphia clubs joined in an attempt to remove the high school rule, was rejected by the committee at a closed session called and presided over by Commissioner A. B. Chandler.

Warning From Chandler

Chandler said "abrogation of the high school rule would be one of the biggest mistakes organized baseball could make." The regulation prevents teams from signing high school players until after they have graduated, or their original class has graduated.

Walter Mulbry, secretary of baseball, said the game was "nearer than ever before to doing something for the Pacific Coast League."

The coast loop, with attorney Leslie O'Connor making the plea, asked the major-minor committee to excuse it from the draft, and for other undisclosed special dispensations. O'Connor, former assistant to the late Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis, and Branch Rickey—whose tenure as president and general manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers expired last Saturday—engaged in a friendly but highly vocal debate over the Pacific Coast loop's request.

The Coast League request gets further airing tomorrow by the committee in an 11 a. m. session, following a 10 o'clock meeting on: "What to do about major league baseball broadcasts."

To Discuss Broadcasts

The broadcasts, blamed by the minors for an 8,000,000 drop in attendance this year, were discussed for only a minute or two today.

Mulbry said "there was quite a bit of discussion on whether the $975,000 derived from world series

Cadet Roberto Vinals of the Mexican army team, which has dominated the internationals here for three years, was second.

AHS Jayvees Defeat Keyser, 18-9, Dick Rank Scores Two Touchdowns

Whisler's Long Pass Sets Up Final Score

Dick Rank scored two touchdowns yesterday as Allegany High School's Jayvees notched their third victory of the football season at the expense of Keyser High School's Jayvees at Campobello. The score was 18-9.

In the opening period, Ellis Whisler passed 14 yards to Walter Bosley for the Campers' initial touchdown but Keyser came back in the same quarter to take a 7-6 lead when Alkire snatched G. Karras' pass in the end zone and G. Karras ran the extra point.

Rank ran 23 yards for the Blue and White's second score and Keyser trailed 12-9 at the halfway mark after scoring a safety.

The Campers sewed up the game in the third period when Rank pushed over from the one-yard mark following a series of plays after Whisler's 45-yard aerial to Jim Border had carried AHS to the KHS 27.

The game's outstanding players were Martin, Bosley, Rank, Ziler, Horton and Cecil of Allegany and Alkire, G. Karras, Stoutamyer and Rice of Keyser.

Keyser made 7 first downs to 6 for Allegany. Coach Jim Hosack's team completed two of five passes for 71 yards and piled up 178 yards on the ground. The West Virginians clicked four times in seven tries in the air for 61 yards and gained 167 yards overland.

The teams played a 6-6 tie in their initial meeting. Lineups:

St. Mary's	2	0	1.000
SS. Peter-Paul	1	1	.500
Allegany	0	1	.000
St. Patrick's	0	1	.000

Two games will be played in the Knights of Columbus Catholic Youth Football League today at 4 o'clock.

St. Patrick's "Little Irish", coached by Bill Buzzard and Ronnie Ingram, will clash with St. Mary's "Flying Gaels," coached by Don Harden and Bill Decker, at Penn Avenue Field.

At Campobello, SS. Peter and Paul "Flying Dutchmen," tutored by Art Beaulieu and Norman Sell, will tackle the "Tiny" Campers of Allegany High, coached by Bill Spangler and Dick Cook.

Three games have been played in the league to date and the results were: St. Mary's 12, SS. Peter and Paul 8; SS. Peter and Paul 6, St. Patrick's 0 and St. Mary's 12, Allegany 7.

Winner Plays Frostburg

At the close of the season, the best of the three teams from the local Catholic schools will play a Frostburg team selected by Father Regis Larkin of St. Michael's Church Frostburg, for county junior honors. The date for this contest is Sunday, November 19.

The age limit of boys in this league is 14. A boy cannot play if he reaches his 15th birthday before September 1. No player who is above the 8th grade can compete. The field for games is 80 yards long and the games consist of four 8-minute quarters with 2 minute intermissions between quarters, 10 minutes between halves. Tennis shoes are the official shoes and all teams are uniformed. No player is permitted in game without helmet, shoulder pads, football pants and jersey of the color of his team. All players' parents must sign the permission card before a boy is eligible to play. Any boy weighing over 115 pounds is not permitted to play any backfield position.

Official high school rules govern all games. Fifteen yard penalties are reduced to 10 and five yard penalties to three yards. The ball is placed in play on the 30 yard line at the beginning of the game and at the beginning of the second half — also after a team scores.

If Game Ends In Tie

If a game ends in a tie, the teams will rest five minutes, toss coin and play is resumed on 30 yard line. At end of extra period if teams are still tied, first downs will decide the winner. Head linesman keeps officially tally of first downs.

Teams will forfeit games for the following infractions:

(a) Using ringers or other ineligibles. (b) Using players over age. (c) Teams showing up 29 minutes late for game, (d) Team walking off field before completion of game.

Here's the league schedule for the remainder of the season:

TODAY — St. Patrick's at St. Mary's, SS. Peter and Paul at Allegany.

SATURDAY, Nov. 4 — SS. Peter and Paul at Allegany, St. Mary's at SS. Peter and Paul (Two games at Campobello).

WEDNESDAY, Nov. 8 — Allegany at St. Mary's (Penn Avenue Field); SS. Peter and Paul at St. Patrick's (Campobello).

WEDNESDAY, Nov. 15 — St Mary's at SS. Peter and Paul (exhibition); St. Patrick's at Allegany.

NEW . . . fall-grade Anti-stalling Esso EXTRA Gasoline

A big new EXTRA at the Esso Sign

Helps prevent stalling* in your car!

NOW, FOR THE FIRST TIME IN MOTORING HISTORY — a revolutionary new fall-grade gasoline that resists stalling . . . annoying conk-outs at traffic lights or parking, and that sputter-and-stall trouble during the first few minutes of driving on damp, chilly days.

It's especially good in cars with AUTOMATIC TRANSMISSIONS—where restarting after stalling is more troublesome.

IT'S ANOTHER BIG EXTRA FOR YOUR MONEY IN ESSO EXTRA—the high-test gasoline long famous for quick starting, fast warm-up, high anti-knock power and long mileage! And Esso Extra is the ONLY premium gasoline with patented Esso Solvent Oil that fights harmful engine deposits.

Don't stall another day... try a tankful right away!

And when you're in, there's no better time to let your Esso Dealer give your car a complete check-up for the winter driving you'll be doing!

*Don't let this happen to you!

Stalling that occurs on cool, humid days (30° to 55° temperatures, humidity above 65%) is generally caused by carburetor "icing." Evaporation of the highly volatile gasolines required for modern cars has a refrigerating effect which freezes moisture out of the air, accumulating icy frost in the carburetor. New Fall-Grade Anti-Stalling Esso Extra Gasoline helps eliminate this cause of stalling, which is experienced with most cars on the road today. It will not, of course, prevent stalling caused by faulty carburetor adjustment or electrical failure.

Ben Hogan Voted Golfer Of Year, Snead Is Second

173 Cast Ballots, Texan Given 112

CHICAGO, Oct. 31 (AP) — Ben Hogan, 1950's gallant comebacker, today was voted the P.G.A.'s "Golfer of the Year."

Hogan was named 112 times in overwhelming support by 173 sports writers and radio sportscasters voting in the third annual Professional Golfers Association poll. Sam Snead, the 1949 award winner, was second, 43 votes behind the little Texan.

BEN HOGAN

Hogan and Snead were far ahead of any other candidates. Ballots also were cast for Lloyd Mangrum, Jim Ferrier, Jimmy Demaret, Jack Burke, Jr., Dick Metz, Henry Ransom and Chandler Harper.

Hogan's comeback from a near-fatal auto accident captured the golfing public fancy as nothing had done since Bobby Jones' grand slam. Last January, less than a year after his mishap, Hogan picked the Los Angeles Open to begin his campaign. After a 73 in the opening round, he fired three consecutive 69's to tie Snead for the title.

The following week he played in the Bing Crosby Invitational, then returned to Los Angeles for an 18-hole playoff with Sam. The leg-weary Hogan could muster only a 76 to Sam's 72.

Hogan next played in the Phoenix Open then went to the Masters at Augusta, where he finished fourth. Later at Greenbrier, Hogan shot rounds of 64-64-65-66 and tied the P.G.A. 72-hole record of 259 next he picked off third place in the Colonial Meet at Fort Worth.

Hogan climaxed his comeback by winning the National Open. The fritty little pro authored rounds of 72-69-72-74 — 287 over the rugged Merion Course to gain a three-way deadlock with Mangrum and George Fazio. In the playoff, he carved a 69 to win by four strokes.

Since the open, Hogan has played in only two tournaments, finishing 11th in each. He now is in Hollywood supervising the filming of his life, "Follow The Sun."

Presentation of "Golfer of the Year" award will be made at the president's dinner at the P.G.A. annual meeting in Chicago Nov. 13. Hogan won the honor in its first year, 1948.

The announcement was accompanied by an explanation given Kuhel by the New York Yankee general manager, George Weiss, that the organization in no manner blamed the manager for the poor showing made by the Blues this year.

Kuhel said he has no plans.

Unemployed Vet Loses Frostburg Home In Fire

Stove Explodes At Lewis Dwelling

FROSTBURG—A fire, caused by the explosion of an oil stove about 1 p. m., yesterday, completely destroyed the interior of a small two-room frame residence in Consolidation Village occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Russell Lewis and their two-year-old son James Russell Lewis, Jr. All the clothing and furniture owned by the occupants were so badly scorched to be unfit for use. Neither the house or the contents were covered by insurance.

When the fire started, Mrs. Lewis, 20, whose husband was not at home, was in the yard washing clothes and her young son was playing nearby. She was unaware of the fire until a neighbor saw the smoke and called the Frostburg Fire Department.

The firemen extinguished the blaze before it burned the outside of the structure, and assisted neighbors in carrying the damaged furniture from the building.

Lewis, 24, unemployed for several months, arrived at the scene of the fire shortly after the blaze was extinguished and assisted in carrying out the furniture, which consisted of the furnishings for a kitchen, and a combination living room and bed room, together with all the clothing the family owned except what they were wearing.

Lewis, a veteran of World War II, was at work today for Weimer Bros., for the first time in a long period since he was furloughed from the Celanese plant at Narrows, Va.

Mrs. Lois Jackson and Miss Kathleen McGraw, county health nurses were at the scene of the fire.

HOLLYWOOD
By LOUELLA PARSONS

Tyrone Power

HOLLYWOOD, Oct. 31 (INS)—Looks as if Tyrone Power will continue his globe-trotting. He was home only briefly after he made "An American Guerrilla In The Philippines." Then he took off for London for "Mister Roberts."

Now he's set to do "Beyond Time and Space" in London. After that, believe it or not, he goes to the Argentine to play a sort of South American cowboy in "The Way Of A Gaucho."

This will be a Henry King outdoor movie without the velvets and silks that Ty has worn in so many of his swashbuckling adventure stories. Henry already has sent a man to scout locations in the Argentine. He believes Ty, even though it's going to take him away from home again, will be enthusiastic about the story.

There will probably be a third Jolson picture. Harry Cohn has 22 songs Al recorded in the hopes that he, himself, would one day play the older Jolson. These are not in either "The Jolson Story" or "Jolson Sings Again."

Harry will do nothing, however, until he discusses the matter with Mrs. Jolson and gets her reaction and permission. Of course, there is the matter of getting Larry Parks. But since no pictures have ever brought him the fame of the two Jolson stories, I shouldn't think he would object. Besides, he owes Columbia a picture.

Chatter in Hollywood: Susan Peters has never given up hope that some day she could walk again. It has been almost four years that she has been confined to a wheel chair after the tragic accident in which she was injured while on a hunting trip with her ex-husband, Richard Quine.

Now doctors have advised her to undergo another operation, chiefly because she is suffering such intense pain in the nerve ends of her back. Susan, however, is hesitant about such an operation, and says she is going to try therapy first.

A sight I shall never forget was the late King of Sweden driving down a street in Stockhlom with his great-grandson, Prince Carl Gustav, in the car next to him. The contrast between the aging ruler and the little blonde boy, who was chattering like a magpie to his great-grandfather, was a picture.

The people of Stockholm loved Gustav, and he appeared among them without any great fanfare. It was wonderful to see the reception he received.

The little boy is their idol and it was so cute to see him waving and bowing with all the dignity of a grown person.

When Victor Mature refused to report to RKO on loan from his studio, 20th Century-Fox, a situation arose that has resulted in Vic's suspension by 20th.

The trouble started over the leg injury which Vic suffered several months ago while riding a motorcycle on location. He claims he still is incapacitated. The studio says he is well enough to work if he wants to, and so has taken him off the pay roll.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Marlon Brando is expected to announce his engagement to Celia Webb when he arrives in New York this coming week.

At La Rue were the Danny Kayes, Laurence Olivier, Doris and Nunnally Johnson. Vivien Leigh is on location in New Orleans. I thought Larry looked tired, and he said he'd been working hard to finish his picture.

I don't know how serious Marti Schenck, eldest daughter of the Nicholas Schencks, is about John Conte. But he's serious about her. He flew to Minneapolis, where she is appearing, to see her and talk things over.

Jimmy Durante is telling his friends in New York he is just plain homesick for Hollywood. Come on home, Jimmy—we miss you, too.

Sunday night June Havoc and Jimmy McHugh dedicated Frank Kerwin's new Wilshire Seacomber. Tomorrow night is the regular opening.

Hunt Stromberg Jr. has an option to make the life of Bernarr Macfadden, exponent of health and longevity.

That's all today. See you tomorrow!

Radio And Television

Small Program, Big Audience

ONE of the most inconspicuous little radio programs anywhere on the air and one of the pleasantest is Piano Playhouse which you'll find on the full ABC network (12:30 p. m. E.S.T. Sundays). This small program, simply a half hour of piano music, has an audience which will surprise the daylights out of you. Besides being broadcast all over this country, Piano Playhouse is heard in Japan, London, Rome, Australia, South America, Asia, Africa, the Far East and on the Armed Forces network all over the world. It even has a sponsor in Alaska.

Piano Playhouse gets letters from four corners of the globe, including Iron Curtain countries. It is supposed to reach an audience of 10,000,000 persons, though, of course, it's pretty hard to make any sort of accurate guess. The regular pianists on the program are Cy Walter and Stan Freeman, two well known names in the plush New York saloons, and they play as a two-piano team both concert and popular music in about even quantities. Guests have included some of the world's best pianists—Jesus Marie Sanroma, Abram Chasins, Eugene List, Andor Foldes, Teddy Wilson, Art Tatum, to name only a few. The comment is provided by Milton Cross who practically owns the field of music commentary.

John Crosby

Pretty Maggy Fisher who owns the show explains that all pianists are happy to get on her little show because it's one way to get a national and international audience without going on tour. And pianists, like comedians, want the largest audience they can get. Only two pianists have declined and both of them did so only because their feelings were hurt at not being asked sooner. All visiting pianists get the same amount of money, $1,000. They team up in all sorts of unusual combinations as duos, trios and quartets. (Piano Playhouse has also presented the Philharmonic Quartet.)

Miss Fisher thinks the popularity of her little show, which will be seven years old come Dec. 11, was inevitable. "After all," she says, "the piano is the world's most popular instrument. It has been estimated that one out of every ten homes has one." During the war when G I.'s were polled on their favorite programs, Piano Playhouse surprised everyone by showing up fourth on the list.

Miss Fisher thinks the show could be even more popular if it were on the air at a different time, something she has been battling for for seven years. "It's a sophisticated show," she says, "and it ought to be on at night."

• — • — •

I was talking to my friend Robert Mainwaring, a Scardale man who keeps his finger on the Westchester pulse for me, and he was very upset about the color television controversy. "You know what this color thing is going to do, don't you?" he announced belligerently. "It's going to drive folks right back into the saloons. We just got the people out of the saloons and back into their own homes, so many of them having their own sets now.

"Well, the barrooms are all going to install color television and everyone will go trooping back, drinking more than is good for them and staying up too late."

• — • — •

He tossed off his scotch and water, ordered another and continued morosely: "All that visiting back and forth. We got that to do all over again, too. The first man with a color set is going to have all the neighbors in fifty miles on his neck, eating up his food and drinking up his whiskey. It's socially deplorable. Instead of RCA suing CBS, the people ought to be suing."

He lowered his voice to a whisper. "And speaking of that suit, I have the straight inside dope on why RCA is doing it. Got it from a man in Wall Street who is the brother-in-law of an assistant sound engineer at NBC. The reason NBC doesn't want color television is that Milton Berle is actually bright green. NBC is afraid that a full color Miltie would scare the hell out of the children."

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

SMU, Army

beaten only by California and 30-7 conqueror of Navy last weekend. The game is at Philadelphia.

The SMU-Texas game is the only one matching two members of college football's first ten, chosen for the fifth week today by the nation's sports writers and broadcasters. Texas is No. 7.

Here is the new ranking, hardly disturbed at the top but given a good shaking down below:

SMU, Army, Oklahoma, Ohio State, Kentucky, California, Texas, Miami (Fla.), Princeton and Illinois.

Ohio State leaped from sixth to fourth on the strength of its awesome 83-21 rout of Iowa, dropping Kentucky and California down a notch.

Texas held firm at the seventh slot and three new teams moved in below, replacing Tennessee, Northwestern and Cornell.

Tennessee wasn't impressive in shading Washington and Lee, 27-20. Northwestern and Cornell fell from unbeaten ranks.

SMU gained favor by being idle last week, polling 153 first place votes and a total of 2,574 points on the basis of ten points for a No. 1 vote, nine for No. 2, etc.

The rankings, with first place votes in parentheses and points awarded on the basis of ten for first, nine for second, etc.:

radio and television broadcasts should be placed in the pension fund, and I have a hunch that's what will be done with it, although more talks are necessary before an action is taken."

A year ago the major league committee recommended elimination of the bonus rule, but the proposal was defeated at the minor league annual meeting. Later, following another major league request, Trautman conducted a mail vote and the "bushes" again voted to retain the regulation.

The bonus tag is placed on players signed for more than one year, those who receive more than a specific amount for signing, or those who get a portion of the purchase price when sold. They may be sent to a lower league for only one year, and are subject to unlimited draft through their careers.

Fast, Sudden Selling Again Beats Stock Prices Down

NEW YORK, Oct. 31 (AP)—Fast, sudden selling beat stock prices down again today.

Heavy liquidation hit the market in the last hour of trading. A similar wave of selling, intense and unexpected, flattened the market in the last hour Monday.

Losses today extended to around $3 a share before leading issues found a bottom. Final prices were a trifle above the extreme lows in most cases.

Sell orders expanded so rapidly late in the day that for 20 minutes the high-speed ticker tape ran behind in reporting transactions from the trading floor to the exchange.

Trading volume expanded to 2,010,000 shares from 1,790,000 Monday.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks lost 40 cents at $82.10 a share. This compared with a drop of 90 cents on Monday.

U. S. Steel closed 50 cents higher at $41.25.

Armco made a comeback after dropping $2.75 to $43.50 a share Monday. The stock gained more than $1 a share at one time but this was later reduced to 12 cents.

Consolidated Edison was another one of the few firm spots, moving up 87 cents to $30.12 a share following a boost in the quarterly dividend to 50 cents a share from 40 cents.

Among the losers were General Motors, Bethlehem Steel, Jones & Laughlin, Republic Steel, Chrysler, N. Y. Centrla, Curtis Publishing, Sunray Oil, Caterpillar Tractor, Douglas Aircraft, Zenith Radio, American Telephone, American Smelting, Dow Chemical, International Paper, Santa Fe, Nickel Plate, Texas Co., and Certain-teed

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

INCREASE THE CHANCES

WHATEVER contributes, in even the slightest degree, to the probability of making his contract is something a rubber bridge declarer should attempt. As contrasted with the duplicate player, who should attempt every move which favors his taking additional tricks, it behooves the rubber declarer to abandon every possibility of an extra trick if in doing so he increases his chance for the game or slam, or whatever he has bid.

South had no difficulty in reading, from the spade 9 lead, that East had the length in the suit. So he let that defender have the first two spade tricks and took the third with his A, to make sure that West would then have no more left to lead toward his partner. He was concentrating every resource upon making the contract, since his game was worth so much more than extra tricks above the line, especially since this game would close out the rubber.

The main danger confronting his contract was that East might regain the lead and run his last two spades. To reduce that chance to the minimum, he led the diamond 3 and came up with the A, refusing the finesse. That dropped the K, whereupon East called him a lucky stiff. He proceeded then to run his established tricks, taking eleven all told.

With the last two tricks given up to the defense, he volunteered a simple lesson to East. He was not, he said, trying to drop the singleton diamond K. His sole purpose in playing that way was to increase the chances that East would be kept from regaining the lead. He could afford to lose to the diamond K if West had it, so cared not for the extra trick which might come from a successful finesse. Playing the A on the first round gave him the very slight added chance of success which would be provided if East had the K unguarded. His soundness paid heavy dividends by winning the rubber.

30,000 Turn Out To See Mummers

South End, College Floats Win Prizes

It was an ideal autumn night with temperatures in the high sixties that brought out an estimated crowd of 30,000 or more people from the Tri-State area to view and take part in the annual Halloween mummers parade sponsored by the 40 and 8.

Starting on Virginia Avenue, the parade comprised 16 divisions of bands, drum corps, floats, fire companies and every conceivable type of costume and get-up from the sublime to the ridiculous, from the beautiful to the grotesque, and many others for the sheer fun of just "dressing up."

Winding its way toward the uptown section, the long route of march served to slow the parade considerably and it was a half hour late reaching Baltimore Street.

Parked Cars A Hindrance

Along North Centre and North Mechanic Streets, marching units and floats had considerable difficulty because of parked automobiles on both sides of the street. On North Mechanic Street especially, just south of the Market Street intersection, six large floats had to stop and get help in coming down the narrow thoroughfare. Two floats hung up on parked cars.

Industrial expansion in the area, to create jobs for the unemployed, was given a terrific piece of publicity last night in the Halloween parade, with the appearance of over 100 girls and women from the Frostburg Pajama Factory.

Marching in two long files behind the Frostburg band, the girls wore pajamas made in the Frostburg plant.

A sign preceding them urged the public to support the current drive to raise funds for the expansion of the plant.

Higher Taxes Not Necessary, Snyder Charges

Administration Aids USSR, He Says

BELINGTON, W. Va.—When the Truman Administration tells the American people this nation cannot be strong unless the people make more and more sacrifices by paying more and more of their wages for taxes, it is playing right into the hands of the Russian rulers who would like to "see this country milked dry and made weaker."

The statement was made last night by Melvin C. Snyder, Republican candidate for Congress, who declared "every taxpayer in the United States can be given a break and more take-home pay without hurting the defense plans of this nation at all."

The Kingwood attorney and veteran of two World Wars said America's greatest selling point abroad is her un-matched standard of living, but that this standard of living is dropping as fast as taxes and the cost of living increase.

"How wonderful it must be for Stalin and company when they can say the American people can no longer afford the necessities of life and the luxuries of which they have always been proud. How wonderful it must be for our enemies to see every American struggling to make ends meet.

"If the Government of the United States were to sacrifice many of the foolish enterprises in which the office-holder like to indulge, desperately needed money would be released for defense purposes at no extra cost to the taxpayer, who now is carrying more than he can stand," Snyder said.

These sums are tremendous, Snyder added, but the Truman Administration cannot release them because they help keep the Administration in power through "the Missouri Gang's spoils system."

Saying that his opponent, Harley Staggers, never offered anything in the way of tax legislation except a bill to raise the pay of Administration tax collectors, Snyder said that if he is elected "I will make it my first item of business to cut out the deadwood around Washington offices, and work to get some relief forthe wage earners, farmers, and small business men whose backs are being broken by the tax load."

Absentee Voting Rules Explained

Application forms for absentee ballots for the November 7 election are available with the Board of Election Supervisors here, or from the Secretary of State of Maryland, Annapolis.

Patrick F. King, clerk to the election board of this county, said he has sent out 14 absentee ballots thus far, and there may be more applications received.

Under the regulations pertaining to absentee voting, officials explain, ballots are available to any resident of Maryland qualified under the Constitution as to age, citizenship and length of residence and not disqualified because of crime, and who are absent and engaged in military or naval service of the United States, members of the Merchant Marine, War Shipping Administration, American Red Cross, Society of Friends, The Women's Auxiliary, Service Pilots and U. Any friend or relative of an absentee voter can request an application for the ballots. However, only the qualified voter himself can request the ballot.

The applications, in the form of cards, may be obtained from King or the Secretary of State, sent to the absentee voter, who must return it to the Secretary of State. He in turn forwards it to King who mails the ballot.
